Oscar Wilde in Effigy.

An immense crowd of persons lined the beach at Spring Lake, N. J., a short time ago, looking in vain for Oscar Wilde. He was announced to lecture one evening. The news had been spread around, presumably as an advertisement, that at 11 o'clock he would bathe. The people anticipated a great treat, for comparatively very few persons had ever seen the much-advertised apostle of aesthetism and none of them had ever seen him in the surf. Eleven o'clock had come and passed, and his awaiting throng showed signs of disappointment. Some blamed Oscar, and others blamed the managers, and some blamed themselves for having subjected themselves to the risk of being badly sold just for the sake of gratifying their curiosity. As soon as it was definitely known that the aesthete had not arrived at Spring Lake at all, the keepers of the bathing house prepared a stuffed image of him. They parted its flowing hair in the middle, robed it in a second best bathing suit with knee breeches, fastened a huge sunflower on its breast, and put a pair of corsets around the waist. It was by no means a handsome figure. Amid great applause from boys and others they attached this spurious Oscar to the rope and ran it up to the top of the flag-pole, where, with a Japanese parol in its hand, it swayed back and forth in the breeze. They did not treat the effigy to the indignity of hanging it up by the neck, but placed the suspending rope under the armpits. The reason given for this elevation of the stuffed Oscar by the bathing men was that "he had gone back on them."

A Doctor's Hint to Workingmen.

When you have any heavy work to do, do not take either beer, cider, or spirits. By far the best drink is thin oatmeal and water, with a little sugar.
The proportions are a quarter of a pound of oatmeal to two or three quarts of water, according to the heat of the day and your work and thirst; it should be well boiled, and then an ounce or an ounce and a half of brown sugar added.
If you find it thicker than you like, add three quarts of water. Before you drink it shake up the oatmeal well through the liquid. In summer drink this cold; in winter hot. You will find it not only quenches thirst, but will give you more strength and endurance than any other drink. If you cannot boil it you can take a little oatmeal mixed with cold water and sugar, but this is not so good; always boil it if you can. If at any time you have to make a very long day, as in harvest, and cannot stop for meals, increase the oatmeal to half a pound, or even three-quarters, and the water to three quarts; if you are likely to be very thirsty. For quenching thirst few things are better than weak coffee and a little sugar. One ounce of coffee and half an ounce of sugar boiled in two quarts of water and cooled is a very thirst-quenching drink. Cold tea has the same effect, but neither are so supporting as oatmeal.
Thin cocoa is also very refreshing, and supporting likewise, but is more expensive than oatmeal.

Queen Victoria's Plate.

No living monarch, European or Asiatic, not even the Czar of all the Russias, can boast of such a service of plate as that owned by Queen Victoria, to whose guests it is often exhibited, on huge buffets at either end of the banqueting table in St.
George's Hall—vases, plateaux, cups and candelabra, all wrought in the precious metal, the net value of which is said to exceed two millions sterling. Conspicuous among the trophies are the mimic "lyre bird" and tiger's head taken from Tipoo Sahib eighty odd years ago, and presented to Her Majesty's grandfather, King George III. The lyre bird's body and tail are composed of solid gold, richly studded with brilliant rubies, emeralds, and pearls. As he stands in all his jewelled pride, one of the costliest follies ever devised to gratify the whim of a lavish Oriental potentate, he represents a perpetual income of fifteen hundred a year, calculated at five per cent. upon his intrinsic worth. The tiger's head once served Hyder Ali's masterful son as a footstool. It is a life-size model fashioned in solid silver, richly gilt, its tusks of rock crystal, and its tongue of pure gold. Like the lyre bird, it fell into the hands of the British at the storming of Seringapatam, where Tipoo himself, its valorous owner, met his death; and, as a brilliant memorial of our Indian conquests, could not be better bestowed than in ornamenting the banqueting hall of Hindostan's first Empress.

Mr. Gordon Bennett is not satisfied with his new steam yacht, the "Namouna," which cost the proprietor of the great North American newspaper over $200,000. He contemplates ordering another that shall be longer and faster. During his recent cruise to the Bosphorus, on the 4th of July at Malta, Mr. Bennett treated his crew to a champagne dinner and cigars. At Constantinople he made an excursion upon the Golden Horn, having as guests Lord and Lady Dufferin and all the foreign ambassadors. Baker Pacha and Hobart Pacha, (English officers in the Turkish army and navy), and other dignitaries. The "Namouna" is undergoing repairs at Favre.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

DEAR SIR.—The Directors of the Bank of P. E. Island, since the suspension on the 28th day of November last, paid to the Bank of Montreal the sum of forty-two thousand six hundred and twenty-four dollars and eighteen cents ($42,624.18).
An explanation, by the Directors, would now be in order. The Depositors have this and other important matters under consideration.

