BLOOD BUILDING

Is the Process Carried Out by Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

They Make New Rich Blood, Which Makes Men Strong and Healthy—Banish Dyspepsia and Indigestion by Using Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The world has no room for weak, puny, useless men. The weakest must go to the wall.

The battle of life, the struggle for existence, the race for wealth, can never be won by bilious, querulous, complaining cranks.

The race is to the swift, the battle to the strong.

Waterloo was not won by bilious dyspeptics. The bullet-swept heights of Alma were not stormed by thin-blooded, pale invalids. Khartoum was not taken by men who were suffering from indigestion. The Charge of the Light Brigade was not made by men who were martyrs to Dyspepsia.

The soldiers who made the world gaze with astonishment on their heroic deeds, were strong, sturdy, robust men.

So it is in every walk of life. Health is absolutely necessary to success. If the digestion be perfect, good health follows, as naturally and as surely as day follows night.

If the stomach is sick, the digestion is poor, the blood is thin, weak and scanty.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make the digestion perfect; they tone and strengthen the stomach; stimulate the secretion of an abundance of gastric juice, and so ensure a plentiful supply of rich blood.

Don't be a poor, pitiable weakling! Be strong! Be healthy! Be able to take your own part, and win your own place. To this end you need only take one or two of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets after every meal.

Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets make new, rich blood. You will be strong and healthy if you use them. You'll have no Dyspepsia, no Indigestion; no Biliousness if you do.

Try a box and be convinced. They'll convince you and make you strong at the same time.

I'LL TAKE WHAT

FATHER TAKES.

'Twas in the flowery month of June,
The sun was in the west,
When a merry, blithesome company
Met at a public feast.

Among the rooms rich banners spread,
And garlands fresh and gay;
Friend greeted friend right joyously
Upon that festal day.

The board was filled with choicest fare;
The guests sat down to dine;
Some called for "bitter," some for "stout"
And some for rosy wine.

Among this joyous company
A modest youth appeared;
Some sixteen summers had he seen,
No specious snare he feared.

An empty glass before the youth
Soon drew the waiter near.
"What will you take, sir?" he enquired,
"Stout, bitter, mild or clear?"

"We've rich supplies of foreign port,
We've first class wines and cakes."
The youth, with guileless look, replied,
"I'll take what father takes."

Swift as an arrow went the words
Into his father's ears,
And soon a conflict deep and strong
Awoke terrific fears.

The father looked upon his son;
Then gazed upon the wine;
"O God," he thought, "were he to taste
Who could the end divine?"

"Have I not seen the strongest fall?
The fairest led astray?
And shall I on my only son
Bestow a curse this day?"

O God, forbid! Here waiter, bring
Bright water unto me;
My son will take what father takes—
My drink shall water be."

THE POOR MAN TAXED.

"If prohibition comes, you will tax the poor man to make up the loss of revenue." Ridiculous as it appears, this argument is put boldly forward by the liquor men—those sweet-mouthed angelic (?) creatures whose hearts bleed so profusely for the poor man. None like to be taxed, and to the poor man or to those of moderate means this plea is offered as a winning card. Note this well! Tax the poor man to make up the loss of Revenue! When this argument is urged upon you, just ask your interrogator to muster up whatever honesty he can boast of, then look you squarely in the face, and answer this cold-blooded question: Who is it that now pays those taxes and who now make up this revenue? The poor man of course. And paying it, as he does, it is a thousand times worse than any possible system of direct taxation. The poor man must pay ten cents to the saloon in order to contribute one cent to the revenue. Wouldn't it be better for him pay the one cent to the Government direct and keep the other nine cents for himself? By this system the treasury would be doubtly enriched, for in addition to the direct tax of one cent on each drink, a considerable portion of the remaining nine cents would be invested in other dutiable articles, creating an enlarged instead of a decreased revenue. Besides this it would make the poor man richer. The nine cents spent for watering the liquor and providing the saloon keepers profits would be invested in some comforts, trade or business conveniences, education, or in something else of standard commercial value. Prohibition would thus make the state revenues heavier and the poor man richer without bringing impoverishment to any. It is a fool's argument to ask any intelligent man to swallow ten dollars worth of beer in order to get one dollar into the revenue; and yet we hear from those who pretend to be sincere, this silly balderdash about taxing those whom liquor has made poor. The poor man, under prohibition, will only pay about one-tenth as much as it now costs him.

The "Y" meeting will open at 8 o'clock sharp this evening. All members please take notice.

The big store carries the principles of exclusiveness further than most stores in this city care to go. This principle presents the possibility of a lady seeing at the first street corner she may happen to turn the exact counter part of an expensive mantle, she has just purchased the idea of exclusiveness does not necessarily mean expensiveness at Paton's. HOW ALCOHOL WARMS.

The temperance cause relates an anecdote about the oft-repeated argument of the warning effects of alcohol as follows: "But, doctor, I must have some kind of a stimulant," cried the invalid earnestly. "I am cold, and it warms me."
"Precisely," came the doctor's crusty answer. "See here; this stick is cold," taking up a stick of wood from the box beside the hearth and tossing it into the fire. "Now it is warm, but is the stick benefited?"

The sick man watched the wood first sent out little puffs of smoke and then burst into flame; and replied: "Of course not; it is burning itself."

"And so are you when you warm yourself with alcohol; you are literally burning up the delicate tissues of your stomach and brain."

Oh, yes, alcohol will warm you up, but who finds the fuel? When you take food, that is fuel, and as it burns out you keep warm. But when you take alcohol to warm you, your are like a man who sets his house on fire and warms his fingers by it as it burns.

The St. John Sun in its notes of the exhibition says: Senator Ferguson of P. E. Island is here with exhibits of Galloway cattle and Shropshire sheep, and what is a new venture for an islander, he has entered into competition with Nova Scotia in apples.
