Cape Wolfe Is Selected Centennial Community In Island-Wide Contest

Cape Wolfe, about 12 miles west of O'Leary, has been awarded first prize of $500 in the 1964 Bural Beautiful Centennial Competition and has been named the Centennial Community of Prince Edward Island. Announcement of the award was made by the judges at a meeting of the Society this week.

Hon. J. David Stewart, minister of tourism, announced earlier in the year, when the terms of the contest were released, that the community winning first prize in the Centennial Competition would become the Centennial Community of 1964 and an aerial photograph in natural color would be taken of the community and featured in the island's tourist literature the following year.

A total of 30 communities entered the competition. Other winners included: Harrington, second place ($400); Spring Valley, third place ($300); St. Teresa, fourth place ($200); Cape Edmont, fifth place ($100). In addition, a bonus of $500 has been awarded to the community of York for the greatest improvement in its roadside entrances in the community.

In announcing the awards the judges, Edwin C. Johnston, Mrs. Gordon MacMillan and David L. Schurman, stated that all 30 entries did something to improve the appearance of the Cape Wolfe for the extraordinary and almost unbelievable transformation of its entire area. Nothing short of sensational! was their verdict.

Let 16, Kevin Grove, South Preston, Long River, Frederickton, North Milton, South Milton, Brackley Point, Alberton, Pleasant Pleasant and East Baltic were singled out by the judges for honorable mention.

In awarding first place honors to Cape Wolfe the judges outlined some of the remarkable achievements which were effected by that community. All public buildings and properties of the church, the school, community hall and two cemeteries were repainted, and redecorated, and the grounds landscaped with concrete walks, lawns and attractive fences. Every public building was identified by a sign.

Some idea of the magnitude of the greatest improvement was gained by pointing out that in one cemetery every headstone and marker was removed to an adjoining pasture and the grounds of the cemetery levelled, re-seeded and landscaped. Then all the headstones were carried back, reset in their proper positions and a beautiful new fence was erected about the whole. To complete the job a flag pole was erected and a modern sign identifying the cemetery was installed.

HOME-OWNERS AIDED
Besides the work done by the community as a whole, a large percentage of the homeowners in the district set about improving their own premises by painting or whitewashing their homes, removing unsightly buildings, planting flowers and other general improvements. Homes and other buildings which had not seen paint in decades suddenly became objects of beauty by a new coat of paint or whitewash.

Commons Expresses Loyalty

By STEWART MACLEOD
OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons Friday expressed its "deepest loyalty, affection and respect" for the Queen and the members rose from their seats and loudly sang "God Save Her Queen."

One Creditrite member stayed in his seat.
The message of loyalty to the Queen, moved by Prime Minister Pearson and seconded by Opposition Leader Diefenbaker, expressed "our heartfelt appreciation" for her recent visit to Charlottetown, Quebec and the members rose to sing "God Save the Queen." Lucien Plourde (Creditrite-Quebec West) remained in his seat, and he later told a French speaking reporter that while he was not against the Queen, he would rise only for Canada.

"I am a citizen of the province of Quebec and a Canadian subject, not a British subject. I would have risen for Canada."

"This does not mean that I am against the Queen. On the contrary I am in favor of hospitality and I oppose, for example, the actions of the terrorists who try to mislead our youth from reasonable objectives. It is the newspapers and the CBC who are helping them (the terrorists)."

Harold Wilson Becomes Britain's Prime Minister

By JOSEPH MACSWEEEN
LONDON (CP)—Harold Wilson, the 48-year-old Yorkshireman with the computer-like brain, became Britain's 44th prime minister Friday after leading his Labor party to a knit-edge election victory.

Power shifted from Conservative to socialist hands after one of the most dramatic general election finishes that Britain has seen, putting an uneasy finality to 13 years of Tory rule.
The Queen called Wilson, the youngest British premier this year, to Buckingham Palace and asked him to form a government after she accepted the resignation of Sir Alec Douglas-Home, 61, who had been prime minister for one year less a day.

The ceremony of "kissing hands" with the Queen completed, Wilson rose into his new job with characteristic energy. Preparing for his first television appearance as premier, he remained to be reported following Thursday's general election for the last House of Commons had 317 seats compared with 303 for the Tories and nine for the Liberals.

He wrote the music and lyrics for such Broadway shows as The Gay Divorcee, Anything Goes, Red, Hot and Blue, Sorry to Bother You, Kiss Me Kate, Can Can, and his last, in 1955, Six Stockings.

He had been retired since 1958, still reaping the riches from royalties for such songs as True Love, What Is This, Thing Called Love?, My Heart Belongs to Daddy. You'd be the key post of foreign minister, he named Patrick Gordon Walker, a party stalwart who failed to win election to the Commons.

Another Election Forecast

Walker, 57, a former history tutor at Oxford, is expected to run again in a by-election in a safe Labor district which has an obdurate incumbent, newly-elected, would be asked to resign.

As expected, Wilson named Deputy Party Leader, George Brown, 54, one Wilson's rival for power, as first secretary of state and minister for economic affairs post and he will be acting prime minister when Wilson is out of the country.
James Callaghan, 50, another rival to succeed the Labor party leader, Hugh Gaitskell, 47, an advocate of "East-West disengagement in Europe, became defence minister.

Lord Gardiner, was put in charge of the judiciary as lord Chancellor. Herbert Bowden became lord president of the council, which makes him leader of the House of Commons, and Edward Short, 62, became party whip, who places on him the responsibility of keeping Labor's narrow majority in line 30 cabinet members are expected to be appointed within a few days.

