Large Scale Preparations Underway For Big Event

The veteran judge, Wylie Baird of Nappan, Nova Scotia, will be on hand to judge as usual when the Provincial Plowing match gets underway at Dundas on Wednesday of this week. He will place all the plowing events at the two-day meet. But the plowing events form only a part of the program of the annual fair put on by the Provincial Match and Agricultural Fair association. Classes are provided for both dairy and beef cattle as well as for other farm animals such as sheep and swine. Poultry are also exhibited. And the horse show has long been a feature of the Fair. An added attraction this year to the plowing match will be the appearance of a team of oxen from the Annapolis Valley. They will plow in an exhibition role.

In addition to the outside exhibits, and attractions, there are the many and varied exhibits shown in the main building. These include vegetable and food crops as well as field crops of various kinds. Included also is just about every type of women's work from skillfully sewn, crocheted and knitted goods to the tastiest dishes that the skilful and hospitable ladies of this province have learned to produce through the years. There is also fun for the young men and for the children. One day is devoted to athletic sports for the mature athletes. The other is given over to a sports program for the younger athletes, the ones who will be the senior athletic greats of the future years.

But when one thinks of Dundas he almost naturally thinks of plowing and that is what created the annual meet which attracts each year the largest crowd that attends any purely agricultural fair in the entire province. President Leslie Hunter of Bridgetown and Secretary Albert Acorn of Cardigan have been working with their directors to line up the various plowing matches and competitions which will be climaxed as usual by the big Esso Special championship class the last thing on Thursday afternoon. This extra special match is a battle of champions. In it, for example, will be Carl Willis, the Queens County champion this year. He will be competing against senior class winners at Dundas this year. Eligible also to compete will be a number of other plowmen including some of the champions and class winners of other years. One of the provincial winners of other years is Stanley Willis of Cornwall who is leaving September 11 for the world's championship match which will be held this year at Peebles, Ohio. Stanley is the father of Carl which indicates that the Willis family has made an unusual name for themselves in the plowing world. It reminds one somewhat of the Morrissey family of Cherry Valley this year called "The Plowing Morrisseys" on more than one occasion as members of the family swept to one win after another in some of the matches a few years ago.

POLIO DOWN

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada so far this year has experienced 140 cases of poliomyelitis, 79 of them paralytic, the federal health department announced Saturday. The figures were to Aug. 31. At the same date last year there had been 271 cases, 155 of them paralytic. Deaths to Aug. 31 totalled six, against nine for the same period last year.
