Authentic Indian Dinner With Exotic Curry Base

Recently the Chef and I enjoyed an authentic Indian dinner as guests of Mr. K. N. Sharma, distinguished Vice Consul of India, on the eve of his return to his native land after a leave of absence from official duties.

This dinner was given in the new Taj Mahal Restaurant in New York City; hospitable, intimate, glowing with colorful decor. It was a veritable feast of unusually exotic yet delightful foods.

With the assistance of the proprietor, Peter Gomez, we have planned a home-style Indian dinner for you from the bounteous menu and worked out recipes for several authentic curries.

INDIA-STYLE DINNER

Fresh fruit cocktail; curried lamb or meat balls, or shrimp India style, flaky rice, curried mixed vegetables; India raw relish; lime sherbert; canned mangoes; tea.

All measurements are level; recipes for 4 to 6:

Curried Lamb India Style: Soak 6 tbs. instant minced onion 5 min. in ¼ c. water. Drain. Heat 4 tbs. cooking oil. Add onion; saute until yellowed. Add 2 tbs. ground coriander, 1½ tsp. ground cumin, 1 tsp. ground cardamom, 1 tsp. ground turmeric, 1 tsp. ginger, ½ tsp. garlic powder and ¼ tsp. each red and black pepper. Add 1½ c. water. Blend with onion mixture; simmer 20 min.

Trim excess fat from 2 lbs. lamb stew meat. Cut lamb into 1" cubes; add to spice mixture with 1½ tsp. salt, ¼ c. hot water and ¼ c. tomato sauce or not-sweet ketchup. Simmer-cook 45 min. or until lamb is fork-tender.

For serving, stir in ¼ c. plain yogurt. Accompaniment, hot rice. Curried Meat Balls: Form small meat balls of fine-chopped raw lamb or other meat or use instead of diced lamb as directed above.

Curried Shrimp India Style: Prepare sauteed onion as described in Curried Lamb. Add 2 tbs. ground coriander, 2 tsp. ground cumin, 1 tsp. curry powder, ¼ tsp. red pepper and 2 c. hot water. Simmer 20 mins. Add 2 lbs. drained, shelled raw shrimp, and 1½ tsp. salt. Simmer 20 min. more.

Before serving, stir in ¼ c. coconut milk (see Chef's suggestion). Serve over hot rice.

India Raw Relish: Combine 2 tbs. chopped parsley, 6 chopped green onion bulbs and ¼ c. tart French dressing. Stir in 2½ c. diced tomato and 1 c. thin-sliced cucumber. Stir in ¼ c. grated fresh coconut, or frozen coconut scalded with boiling water to remove excess sugar. Garnish with diced preserved ginger. Refrigerate 1 hr.

The chef's Coconut Milk: Scald and drain 1 (10½ oz.) pkg. frozen coconut. Add 2 c. water. Bring to boil.

Cool, put through food mill and use coconut liquid as "milk"; use coconut in making India raw relish or a pudding.

MR. AND MRS. IVAN H. MAYNARD

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Island Couple.

Rev. Dr. Charles Carnegie performed the double ring ceremony for the pretty wedding of Gwyneth Gail MacDonald and Ivan Hatfield Maynard in St. David's Presbyterian Church, Hamilton, Ontario, on December 27, 1958 at 4:30 p.m.

The bride is the youngest daughter of Mrs. A. Harold MacDonald and the late Mr. MacDonald of Summerside, P.E.I. and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Hatfield Maynard of Post Hill, P.E.I.

The church was attractively decorated for the occasion with baskets of white and yellow mums, and the pews were marked with white satin bows. Mrs. Francis Hillbert was in charge of the wedding music and accompanied Miss Marilyn Preston, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer" previous to the bridal party entering the church, and "O Perfect Love" during the singing of the registers.

The bride, given in marriage by her younger brother, Mr. John W. MacDonald, was lovely in her wedding gown of white satin with lace fitted bodice and self covered buttons down the front with finger tipped sleeves, flared skirt with long trails of white satin trimmed with matching lace. Her finger tip veil of bridal illusion fell from a matching pearl-studded tiara, and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Donald Demarsh, as matron of honor, was attired in a street length dress of green velvet.

