Rotary Yesterday Smart Dog Dead, Tricks Recalled

Rev. A. E. MacKenzie, assistant pastor of Trinity United Church was the guest speaker at Rotary yesterday. Choosing as his subject "The Life of Rev. Alexander Whyte," in brief talks at his disposal, he outlined some of the most important events in the life of the distinguished Scottish divine and told several anecdotes illustrative of his outstanding qualities. He cited the four cardinal virtues exemplified in the life of Dr. Whyte as sympathy, tolerance, humility, and generosity of heart. Of humble birth, he was early apprenticed to a shoemaker, but having set his mind upon entering the ministry he studied during the evenings and even had someone read to him while he was at work. A little later while teaching school he won a bursary for three years at Edinburgh University. His greatest work was done in the City of Edinburgh, where he was minister of the Free St. George's Church for over 40 years. It was not until he was about fifty years of age and had been writing that he achieved full recognition. His earnestness and devotion to his religious duties are an inspiration and example which may well be followed.

IF YOU'RE REDUCING TAKE SALT WATER BATHS

"Salt water baths do a good deal to keep skin on the body firm and healthy," a reducing expert said recently. "I always advise my clients who are losing weight rapidly to take at least three of them a week. These keep the skin from sagging or wrinkling as weight is lost." "First of all, one should take a warm soapy shower. Then, for twenty minutes, soak in a tub of lukewarm water in which four pounds rock salt have been dissolved. When you get out, do not rinse, but pat yourself dry with a coarse towel. Allow the salty film to remain on your skin for about an hour. Then rinse." For skins which feel uncomfortable and dry after hours of exposure to summer sunshine, this same expert recommended glycerine baths. You simply pour one pint of glycerine into a half a tub of tepid water and soak in the mixture for fifteen minutes. Afterward, rinse in clear water. Of course, plain milk baths are marvelous skin softeners. After a regular bath, dip a large cotton pad in sweet milk and pat your skin from head to foot. Leave on for an hour. If you like water on your head, to foot, mix milk into the bathtub and soak in it. Buttermilk is a fine softener and a mild bleach as well. Speaking of bleaches, better use fresh lemon juice on knees, elbows, feet and hands about once a week. If your skin is dry, always smooth on cream or oil lotion after you have rinsed off the bleach.

Old Morse Line Now Abandoned

(By The Canadian Press) VANCOUVER, AUG. 3—A slender wire 400 miles long strung 36 years ago over chasms and through forests in British Columbia's northland will no longer click out Morse signals. The ground line of Canadian Government Telegraphs over the Hazelton to Telegraph Creek link in the Ashcroft, B. C.-Dawson, Y. T. circuit went out last spring in furious floods. Present prospects are it will never be completed. Short-wave radio, which supplemented the service, took over the full task. The line began with an idea in 1900—communication with Europe via Siberia—but was not completed till 1901. The notion of a land wire to Europe was doomed by the successful laying of the Atlantic cable, but some wire for it already had been laid in Canada. Portions of this were used in construction of an Indian bridge, which spanned Bulkley Canyon until a swollen flood pucked this familiar landmark into the Skeena River.

Locker Room Has Surprise Stored For Links Stars

(By The Canadian Press) WINNIPEG, Aug. 3—When golfers gathered here to prepare for the opening of the Canadian amateur championships Aug. 4, they found an oddity in the locker rooms of the fashionable St. Charles Country Club, where the tourney is being played. Players clustered around the scales standing just beyond the shower baths—the scales on which the younger man leaped blithely to make sure his weight is right and to which the portly business man sidled cautiously and goes away mumbling apologies to himself. "What the heck's this?" asked one of the more curious, clutching a powerful magnifying glass attached to the scales by a chain. He was informed the glass had been put there for those who, fresh from the showers and minus their eyeglasses, needed assistance in reading the scales' verdict. "Yeah! Well what a jolt someone must have had." The visitor pointed to a large chip off one corner of the glass. "The old boy who dropped this must have figured the glass enlarged his waist-line as well as the size of the numerals."

Bagpipe Music Upsets Hens

(By The Canadian Press) VANCOUVER, Aug. 3—Scottish freedom is not what it was, according to a member of the Vancouver police pipe band. It is established fact that to play the pipes properly one must march back and forth as he coaxes the "whurries" to music. So the piper strutted his back yard. All was well, for his neighbors were either tolerant or loved the martial airs of the pibroch. Then an Italian rented an adjoining house. The new neighbor was a chicken fancier and immediately protested his fowl's aversion to what he called "noise."

