The "Good Man" on His Travels.

To the Editor of the Examiner.

SIR,—A public meeting was held here last evening. It was called by Mr. Munn, for the purpose of expressing his views on public questions before the Council election.
A resolution, approving of Mr. Munn's course, was submitted, and declared carried, although it was not fully discussed, and the motion was put with gentlemen on the floor, demanding to speak on the resolution. A long discussion followed, in which the usefulness of the Council was most conclusively shown. Mr. Nicholson challenged Mr. Munn to name one important measure, of a dangerous nature, passed by the Assembly for the last twenty years, which the Legislative Council rejected. Mr. Munn said that there was one case in which the Council had defeated a bad Bill, since he was a member of it. It was, he said, in 1875, when the Owen Government sent up a Bill authorizing the issuing of debentures to the amount of $80,000 for the construction of the Lunatic Asylum. This dangerous Bill, he said, the Council rejected. When it was clearly shown, that so far from rejecting this Bill, the Council passed it, and it is still on our Statute Book, Roderick's confusion was complete. The only instance he could cite of the usefulness of the Council turned out to be a fiction! It would be hard to decide which is the most glaring—the uselessness of the Council or the ignorance of the Councillors. Messrs. Crawford, Nicholson, and other speakers showed up Mr. Munn's wriggling on the abandonment question in a very able manner, and the conclusion forced on the minds of all present was that Mr. Roderick Munn is not to be trusted to represent the District. His past course has been a most crooked one, and his attempts at defence were marked by an imbecility that excited the pity of even his opponents.

At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr.
Munn demanded a division, when eleven voted for Mr. Munn, and seven for Mr.
Nicholson. Considering that this is Mr.
Munn's stronghold, the result was most satisfactory to Mr. Nicholson. Mr. Munn made a sorry exhibition of himself at the meeting.

Yours, etc.,
ON LOOKER,
Wood Islands, Nov. 1st, 1882.

A New Mussulman Era.

The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard states that Mussulmans are just now on the tiptoe of expectation, knowing that an important event affecting Islam is to take place:—

"About the 24th of this month the Mohammedan world enters upon a new century. The Egyptian question, affairs of the Hedjaz, and other important State questions are all put into the background, while the Sultan's almost undivided attention is given to astrologers and other 'wise men of the East,' who are busily engaged at the palace in studying the stars and other signs in the heavens which may enable them to unravel mystery. According to an ancient prophecy, a new prophet may be expected about that date, who is supposed to raise Mohammedan power to a position of splendor unequalled even in its most palmy days. The mystery which these wise men are to penetrate is to find out upon whom this enviable position is to devolve. At one time Yildiz entertained the idea that possibly Arabi Pacha might be the chosen one; but subsequent events having disposed of that theory, Abdul Hamid does not despair of being himself recognized as the great man. Everything was working smoothly at Yildiz—the astrologers and necromancers were all but on the point of solving the mysteries attached to the forthcoming anniversary—when a present reached the Sultan from the very learned Sheidkh of Mecca which completely upset all calculations. The gift consists of a couple of pigeons and a sword, and these are supposed to have direct relation to the important event. Matters there became even more complicated by the appearance of the comet, and this last has cast all the prognostications of the wise men into utter confusion."

Hugo's Manifesto.

The following is the text of the manifesto which Victor Hugo has had published in some of the French newspapers:—

"They are trying Arabi. What is Arabi?
Is he a rebel? Yes, says the Khedive loudly. No, softly whispers the Sultan.
Is he a liberator? A liberator of whom?
The Egyptian people shall be, and shall be great till the twentieth century. At this time it has not come into being. Is he a bellicent? That implies war. Now at this moment war does not exist. There are military facts as to which England will have to give explanations; but as to war, there is none. England is not at war with Egypt; England is not at war with Turkey. What, then is Arabi? He is a prisoner. We, the passers-by, the unknown, the firstcomers, we exist, we live, and the government labors close to us. What do they conceal from us; we do not know it; perhaps they do not know it themselves. But we see what they do not see; we see before us in the depths of the horizon what the future is doing; we believe in Islamism as in a living, as in the East, Catholicism in the West, Africa awakening to civilization. All that is before us; governments may conceal from us what they do; we see what civilization is doing; we are content. The penalty of death has summarized and represented the old criminal justice of the past. It has been the angel of order, and today it is judged and condemned. Within the last fifty years twenty seven States have removed it from the statute book. The governments that retain it—France, alas! resort to it as little as they can.
They are afraid and ashamed of it.
There is not a single enlightened juryman who consents to sign a verdict entailing the penalty of death. It is no longer an angel; it is a spectre. Here the people stop us and say the penalty of death is more powerful than ever. The two worlds adopt it. So little is dead that it kills. Arabi is going to be shot. The language surprises, but does not disquiet us. No, civilization is not barbarism; no, savagery is not modern justice; no, civilization does not kill a man as old societies did, without exactly knowing why; no, civilization does not commence the great work of which the twentieth century will be full by a deed which is an enigma for those who commit it and a crime for those who look on."

