Zion W.M.S. Holds Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of Zion Women's Missionary Society was held on Thursday evening, Oct. 5th, at the home of Mrs. G.W. Patterson, 93 Edward Street. The president, Mrs. Rendle Larter, presided.

The Devotional Service was carried out in the usual manner, the theme being "Thanksgiving". Psalm 107 verses 1-22 was read and exposition given, which was followed by prayer and the hymn, "We Have Heard a Joyful Sound."

Roll was called and the name of one new member was added. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. Arrangements were made for the annual Thanksgiving Service which will be held Oct. 25th in Zion School Room. The study books for the Auxiliary will be "The Greatest Story Ever Told" and "Church Missions on the Whole."

The outstanding feature of the meeting was the report of the W.M.S. Eastern Division Annual Meeting which was held in Halifax, Sept. 28-29th. The report was given by Miss Ida MacDougall, who was a delegate. It was most interesting and instructive and she conveyed to her hearers many helpful thoughts and ideas in connection with the work.

Test New Blood Transfusion Solution

WINNIPEG, Oct. 11 (CP)—A new blood transfusion solution that can be stockpiled to meet disaster needs is being tested in Winnipeg.

The experiments are under Dr. C. Harris, provincial medical director for the Canadian Red Cross, in cooperation with several Winnipeg doctors. They will treat city hospital patients.

The solution, already used in large quantities in Sweden and Britain, has already proved highly successful in first aid and shock cases.

If the Winnipeg experiments work, the solution will be manufactured and stored in Canada as a supplement to whole blood and dried blood plasma for use in disasters.

However, huge quantities of whole blood and plasma still will be required, Dr. Harris said.

The new solution has many advantages. It needs no refrigeration. It can be used on any patient, regardless of blood group. It lasts indefinitely, whereas whole blood can be kept only 40 days.

It is made by mixing microbes with Stenotrophomonas menteroides—a bacteria germ—and cane sugar, by a special process. The solution was first made in England in 1939.

In The World of Books

With Will R. Bird

VAGABOND PILGRIMAGE, by Frederick Cowley; Ryerson Press; $3.00.

This is another in the series of County Books but the flap says it can best be described as an autobiographical travel book, in which the author tells of adventures and encounters on a haphazard journey from East Anglia, through Kent to the southern counties, to the Malvern Hills in the west. "Through him we meet the wandering gypsies, circus performers, barnstormers, tinkers, hawkers and racebook tipsters—in fact all the gay and motley company of the open road, with whom the author finds a happy comradeship. Here, too, is a wealth of historic and archaeological information, a host of fascinating and half-forgotten country lore, and plenty of humour. Captain Cowley is equally at home in writing of the charm of a cathedral city, the hubbub of an important industrial centre, or of the peace of a remote village."

The book begins with a foreword telling of the author's encounter with an American in an air-raid shelter during the war, and his decision to write such a book. Then he tells something about himself and about Cowley himself, giving some glimpses of East Anglia. It is all pleasantly done, with the ease of good conversation, and the reader absorbs it without weariness, soon becomes interested in the strong English flavor and thereafter enjoys the book immensely. One reads of the author's rather strange adventures in Kent, after getting over the shock of learning that some monks were body snatchers, and those adventures make one wish they had shared them. He met Dicky one day, a half-breed Gypsy, and Dicky announced that he was "off on a trek through Kent on the old wire graft." By this he meant he was going from village to village selling articles made of wire—egg-whiskers, tiny brushes for cleaning bottles, and similar oddments. "Ah," said I, "Kent in the springtime with cherry blossoms on the trees, bluebells in the woods, and ragged robin under the hedges."

"All that," he replied. "And a bush in my bag, a kip by a yog in a kosh every night, a shooshie for cleaning bottles, and the cannimooah far away. Why not coo the drom with me, brother?" "Why not," I said, and there and then we arranged to tramp together.

It is thus the author acquires his uncanny knowledge of the land and makes his book far more than a recording of history and beauty spots. He stirs the mixture well with enlightening accounts of the Maids of Biddenden, the ghost of Anne Boleyn, historic Guildford, which the Highland Brigade came to know so well in World War I, the silent monks of Cowfold, the chained library of Wimborne, the story of the Cerne giant and other features. He became lost on Dartmoor and had more adventure. He tells great tales of Cornwall, smugglers and holy wells, a hermit and two lost churches.

40 and Sweden perfected it. No harmful effects have ever been found. Dr. Harris said that if the solution is introduced on a large scale, the problem of blood supplies in rural points will be eased.

Report Results Of Cold Treatment

(By Alton L. Blakeslee)

NEW YORK, Oct. 11 (AP)—A three-year test of antihistamines for colds among industrial workers is reported in the Industrial Medicine and Surgery Journal.

It finds that 65 per cent of people taking the pills reported relief of their colds within 48 hours. There was no evidence, however, that the use of the pills had cut down lost time by workers reported to have been due to illness.

The study was made by Dr. William L. Baughn, Medical Director of the Guide Lamp Division, General Motors Corporation, Anderson, Ind.

It covered the three "cold seasons" from October through March in 1947-48, 1948-49 and 1949-50. During that time, 4,827 employees received 43,000 doses of antihistamines to treat 8,627 colds.

Another 1,336 workers got other kinds of pills—a combination of aspirin-phenacetin-caffeine, plain aspirin or aspirin and soda—for 2,100 colds.

The anti-histamines or other treatments were given when workers felt they were getting colds, or had obvious signs of infection.

Dr. Baughn said 66 per cent of those getting anti-histamines claimed complete relief of symptoms and apparent "cures" of their colds in 48 hours or less. As a matter of fact, a great many of these subjects got complete relief with the first dose, or two.

By contrast, 27 per cent of those getting other treatments felt they got perfect results.

Twenty-three per cent of the workers said they got side effects from the anti-histamines. Drowsiness and light-headedness were the main complaints. Dr. Baughn said, but only a few had to go to bed.

Several different anti-histamines were used and they varied in these side reactions. Nearly one-third of the workers taking one drug com-
