

Teacher Describes Work In Biblical Archaeology

Addressing the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday, Rev. Dr. Lawrence Toombs described in fascinating manner the work entailed in "Digging up a Biblical City". He was introduced by chairman Frank Storey and thanked by John Simmonds.

Rev. Lawrence Toombs, B.A., B.Sc., B.D., Ph.D., Professor of Old Testament Literature and Exegesis in Drew Theological Seminary, New Jersey is a native of Charlottetown. He was educated at West Kent School and Prince of Wales College, and received his degree in Arts and Science at Acadia University. His theology was taken in Pine Hill College, Halifax, where he was awarded the degree of Bachelor of Divinity and his post graduate work in theology was taken at Drew Seminary from which he secured his Doctorate in Philosophy. Following ordination he served on the faculty of St. Stephen's College, Edmonton and from there was called to the Chair of Old Testament Literature in Drew Theological Seminary, New Jersey.

Dr. Toombs was appointed a Fellow of the American School of Oriental Research in 1934 and served a year on sabbatical leave at the Archaeological Institute in Jerusalem.

SUMMARY OF ADDRESS

The archaeologist has the same kind of sensation as the traveller in an airplane. To the air passenger all the normal sensations of distance are changed and the broad Atlantic may turn into a nap between breakfast and supper. In a similar way the archaeologist suffers a distortion of the sense of time.

"As he looks down into his excavation he sees layers of brown, red, black earth with here and there a piece of pottery or a bit of bone jutting out. He has to force himself to remember that he is looking at the record of 4000 years of human history and all that now remains of the hopes, dreams and efforts of a hundred generations of human beings.

"I had the honor to be Assistant Director of the Drew University-McCormick Theological Seminary-American School of Oriental Research Expedition at the biblical city of Shechem in central Jordan. The site is now occupied by the Arab village of Balata, with its fig orchards and its vegetable gardens and its ancient splendor is gone. But in its hey-day it was the third most important city in Palestine.

ABRAHAM AND JACOB

"Here Abraham first came when he entered the land. Here Jacob pitched his tents and digged his well. Here the tribes of Israel met in their tribal confederacy. And here Solomon had a flourishing provincial capital city. The importance of the site is indicated by the name which the Samaritans gave to it "The Naval of the Universe".

"In preparation for the expedition to Shechem I spent a year of study at the American School of Oriental Research in Jerusalem, in the course of which we visited many of the centers of culture in Lebanon, Jordan, Syria, and Southern Turkey. During this time I shared in the work of the British School of Archaeology at Jericho, where under the direction of Dr. Kathleen Kenyon a British expedition is writing a new chapter in the ancient history of the human race. They have discovered a city with massive walls and guard towers which existed there before the invention of pottery, when the only human implements were of stone, bone, and wood and the use of metals was altogether unknown. But all this was only preparatory to the excavations at Shechem.

FOUR QUESTIONS

"Today I shall try to answer briefly the four questions which are most frequently asked about our work.

DR. TOOMBS

"Why do you dig?"

"The answer to this question is simple. To recover history. If you recall your history classes you will remember how little we really have surviving out of the past of written books. Most of the writing that was done in ancient times has long ago perished. And writing when C. B. 3000 or before 3000 B.C., when writing was invented, there are, of course, no documents at all. But men did leave a record of their past. It is now buried under ground in the remains of the cities which they inhabited, and in the cemeteries, buildings and refuse heaps of their towns.

"It is not everything but it is at least something. And out of the pottery, walls, beads, rings, and household objects that remain, it is astonishing how much of the culture and life-the day-to-day existence of the ordinary person of the ancient world-can be reconstructed. The archaeologist is peering Tom peering into history and reading it backwards from the present to the remote past in the soil of the city where he digs.

"How do you know where to dig?"

"Fortunately there is no problem here. Our ancestors did not dig deep foundations for their houses, and they built out of very perishable mud bricks. When a house became old and useless, it was knocked down and leveled off and a new building put on top of it. The floors, foundations, and household objects of the first building were thus buried under the new house. Sometimes a plague would bring death to whole sections of a city. At other times earthquake, or fire or the destructive inroads of an invader would wipe out a town and the whole site would have to be levelled off and rebuilt.

"Thus in course of time the level of the city rose above the surrounding plain. Whenever a flat-topped mound is seen, under it lies the remains of an ancient town, with layer on layer of successive civilizations concealed in it, waiting for the spade of the archaeologist to bring them to light.

"How do you dig?"

"The gathering of the staff is one of the most important elements in the expedition. There must be a surveyor and architect to draw the accurate plans of the excavation and to locate on those plans everything of significance that is unearthed. A photographer must be there to record in movie, color, and black and white the progress of the digging and the finds that are made. There has to be a recording staff continually at work in the dig building keeping records of the discoveries, drawing and describing, cleaning the delicate pieces of bronze and iron and searching the books on archaeology for parallels to them.

WORK ON THE MOUND

NOT HIGHLY POISONOUS Further Precautions At Swimming Pool Are Taken

The pills used to purify the water in the swimming pool at Victoria Park are not highly poisonous but if one or two pills were swallowed stomach distress would be produced, Health officials here have said.

The statement was made following the possible swallowing of a pill (or pills) last Saturday afternoon by an unknown child at the pool.

The Health officials pointed out that the pills are put into the pool to purify the water to prevent any possible spread of contagious disease. The pills are kept in plastic boxes at the floor of the pool. Several children said that a youngster had swallowed two pills on Saturday and alarmed the supervisors who, thinking that the tablets might be highly poisonous, publicized a warning to the public to watch for any unusual symptoms in their children.

