No. 75. LLOYD'S Register of British and Foreign Shipping. RULES AND REGULATIONS. NOTICE is hereby given, that in pursuance of Resolutions passed by the Committee, alterations and amendments have been made in the Rules and Regulations of Lloyd's Register of British and Foreign Shipping as follows, viz:—SECTION 39.—The intermediate dimensions for the scantling of timbers between the floor heads and the gunwale to be regulated in proportion to the distance from the two points. Should the timber and space be increased, the siding of the timbers to be increased in proportion. Whenever ships are built with double floors, thick strakes (see Table B) must be worked inside, to extend from the lower part of the short floor-head checks to the upper part of the long floor head checks, and be well bolted through and clenched, with one bolt at the head of each long and short arm of floors, and at the heel of each first and second footlock which come upon them, from the foremast extending a distance aft equal to three-fifths of the length of the ship; in such cases the timber strakes need not be through bolted.

SECTION 45.—The following has been added to this Rule, viz:—"The breadth of the wales in every case is to be regulated as under, viz:—When the extreme length of the ship, measured from the fore part of the stem to the after part of the stern-post, on the range of upper deck, is six times her depth of hold (and under) the wales are to be in breadth 3 in. to every foot of the depth of hold.

When the extreme length of the ship is eight times her depth of hold, the wales are to be in breadth 3 1/2 in. to every foot of the depth of hold.

When the extreme length of the ship is ten times her depth of hold (and above) the wales are to be in breadth 4 in. to every foot of the depth of hold.

And other intermediate dimensions in these proportions. SECTION 62.—So far as it relates to ships, the length of which exceeds five times their breadth, has been amended as follows:—Ships built in the British North American Colonies, and all ships the frames of which are composed of fir, of 600 tons and upwards, and all ships (wherever built), the length of which (measured from the fore part of the stem to the after part of the stern post on the range of upper deck), shall exceed five times their extreme breadth, shall have diagonal iron plates closely inserted either outside or inside the frame. If placed outside, the said plates to extend from the upper side of upper tier of beams to the lower part of checks at first footlock heads amidship, and to the same perpendicular height forward and aft, measured from the lower part of the keel; and if placed inside, the plates are to extend from the upper side of upper tier of beams to the lower part of checks at floor heads. Whether placed outside or inside, the sizes of the plates not to be less than as follows, viz:—

In ships of 100 tons and under 200 tons 3 1/2 by 7-16 inch. " 200 " 400 " 4 by 1/2 " " 400 " 700 " 4 by 3/4 " " 700 " 1000 " 4 1/2 by 3/4 " " 1000 " 1500 " 5 by 3/4 " " 1500 and above 5 1/2 by 3/4 " and to be fastened with bolts, one at each alternate timber if outside, and one at each timber if inside, not less in diameter than the sizes given for "through butt bolts" in Table D.

The number of plates to be in proportion of not less than one pair to every twelve feet of the ship's entire length taken as above, but not to be more than eight feet asunder measured on a square; the said plates are to be placed diagonally, at an angle of not less than 45 degrees, their lower ends pointing to the after end of the keel in the after body, and to the fore end of the keel in the fore body, four pairs crossing each other amidship.

All such ships to have shelves and waterways to each tier of beams each equal in contents to the transverse sectional area of the beams of their respective decks at their ends; each of the said shelves and waterways to be bolted through the outside planking at every timber, with bolts of the size given in Table D; likewise the shifts of inside and planking not to be less than six feet, unless there be a strake wrought between them, and then a distance of five feet will be allowed.

Hemlock timber, of good quality, will be allowed to be used for the following parts in ships of Four Years' grade, viz:—Floors. First, second, and third footlocks and top-timbers. Beams, hooks, and knees. Planking, inside.
