THOUGHTS FOR OUR TIME

By His Eminence Cardinal McGuigan
(Copyright)

EVERY HUMAN PERSON,

Last week in these pages we said something about the necessity of seeing, even in the mentally ill, the dignity of the human person, so that to treat someone so afflicted as being somehow less than human, is in itself to behave in an inhuman way.

I would like today to extend those remarks to other situations where we deal with each other, in order to show how important it is that we see in people not just individuals, but persons.

What is the difference between an individual and a person? An individual is just one of many. Each dog in a pack of hounds is an individual, different from the rest. But a person is more than that: a person has intelligence, and knows his own difference from other individuals and other persons.

The best way to see this is to ask ourselves what we really mean, each one of us, when we use the pronoun "I." When we talk about what we do or feel, who is doing it, and who is having the feeling? We know that deep within us we come to a Self, to a person who knows that he has a right to say "I am doing this" or "I like this," who knows that although he is a man like other men, yet he has something unique about himself; he is a person.

MAN'S RESPONSIBILITY

It is this central personality which gives a man both his dignity and his responsibility. It gives him dignity because there really is something there that is different from everyone and everything else, something that belongs only to him. And it gives him responsibility because it enables him to see that it is really he himself who is doing whatever he does. He instinctively takes both the credit and the blame which attaches to his actions, approving them or excusing them at least to himself.

Thus each man is in a certain way the centre of his own world. No matter what he devotes his life to, everything he does really comes from this Self, this "I" that distinguishes him from everyone else. Curiously enough it is this fact of each man being in some way completely different from everyone else, that is one of the chief characteristics of the human species. We are a collection not just of individuals, but of persons.

This may seem to be a fact so obvious that it does not need to be stated. But look at how many things today show that this most important fact is being completely ignored! Anything, for example, which treats a man only as a statistic, treats him as an individual and not a person. Anything aimed at men in mass groups is very likely to forget that he is a person, and to treat him instead as only an individual: That is why so many advertisements insult men at the same time as they persuade them to buy.

Or in the field of what are called "labor relations": to pay a man less than a living wage because of no matter what apparent economic necessity, is to neglect the fact that he is a human person, and to treat him as only an individual, a unit to be counted.

On the other hand, the worker can himself forget that he is a person if he is content to allow a union to use him simply as a unit in the mass pressure which it brings to bear upon employers. Needless to say, that is not the kind of intelligent participation that good labor unions want from their members. But it can happen.

Vocational Has Social Evening

The students of the Provincial Vocational School held their fifth social event of the year 1956-57 in the Academic Classroom on Wed evening, November 28.

Both modern and square dancing under the supervision of Mr. Joseph Murphy was enjoyed by approximately sixty students.

The chaperones for the occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Victor Clow and Mr. and Mrs. Percy Cameron.

Music was supplied by the new record player which was obtained by the school shortly after the beginning of the school term. The event was enjoyed by all in attendance.

Miss G. Davies Dies In Ottawa

Mr. A. W. Hyndman has received a telegram from Mr. Justice J. D. Hyndman informing family connections here of the death of Miss Gertrude Davies. Miss Davies was the daughter of the late Sir Louis Davies, Chief Justice of Canada. She had been in failing health for some years. Miss Davies will be buried Satirday, December first, in Ottawa.

MUSIC FESTIVAL AND MUSICIANS

Dancing is an important and popular part of our Music Festival as some of the children find it impossible to compete in the music classes.

Dancing is as old as the human race and in every country of the world the folk music and folk dances have been handed down from generation to generation. Recordings are now being made so that this part of the culture of the people cannot be lost.

The need of expression, together with the common instincts of ryhthm and of religion, is the basis of the dance and folk dances of all nations They are a communal expression, a devout togetherness in veneration for their present earth. Dancing is a thing of the spirit. It is interesting to know that when Our Royal Family visits any county, they are always entertained by the dancing of the National Dances. The famous International Edinburgh Festival has many classes in Highland Dancing.

Ballet is a formal art more than four hundred years old and we are all familiar with the beautiful music composed by the greatest musicians for the ballet dancing.

This year at our Music Festival a class has been added for Women's Institute members in square dancing and non members may be included; there will also be many classes for small children as the response to rhythm is characteristic of happy children.