Yours truly,
DEPOSITOR.

Current Notes.

In view of the risk attending upon entering for the British House of Commons, it is proposed to increase the allowance to the caterers to £1,000 a year. At present the allowance is £300.

The Department of Agriculture, Manitoba, is prosecuting the City Clerk of Winnipeg for failing to make clergyman physicians and others make returns under the Registration of Births, Marriages and Deaths Act.

An English lady has given $15,000 to the Bishop of Rupert's Land to provide for the salary of a chaplain to work among the English immigrants arriving at Winnipeg.
The Rev. H. E. Leslie has been appointed to the position. Mr. Leslie was, for a short time, at Bell's Corners, in the Diocese of Ontario.

According to Edwin Alden & Bro.'s American newspaper catalogue, just issued, there are 112,158 newspapers published in the United States and the Canadas. Total in the United States, 11,522; Canadas, 636. Published as follows:—Dailies, 1,152; tri-weeklies, 9,078; bi-weeklies, 23; semi-monthly, 202; monthly, 1,290; bi-monthly, 12.

The original of Rebecca, the heroine of Scott's "Ivanhoe," was a Philadelphia Jewess—Rebecca Gratz. She was a friend of Irving's early love—Matilda Hoffman, Irving told Scott about her, and he made her the heroine of his most popular novel.
The September Century contains her portrait, engraved by Cole from a miniature by Malbone, owned by Mrs. Rebecca Gratz-Nathan.

London World:—"The craze for anything old, musty and mouldering is carried to such an extent that ruinous cottages are bought, added to and re-built simply to preserve some more or less trustworthy association. Old places, in which the owners have for years had a difficulty in living, and could persuade nobody else to take so long as vacants were on hire and rookeries were plentiful, are rushing into the market with suspicious celerity."

An English lady has for many years amused herself by scattering primrose seeds in the woods and in semi-wild places. The result is that colonies of plants have been established. There is much sentiment among the rural population of this country, and especially in the West, in regard to the exchange of plants and seeds; and there is no reason why great quantities of wild flowers should not find their way from one locality to another.

When England has restored the Khedive to power in Egypt, what will be the outcome? The London Times believes England will continue in occupation. German journals think Bismarck will settle the matter by diplomacy. The complacent attitude of Germany may be largely ascribed to the fact that she sends very few ships through the canal; not only less than England or France, but even than Austria, Italy, or Holland, or perhaps Spain.

Rev. Henry Ward Beecher writes to the Chicago Tribune that his case of hay fever is suppressed, but not eradicated. He has within two weeks answered over two hundred letters on the subject. He says that for two months in the year the man who has hay fever is no longer a free man, but an oozy, dripping animal, with ferocious tendencies and not accountable. He feels like killing his mother-in-law, and his conscience, like Job's wife, tempts him to swear.

Red haired girls may profitably read the following description of one of their own kind:—"A girl with red hair looked very nice in a myrtle green skirt, with gray and green checked woollen stuff for over-dress.
Her bonnet was of dark red straw, the brim being covered with white beaded lace, falling over white wild roses. The strings were of dark red ribbon and round her throat was a white gauze tie. It is rather difficult for a girl with red hair to manage colors well, but this was a decided success."

The London Court Journal describes a recent dinner:—"The table was most prettily decorated; a long strip of eau de Nil watered silk was laid down the middle, upon which were placed ferns, begonia, and all kinds of rare leaves, with the eucharis lily in groups; in the centre on a glass stand were some nautilus shells of coque de perle, in which were grouped the former flowers as well as some laid on the table.
There was no fruit, but these flowers, ferns, with the shells and glass stands, formed very fresh and pretty decorations."

At a recent examination for clerkships in the British Postoffice there were 1,500 female candidates. Why are women not paid the same as men for doing precisely the same work, after having passed an examination at which men and women compete? It will be replied, that Government must pay market price, and that women are ready to take a smaller salary than men. But if this view is adopted, and if it be admitted that women are as good clerks as men, then it would be only logical to appoint women along with all vacancies.