To All Subscription Contestants, Their Friends and the Citizenship of P. E. I. Generally

Our seven weeks Subscription campaign comes to a close Saturday night, August 8th. It has been a success to date—and we have every reason to believe it will close with even greater interest. As was stated at the beginning of the campaign our sole purpose in putting it on was to increase our reader family to the end that The Guardian might be the news medium and at the same time bring the splendid mercantile establishments and other business institutions in closer touch with the men and women who make P. E. I. their home. This newspaper fully realizes and appreciates its responsibility in this vital mission and only through an increased subscription list; by having the Guardian go into the homes of the residents of P. E. I. can be best serve our HOME PEOPLE and their worthy institutions. As to the campaign proper, we wish to state that only after long and serious consideration did we select the Liner Circulation Company to conduct same—a nationally recognized concern of years of successful operation and highest standing. It has been our sole concern from the opening day and will be up until the closing hour of the campaign, to see that same is conducted on the highest possible plane. The candidate receiving the highest number of votes, and only through bonafide subscriptions, will positively receive the awards as first advertised. Every statement made in the opening and subsequent announcements will be carried out to the letter. At the conclusion of the contest and thereafter, the entire records of the campaign, every transaction connected therewith; every receipt issued, and in fact any and every matter having to do with the campaign from start to finish, will be available for an audit at any time in this office. We make this explanation at this time because we want all contestants and thoroughly understand that this campaign has been conducted fairly and squarely and above reproach from anyone or from any source. The Guardian has enjoyed the good will, friendship and patronage of Prince Edward Island people ever since it was founded. Certainly, we shall strive to maintain this continued loyalty and goodwill.

Speedy Air Mails To Link Australia Famous Runner Condets Show

Two fast air mail services each week to Australia, taking a week or less for the trip, are part of the British Air Ministry's plan for a speeding up and increase in the frequency and carrying capacity of British Empire air mails. Under the new plans all first-class air-mail matter within the Empire would be carried at a rate of three cents a half-ounce. The Air Ministry would work by degrees toward schedules of two and a half days to East Africa, four and a half days to South Africa, six and seven days to Australia, two and a half days to India, and four and a half days to Singapore. Ultimately there would be nine services to East Africa, five to India, three to Australia and South Africa. Negotiations for the extension of the Australian Service to New Zealand are in progress.—Australian Press Bureau.

ZANE GREY PLANS AUSTRALIAN MOVIE

Zane Grey recently went to the Barrier Reef, Queensland, to make a full length quota moving picture for international release. The plot will be an Australian romance with the unique scenery of the Great Barrier Reef as its setting. Zane Grey will play the leading role and the producer and director will be Edwin G. Bowen who, as well as being Zane Grey's manager, is also a film man. Big game fishing will be carried on and Grey hopes to catch a record shark. There are other fields of big game fishing which he hopes to discover and exploit—giant rays, sunfish, devil fish and possibly an outsize barracoota which are found in the Barrier Reef waters.—Australian Press Bureau.

(By The Canadian Press) EDMONTON, Aug. 3—F. D. Banks, one of the greatest United States distance runners of the past decade, is now an operator of a midway show which tours the country in connection with exhibitions and fairs.

Known as "Dixie's Galloping Ghost," and "The Tarzan of Langley's Lake," Banks told a reporter he was not sure how many world's running records he holds. Three times he competed for Olympic team placement but each time was beaten by injuries. His story is a strange one. In 1922 physicians gave him only a few months to live because of a lung ailment. To build up strength, the Dixie youth started to run. He kept on running, established records and cured his ailment.

Perhaps his greatest feat was running from Florida to San Diego, Calif., in 55 days, clipping 29 days off the 84 day mark set up in O. C. Pyle's coast to coast derby the same year, 1927.

Tired when the run was over, he sat down in a San Diego hotel, while his manager ran off with the $80,000 purse, never to be found. "When operating a summer resort at Langley's Lake, Ga., he lived four years in a cabin built in trees, causing "Believe it or Not" Ripley to style him "The Tarzan of Langley's Lake."

"The reason I lived up there was to avoid mosquitoes and handle particularly mosquitoes," he explained. Banks joined the show business when he lost his resort, but intends entering private business with a partner.