The Misses Janet Agnew and Marlene Burnet, as bridesmaids wore identical gowns of ruby red velvet. The attendants wore white feather hats and carried nosegays of yellow mums.

Little Miss Beverley Griffiths, as flower girl, wore green velvet with matching headband and carried a nosegay of yellow mums. Master Robbie Martinell was ring bearer.

Mr. Lowell Inman was his brother-in-law's groomsman, while Hesters, Morris A. Burns and W. William Green, brother-in-law of the bride, ushered the guests to their pews.

Mrs. MacDonald chose for her daughter's wedding a cocoa brown suit, with milk stole and orange ice accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations.

The groom's mother was attired in a tiel blue dress with matching bolero and accessories. Her hat was of black velour and the corsage of red roses.

A reception for forty guests was held at Mundy's Restaurant, where the bride's table with its beautiful decorations of mixed flowers, was centered with a three tier wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom, and trimmed with pink love birds.

Telegrams from Prince Edward Island were received from: Mr. Warren MacArthur, Mr. Clinton MacLean, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Birch, Mr. and Mrs. Courtney Maynard, Mr. and Mrs. Beecher Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Allison Dennis, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. W. Chester S. MacDonald, Corporal and Mrs. Lloyd Macdonald, and read by Dr. Carnegie. Mrs. Lowell Inman, sister of the groom, was in charge of the guest book.

For travelling the bride donned a dress with a blue satin cummerbund and a smart Royal blue wool merburnal and topped with a milk stole. Her accessories were winter white and her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Maynard will reside in Hamilton, Ontario, where the bride is on the staff of the Bank of Nova Scotia and the groom is employed with Steel Company of Canada.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Markethouse Was Place For Farmers To Meet

Accordingly, and as hoped now that a truck could be set down handily at the stable door instead of only as near as lane's end, odd fat ones of our cow-kind went this morning to market in town.

It was a crisp clear morning, with the new of the day, lingering in a reverent silence along the reach of our valley.

Morning-smokes were billowing above the chimneys happily, and we noticed when we shook the breakfast crumbs from the cloth to be sparrows' pickings below the front verandah, the calls of the bluejays in the spruces by the milldam on the far side of the front meadow rang out clear as a bell.

Altogether a pretty morning it was—and day, though now a bit dim, as we wait the rise of the moon.

The little truck bearing our two farmers, went lightly up and over the hill in the wake of the cattle-transport, to attend the weighing-off ceremony, always of paramount importance and interest to the farmer who follows closely the progress of his animals from calf-hood to beef.

At first James was reluctant to leave the choring incomplete, but on second thought—and more quickly we decided with a chuckle, that if he were to go on what he terms "some will goose chase of the women's" he changed overalls, and was off with the rest.

We reflected on the event, watching the out-going. To the man in the transport his trip would be "all in a day's work." To the younger farmer, it would be an occasion which would allow him to draw conclusions as to the best feeds and breeds to foster on this farm.

He would gather up a load of store-feed for the piggeries, and bring home among other requirements, salt-licks, and tins of insecticides to keep the animals fit and clean; a water-bowl or two possibly, a remedy to add to the stable's medicine chest, and with all the business of the farm which must be remembered when in town, a toy or some building blocks for Alex.

James? He would be happy to note that in comparison with others of the kind assembled at the plant, our fat animals "were nothing to be ashamed of", and his interests would agree with those of the younger farmer.

And uptown, whence since childhood he has taken a legion of trips, he would be quite lost over the fact that "there's no place left for farmers to meet and chat, now that the old market-building is no more."

But of those who left the yard, the one in circumstances nearest to his heart's desire was the young lad Mack, privileged to catch a ride to school in the multi-wheeled transport. How enjoyable such trips are to lads, whose eyes brighten and breaths hute nowadays at the sight of such modern machines.

"My dear—look at 'Be clock!'" James exclaims starting up now from the old armchair. "We must get to bed! We're going to have another busy day tomorrow."

Until tomorrow—Diary. Good night.