Stage Is Being Set For Blood Clinics Next Week

Encouraging reports are being received at Provincial Red Cross Headquarters from the chairmen of different blood donor committees who are promoting campaigns for donors in their own localities. A telephone call from F-Lt. J.A. Warren, chairman of the blood donor committee at the R.C.A.F. Station in Summerside, revealed that to date 210 prospective donors have signed up for next Monday morning's clinic to be held at the drill hall on the Station. Former donors at North Rustico have been sent reminder cards about the clinic to be held there on Monday evening with an objective of 150 from the village itself, as well as from the surrounding districts in which canvassers are busy.

In Charlottetown where special clinics will be held at St. Dunstan's and Prince of Wales Colleges on Tuesday next the students of each college are striving to outdo each other in their donor enrolment. St. Dunstan's, under the leadership of George Mullally president of the Students' Council, will have a clinic on Tuesday morning, while Prince of Wales, headed by Gerald Steele, will have an afternoon clinic in the College auditorium.

100 per cent of the "Y" Phalanx Club will be reporting at the special evening clinic being held at Prince of Wales on Tuesday evening and the "Centennial" and "Alpha" Y's Men's Groups will have a good representation of members and friends at this same clinic.

The Basilica Youth Club has also pledged support of this Tuesday evening clinic. Other groups may phone Red Cross headquarters if they wish to have a stated time at which to attend this Tuesday evening clinic.

A "one-man" campaign for donors for the Charlottetown clinic is being conducted by Mr. Roy Leard of Mt. Stewart, as a token of his appreciation of the Red Cross Blood Transfusion Service which was the means of saving his life when he underwent a serious emergency operation during the past summer and had to have 19 transfusions. The Mt. Stewart branch of the Canadian Legion is making a special effort to have its members attend one of the clinics next week.

Two days of general Charlottetown clinics will be held at the Clover Club on Wednesday and Thursday next—afternoon and evening of December 5th and 6th when another 800 donors will be required to make up the total of 1500 donors needed during the four days on which the clinics are to be held in order to keep the blood bank filled for the winter months during which there will be no clinics held in this Province.

New 5c Stamp To Honour Explorer

OTTAWA (CP)—The post office department announced today that David Thompson, one of the most famous explorers of Canada, will be honored next year by a stamp bearing his portrait.

The department said the stamp will be one of at least 10 to be issued in 1957 along with a new-type aerogramme, a stamped air-mail letter form.

Other subjects to be commemorated include the nation's mining, wildlife and outdoor recreation, the Universal Postal Union and the United Nations Children's Fund.

The five-cent stamp honoring Thompson, often called the greatest land geographer who ever lived, will be issued in June.

Thompson, who lived between 1770 and 1857, explored the Prairies, mapped the Columbia River system in British Columbia and built trading posts along the way. He spent many years in the Far North exploring and surveying and was responsible for much of the map work which led to the defining of the Canada-United States boundary. The Thompson River in B.C. is named after him.

He built the first trading post of the white man on the Columbia River system near Invermere, B.C., in August, 1807. The site of Kootenae House today is marked by a cut stone monument.

He worked for nearly 30 years for the Hudson's Bay Company and the North West Company.

The first of the 1957 stamps will be issued early in March to emphasize that Canada is an all seasons playground.

Four large size horizontal stamps will illustrate four types of Canadian outdoor recreation—skiing, fishing, swimming and hunting.

Deputy Mayor Addresses Club

An interesting outline of civic affairs was given last evening by Deputy Mayor Walthen Gaudet, in addressing the Charlottetown Kinsmen Club, at their regular supper meeting held at the Charlottetown Hotel. The speaker explained at some length the set-up and operation of a City Council. Warm thanks were extended on behalf of the club by Sam Robinson.

The members of the club, always keen supporters of the Blood Donor Clinics, unanimously voted to attend as a body the special clinic being held at Prince of Wales College, on the evening of December 4th.

It was announced that the play "Hamlet" will be staged at the Queen Charlotte auditorium for the students, on the afternoon of February 1st., for adults, on the evening of February 2nd. This play, which is a service project of the club, will be enacted by the world-famous Canadian Players of Stratford, Ontario, and promises to provide top entertainment for the citizens of Charlottetown.

Club attendance at this meeting stood at 87.9 per cent.

The Northwest Territories probably contain every mineral known to man except those formed by surface action in a tropical climate.
