Dorion Probe Uncovers Fresh Reprisal Fears

By DAVE MCINTOSH
OTTAWA (CP)—The man who arrested Lucien Rivard as the alleged kingpin in a mafia-narcotics conspiracy testified here that Raymond Rouleau, brother of Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, feared he or his children might be beaten up.
Ronald Crevier, sergeant-chief of the "Bourbon" RCMP "hotspot" narcotics squad until last October, said Raymond Rouleau didn't want it known he had been questioned by the RCMP in the Rivard affair.
He quoted the Montreal insurance adjuster as saying he had witnessed a beating at Rivard's Plage Ideale resort.
"He didn't want to see that thing happen to him or his children," Mr. Crevier said.
His testimony was another link in a long chain of evidence before the Dorion inquiry that several witnesses feared death or physical violence at the hands of Rivard's henchmen.
The inquiry is investigating allegations Rivard's release on bail was sought in part through a $20,000 bribe offer made by a federal ministerial aide to Pierre Lamontagne, a Montreal lawyer.
Mr. Lamontagne is acting for the U.S. government which wants Rivard, a known criminal extradited to Texas to face the narcotics conspiracy charges.

OLD AND NEW IN U.S. FIELD HOSPITALS

ARMY HOSPITAL, would be patients, nurses and orderlies take to the sun as they show just how much is packed in a box. This new hospital in a box was shown Wednesday by the Brooke Army Hospital at Antonio, Texas. This inflated hospital, background, and all the beds, tables, desk, chair and other equipment goes into the box at right. This mobile field hospital can be set up in 30 minutes. Thursday the U.S. Army was host to the House of Representatives, armed services committee and representatives of industry and medicine to show off this new hospital concept that the army wants for its strike units and thinks is a prime development for civil defence. THIS IS the type of field hospital with the modern inflatable hospital that the U.S. Army medical people hope to replace these old canvas tents, the new units would be controlled as to the temperature inside. Some army doctors say some men died in war because of stress of cold and heat added to the shock of their wounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Slim Pickings In 1964 For Fishing Records

NEW YORK (CP)—It was slim pickings in 1964 for fishermen in search of records.
The annual fishing awards of Field and Stream magazine, released in the March issue today, show only one mark equaled although some other anglers came close.
A five-pound Arctic grayling landed in Great Bear Lake in the Northwest Territories by Dr. Lawrence J. Wilchins of Cincinnati matched the record-holder caught in Great Slave Lake five years earlier. It fell for the popular Dardville spoon.
Other northern waters produced some tackle-busters.
A lake trout tipping the scales at 38 lbs. 9 oz. came from the Chantry inlet area of the Northwest Territories. L. T. Verner of Dallas, Tex., was the lucky angler.
The Tree River, flowing into Coronation Gulf north of Great Bear, continued to produce giant Arctic char. Biggest weighed 22 lbs. 12 oz. and was caught by Walter E. Pierce of Lemont, Ill., also of a Dardville. The record 24-pounder came from the Tree in 1962.
TROUT MAKE LIST
Three whopping brook trout got into the rankings, led by John Sharp's champ of 11 lbs. 3 oz. Sharp, of Oshawa, caught it from unnamed water in the Sudbury district on a minnow.
Two other brookies above 10 pounds came from Labrador fishermen. J. Gonthier of Montreal pulled one weighing 10 lbs. 5 oz. from the Kepimils and P. S. Moors of Montreal caught one two ounces heavier in the Atlinok. The rivers are close together about 200 miles northeast of Sept-Iles, Que.
Leonard Hartman of Ogdensburg, N.Y., continued his muskie mastery with five fish over 30 pounds. Tops was a 51-pounder. All came from the St. Lawrence River and all struck on a musky bug lure.
In northern pike, it was a tie for top honors. Fish of 31½ pounds were caught by Alvin I. Nelson of Champlain, Ill., in Hatchet Lake, Sask., and Roland Lafrancois of St. Paul L'ermite, Que., in Quebec's Pucotou Lake.
British Columbia's Duncan River, north of Kootenay Lake, produced a 20-pound Dolly Varden trout for William A. Gallicans of Nelson, who used a homemade lure with his spinning rig.
VICTORIANS WIN
Biggest silver (coho) salmon came from California and Washington rivers in the open division but for fly-casting it was Vancouver Island's Cowichan Bay hands down. Top three, all from Victoria, were Ernest Burrows, 18 lbs. 10 oz.; Bernie Longpre, 18 lbs. 6 oz.; Ralph D. Wherry, 15 lbs.
Top steelhead, or sea-going rainbow trout, was a 30½-pounder caught by Jim Conway of Portland, Ore., in the Babine River of Northern B.C. The Klippan River in the same area produced fish of 28 lbs. 19 oz. for George Cove of Phoenix, Ariz., and 25½ pounds for Terry McDermid of Hazelton, B.C.
Two notable walleyes came from Canadian waters. J. O. LeDuc of Nanaimo, B.C., caught one of 15 lbs. 3 oz. from Quebec's McLennan Lake and

Canada's Mineral Output Up 12 Per Cent In 1964

By KEN SMITH
Canadian Press Business Editor
TORONTO (CP)—The value of Canada's mineral output last year rose more than 12 per cent to a record $1,438,000,000—about double the production 10 years ago, W. S. Row, president of the Canadian Metal Mining Association, said Thursday.
He told the association's annual meeting that all parts of the country benefited from the increased activity. All segments of the industry except gold and uranium had higher returns.
At the same time, he warned the government against adopting any tax changes that could reduce the industry's effectiveness.
"Mining finance is international in character. Any indications that the Canadian climate would become less favorable for mining operations would soon be reflected in a diversion of investment capital to other countries."
The greatest care must be taken not to give even the appearance of making mining in Canada less attractive.
Concerning gold, Mr. Row, who also is president of Kerr Addison Gold Mines, said that unless "something remarkable happens" a further decline in output must be expected.
RESERVES EXHAUSTED
Important and long-time producers were closing down because their reserves were exhausted. Though some new gold mines were coming into production, it is not to be expected that their output will be enough to offset the losses suffered by mine closures.
Noting recent speculation that international financial emergencies would force an increase in the price of gold, Mr. Row said the interest "subsidized quickly when the United States treasury authorities announced that in no circumstances would the value of the American dollar be changed."
"However it remains to be seen whether and how long the present price of gold can be maintained under the pressures in which it becomes increasingly subject."
V. C. Washburn, association vice-president and chairman

NEW FLAG DEDICATED TO ALBERTON SCOUTS

Dedication of a new flag for the Alberton Boy Scout Troop was conducted Monday evening by Rev. Gerald Steale in the presence of Alberton Scouts and Cubs and the recently-organized Alberton South Sea Scouts of which Father Steale is scoutmaster. The new flag was dedicated to memory of Alberton troop's first King Scout, William Fraser, and Benjamin Proff, a Queen Scout of the troop. Both scouts died at the result of a highway accident. In a ceremony preceding the dedication Father Steale gave an address on the objects of scouting and outlined some of the activities of sea scouts which are identical to regular scouts but also have sea training. A story on scout bravery was read by Cub Master Henry O'Malley. Lord Baden Powell's last message to scouts was read by Scoutmaster Dean Carpenter. A first aid demonstration was given by the scouts and a drill demonstration was given by the sea scouts. A sing song around an indoor camp fire brought the program to a close. Pictured above are (left to right) Roger McNeill, Rev. Gerald Steale, Henry O'Malley, Dean Carpenter and Ricky Hardy.