Potatoes.

Last season potatoes realized the farmers of this province (Quebec) considerably less profit, owing to the steady demand which set in from the United States last October, and continued through the winter into the spring. At the moment, however, there are no signs of foreign demand for our well-known Early Rose and Chisla, which give such good satisfaction in most of the principal cities of the United States last year.
It is certain that America has a much larger crop than in 1881, but whether or not it will prove sufficient for the requirements of the coming season without drawing upon Canadian supplies, remains to be seen.
Our advice from Boston states that receipts are liberal, but that a large portion is of very poor quality, prices there being quoted at 50 to 65 cents per bushel in bulk, which shows no margin for shippers here to work on. In New York a steadier market has ruled during the past few days, with business reported at $1 75 to $2 00 per barrel, but which affords no encouragement to shippers. The potato market in Chicago, according to advices just received, was weak, and great difficulty was experienced in selling car-lots of Early Rose at 45c per bushel for choice, while common fair qualities were very dull at 35c to 40c. These prices are even lower than those ruling here, which is disappointing to our export trade, considering the large quantities shipped from Canada to the Western States last season. Notwithstanding the rot, which made its appearance early in the season, it is generally admitted that farmers in this province have secured a good crop both as regards quantity and quality. About three weeks ago prices here advanced to $1 00 to $1 10 per bag of 90 lbs., in consequence of farmers being busy in the fields causing supplies to fall off. Since then receipts have been gradually increasing, chiefly by boat, and as there was no export demand to absorb surplus offerings, prices naturally declined, sales being reported on Saturday at 60c to 80c per bag for good to choice kinds, but they consisted mostly of shipments from points between Montreal and Quebec. Farmers in the immediate vicinity of Montreal are not marketing their crop freely at present values, but are holding, although the outlook at present is certainly not encouraging for high prices.
Dealers here state that advices from Prince Edward Island give accounts of a very prolific crop here, and quote prices as low as 25c per bushel. A carload was shipped from Point St. Charles, on Saturday, to Nashua, N. H.—Montreal Gazette.

Unclaimed Money in England.

In the latest issue of Gun's Index to advertisements of unclaimed money in England (6 Prince of Wales Road, London, N. W.) the following names are included among those who may hear of something to their advantage:—

Bonnell, Ann, wife of William Bonnell, merchant in Nova Scotia in 1819.

Bradley, James and Thomas, formerly of London, who left England many years ago for St. John, N. B.

Congreve Frederick William, supposed to have left Liverpool, E., for Halifax, N. S., in 1862.

Coward, David William, formerly of Ottawa, afterwards of St. John, N. B.

Crossland, James, who left England for Nova Scotia in December, 1881.

Porteous family, formerly of Scotland, now residing in America.

Pringle, William and Thomas, who left Scotland for America about 1842.

Walker, Horatio, who deserted from the 15th British Regiment of Foot, at Halifax, N. S., 1816.

Buxton, Edward, who left England for Prince Edward Island in 1849.

"I should like to sell you a gimlet," said a careworn-looking man as he walked into an office the other day. "We have no use for one," replied the cashier. "But you should always look into the misty future," went on the fend demurely. "Next winter you will want to make holes in your boat hulls, so you can get your kates on." "I use club axes—nostraps required." "You may want to screw some boards together some time. The old-fashioned method of driving the screw in with a hammer is pernicious, as it deteriorates the tenacity of the fangs of the screw, as it were." "Nothing to-day, sir." "This gimlet acts as a corkscrew." "I don't want it." "It may also be used as a tack-hammer, a cigar-holder and a tool-brush." "I don't want it." "It has an eraser, a pen, an ink-tand, a table for computing compound interest, and a lunch-box atachment." "I can't help it, I don't want it." "I know you don't; you are one of those men who won't buy a gimlet unless it has a restaurant and a trip through Europe and an Italian opera company attached. You're the kind of a man who would live near an electric light to save a gas bill." And the careworn man went on with his natural propensity to the perpendicular.
