Industrial Change In Canada Seen Dramatic By Europeans

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

GENEVA PARK, Lake Couching, Ont. (CP)—Recent industrial change in Canada is as dramatic as anything that has occurred in Europe, Peter Munk, president of Clairtone Sound Corporation Ltd., Toronto, said Wednesday in an address to the summer conference of the Canadian Institute on Public Affairs.

The new outlook followed long years of sterility during which Canadian executives were content to be rich and comfortable selling natural resources and making products from the designs of others.

Mr. Munk, whose company in about three years has become a Canadian success story in high - fidelity products in both home and export markets, said the Canadian change has been one of "mind".

"In almost any field Canadians can produce industrial design on a par or superior to any existing," he said. "The problem is to put them across to enough people to make them desirable."

In research the great shortcoming had been not so much a matter of spending less money than other countries, as in attitudes. The National Research Council, for instance, had developed products for which it could not find a Canadian manufacturer, but which manufacturers of other countries picked up.

Now, he said, younger industrialists are not willing to take "no" for an answer "and we believe Canada will take as leading a role in world industry as any other member of the western community."

Mr. Munk dated the new dynamic attitude in Canadian industry from 1955.

He praised government measures for encouraging industry, such as those in the credit and tax incentive field.

Chairman H. Ian Macdonald assistant professor of economics, University of Toronto, described Mr. Munk as an example of the "classic entrepreneur," who literally created with his own hands the first high-fidelity set which had led to a company with sales of several million dollars a year.

The session topic was "industry in transition", and other main speakers were Rudolf Meimberg, German economist and banker; and Charles L. Caccia, managing director, Italian chamber of commerce, Toronto.

Mr. Caccia said industrial growth in Italy has been far faster than expected. It was mostly in the north, resulting in internal immigration from the south. As a result seasonal labor had to be brought in from Spain and Greece to harvest crops in the south.

Mr. Meimberg described the German system as one in which government sets the "flavor" but decisions are made by private enterprise.

He said German industry must be outward - looking because two-thirds of its exports are outside Common Market countries. "It would be foolish for us to isolate ourselves and look only within the market."

Pardon Is Asked For Town Mayor

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 7,000 persons in suburban Jacques Cartier have signed a petition asking the federal government to erase their mayor's criminal record through a full pardon.

The population of the community on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River is about 50,000. Charles-Edouard Massicotte, petition organizer, said Wednesday the 188 canvassers have been impeded by four rainy days and he hopes the figure will be more than doubled before the end of the week.

A full pardon would allow Mayor Leo Remillard to remain in office and to run again despite new provincial legislation which disqualifies from municipal office for 20 years any person found guilty three times of offences punishable by five or more years in penitentiary.

A spokesman for the united citizens of Jacques Cartier, on the other hand, said his organization is seeking Mayor Remillard's dismissal and is considering taking legal action to obtain implementation of the provincial legislation in Mayor Remillards ease.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♠	Pass	2♥	Pass
3♠	Pass	4♠	Pass
5♠	Pass	5♦	Pass

Opening lead—four of hearts.

This hand was played in a women's pair championship. The bidding indicates North - South were not at all shy when it came to contracting for slams. North's five spade bid, coming on top of her two previous forward - going responses, showed she was not from the blushing violet school.

West, on lead, decided to open a heart rather than a club, hoping to put declarer under immediate pressure if she had a heart finesse to take. Of course, a club lead and club return would have beaten the slam immediately.

Declarer went up with the ace and drew three rounds of trumps ending in her hand. She then played a club to the queen which lost to the ace. West realized at once that she could have defeated the hand earlier if she had opened her singleton club, and, unable to contain herself, said aloud, "Sorry, partner."

The spontaneous remark was not lost upon South. Declarer realized immediately that West had started with a singleton club. So when East returned a heart, declarer ruffed, led a low diamond, and finessed the jack.

When the jack held, declarer played a club from dummy, and, backing her opinion, finessed the seven. She then played the king of diamonds to the ace and repeated the club finesse to make the slam.

Declarer would surely not have adopted this line of play but for West's remark. The unusual diamond finesse, followed by the double club finesse, both of which were necessary, would not have been taken if West had not let the cat out of the bag by apologizing instinctively to East. Perhaps the moral is that you should play bridge like a wooden Indian.

It is interesting to note that West could have removed from the contre=emps if she had played the queen of diamonds when South led the five. This would have cut off a vital entry to dummy and made it impossible for South to take more than one club finesse.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