Reminder Seen To Soviet Union

From Reuters-AP
PEKING (CP)—China blasted its way into the world's nuclear club Friday and immediately called for a summit conference on the abolition of nuclear weapons.

The official announcement was distributed to jubilant Chinese who ran joyously through the streets of Peking.
The announcement, eight hours after the blast — which came at 9 p.m. 4 a.m. EDT gave no details of the bomb, but pledged China would never be the first to use nuclear weapons against other nations.

It called for an all-nation summit conference to discuss "complete prohibition and thorough destruction of nuclear weapons."
With the blast, China became the fifth member of the nuclear club behind the United States, Russia, Britain and France. Both France and China are expected to sign the test-ban treaty in Moscow in August, 1965 which was later approved by some 100 nations.

FOLLOWED NEWS
The announcement of the explosion came within 24 hours of the Moscow announcement of Russian Premier Nikita Khrushchev's replacement as head of the Soviet Communist party and government.

Observers said Friday's blast was a timely reminder to Khrushchev's successors China was determined to develop its own strength in all fields.
"They said, Chinese leaders also hoped to use the success of full explosion to increase their political influence in Asia and Africa."
The government announcement called it a "major step toward nuclear weapons."
The statement said: "The Communist Party of China solemnly declares that China will never at any time and under any conditions use nuclear weapons first to use nuclear weapons against the Chinese people can be trusted."

It said China had been forced to conduct nuclear tests and develop nuclear weapons.
CONFIRMED BY U.S.
The United States confirmed Red China had exploded a "low-yield" nuclear test Friday. The test was said to be of military significance and should not be overestimated. He said a total of 15 years and much difficulty will be required before the Chinese could be said to have developed weapons and a delivery capability.

Peking's announcement gave no details of the test. The blast was underground, at the surface or in the atmosphere.

Khrushchev's Friends Go

Meanwhile, Soviet officials came to the fore as the former leader's top advisers — including his son-in-law Alexei Adzhub, chief secretary of the party newspaper Investia — have been dismissed from their posts.
A message in the party newspaper appeared Friday night saying that Khrushchev's first semi-public appearance since he was named to his new post.

But Brezhnev was not present at the reception honoring visiting Cuban President Osvaldo Dorticos.
NO EXPLANATION
There was no immediate explanation for the dismissals. A Soviet official confirmed Adzhub, well-known in the West, was no longer there. There was no longer chief editor, they were dismissed from their posts.

Premier Shaw Declares 'Positively Thrilled'

Premier W.R. Shaw on learning that Cape Wolfe had been named the Centennial Community of 1964 offered the following statement last night: "I am positively thrilled by the announcement because I like to offer my sincere congratulations to the good people of Cape Wolfe who worked so hard to bring this about. There was a remarkable achievement particularly when they faced such stiff competition all over the island, and their spirit of leadership, hard work and co-operation is an example to all other communities to follow. "I am proud of Cape Wolfe and I am confident that the award will be a source of pride to all other communities to follow. I have visited the community and personally congratulated all those who, by their hard work and perseverance, brought glory to themselves and to their community when they faced

Photograph Is Scheduled To Be Taken Next Summer

Commenting on the announcement that Cape Wolfe had been named the Centennial Community of 1964, the Hon. J. David Stewart, minister of tourism, said last night: "It could not have happened to a finer community. The residents of Cape Wolfe belong to a proud hard working race of people and their community efforts this year in the Centennial Competition is in keeping with a proud tradition. I wish to congratulate all those whose efforts contributed towards making this award possible. Unfortunately, due to the lateness of the season and the lack of good natural color, the aerial photograph which Cape Wolfe will not yet be taken until early next summer and consequently will be too late for inclusion in our 1965 tourist literature. However, Cape Wolfe will be taken and will be reproduced in our tourist literature for 1966.

Sad Hours, LBJ Says

CINCINNATI (AP)—President Johnson said here Friday the Chinese report that they had won one of its saddest hours in history when the Communist Chinese tested a "true nuclear weapon."

He told an election-campaign crowd in Washington earlier in a meeting with State Secretary Dean Rusk, Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara and other top officials that the Chinese detonated a nuclear weapon had been received.

Pravda Throws Book At Khrushchev

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda, Nikita S. Khrushchev's former newspaper, threw the book at him today.
The organ of the Communist party, in its first issue since the party's first in-party election, is a mixture of conclusions and half-decisions and actions, in individualistic bragging and phrase-mongering, commanding and unwillingness to account the achievements of science and practical experience.

UN Entry Should Be Made Soon

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin said Friday the question of Communist China's possible entry into the United Nations cannot long be postponed.

He added in reply to reporters' questions that the inclusion of a nuclear device by Red China emphasizes the importance of Chinese participation in disarmament discussions.
In the Commons, Mr. Martin stated government hopes no nation which signed the nuclear test ban treaty will use the test ban as an excuse to resume nuclear testing in the atmosphere of underwater.

On another prime time here Friday—the fall from power of Nikita Khrushchev, Mr. Martin told the Commons that Russia has assured Canada that there will be no change in Soviet foreign policy.

The minister said Russian Ambassador even told him that there would be no reversal of the policy of de-Stalinization.

Yanks Watch For Fallout

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. government's country-wide system for keeping tabs on radioactive fallout is on special alert to detect any "possible meaningful increase in atmospheric radioactivity as a result of China's nuclear blast."
The U.S. government said in a statement by the division of radiological health of the Atomic Energy Commission. However, a spokesman for the agency said: "This is a single explosion which will produce amounts of radioactivity in this country even less than the approaching levels which experienced during the 1961-1962 testing."