The Red Cross has already taken steps to remedy any possible recurrence of the incident by having new containers built which will be kept locked, and the pills will be kept inaccessible to any children using the pool.

Gale Plays Hob With Golf Scores At Saskatoon Meet

By JIM PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
SASKATOON (CP)—Mrs. Marlene Stewart Street of Ponthill, Ont., turned in a six-over-par 82 over the windswept Saskatoon Golf and Country Club Monday to assure herself of low medal score in the qualifying round of the Canadian women's open golf championship.

The 24-year-old veteran, who has won the crown four times, went out in 41 and came back in the same score, playing her shots carefully and safely in the winds that averaged 30 miles an hour and gusted to 45.

Her 18-hole score was four strokes lower than that of Mary Gale of Calgary, who fired 46-40—86 while playing in a three-some with Marlene and defending-champion Betty Stanhope of Edmonton. Miss Stanhope had trouble with the wind and came in with 43-47—90.

Among the first 75 finishers, the best score was turned in by Mrs. Rex Hebb of Bridgewater, N.S., who whipped the wind and gusts to a 92 on the par-76 Saskatoon Golf and Country Club.

Morning players had to contend with winds averaging 25 and gusting to 35 miles an hour. By the time the low-handicap players left the first tee in the early afternoon, the winds were at 45 miles an hour.

Dust clouds dulled the sky, but the weather was warm and sunny.

Only a handful of those in first cracked 100 on the windswept, 6,814-yard course where the northwesterly winds played crazy tricks with the golf balls.

Behind Mrs. Hebb's 92 were juniors Mary Darling and Lynn Chaplin of Montreal and Mrs. M. Hutton-Potts of Vancouver with 95 each and Gayle Hitchens of Vancouver with 96—including four penalty strokes.

The top 32 Monday qualified for the match-play championship flight with the others placing in several secondary flights.

EOKA Calls For Truce On Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The chief of the EOKA underground Monday night declared a truce in the campaign of violence against Turks and Britons.

Col. George Grivas ordered his men to cease "all operations" immediately. Only three weeks ago he had ordered eye-for-eye vengeance against British and Turks in retaliation for any killings of Greek Cypriots.

Grivas' call for a truce carried the warning that operations would be resumed "if provocation by the British and the Turks continues after our truce."

APPEALS MADE

The truce followed appeals by the premiers of Greece, Turkey and Britain for an end to the bloodbath on the island. More than 1,000 persons have been killed here in three years, 150 of them in the last two months.

Four persons, two Greeks and two Turkish Cypriots, were killed Monday before Grivas issued his truce order.

Grivas is a 60-year-old former Greek army officer and wartime resistance leader.

The truce was the second called by EOKA. The first came in March, 1957. It lasted until this spring when the wave of killings and sabotage of property resumed.

The feud between Greek and Turkish-speaking residents of the British Mediterranean island colony arises from a deadlock between the two groups over the island's political future.

DEMAND UNION

The 400,000 Greek Cypriots demand union with Greece. But the 100,000 Turks oppose this and seek the island's partition into Greek- and Turkish-speaking areas.

British troops have tried to keep order amid Greek and Turkish demands for an end to British rule. Among the dead are 36 British servicemen.

Because of the killings wives and children of British servicemen will not be allowed to join their husbands and fathers. But Monday's order said dependants already here would not be evacuated.

EOKA Calls For Truce On Cyprus

The pile-up occurred in the fourth dash as the horses came off the back stretch the second time around.

Veteran reinsman Stead had just made his move in an attempt to catch the leaders when the brown mare tripped and fell to her left throwing Mr. Stead to the ground.

The Budlong gelding driven by Mr. MacDonald was unable to swerve clear and both horse and sulky passed over the prone driver.

The tangle sent the third horse in line, New Forest, crashing into the inside rail.

Mr. Stead was taken to hospital by ambulance.

Curling Club To Build New Rink

Local curling enthusiasts will have one more ice on which to play this winter.

Following an executive meeting held last night, it was announced that the Charlottetown Curling Club would begin at once the erection of a new five-ice rink to replace the present 4-ice structure, which will be torn down.

The 170 x 80 foot one-story cement and steel building is expected to be completed by the first of December.

At present there are no plans to make any major alterations in the main clubhouse, behind which the new rink will be built, but president H.H. Simpson stated that a big membership drive would be made early in the fall.

Chairman of the building committee is Dr. Wendell MacDonald.

Two Drivers And Two Horses Injured In Track Accident

Two drivers and two trotters were injured in a three-way smash up at the Charlottetown Driving Park last night.

Driver Harold Stead of Brackley suffered a compound fracture of the left leg, Emmett Bernard of Hunter River a sprained ankle, while Roy MacCallum's four-year-old trotter, Sally Volstead, and Mr. Bernard's nine-year-old trotter, New Forest, will be out of action for some time with leg injuries.

The third party to the crash, Randall MacDonald of Peter's Road, and his trotter, All Budlong, escaped injury and competed in a later dash on the same card.

Ken Venturi Wins Chicago $50,000 Open Golf Event

CHICAGO (AP)—Ken Venturi, tapping in a 60-foot putt on the 68th hole as the clincher, captured the $50,000 Chicago Open Monday with a closing 72 for a 72-hole total of 262, eight under par.

Al Balding of Toronto finished far off the pace with 69-74-70-74-287.

Venturi, leader all the way in the chase for a $9,000 first prize, won by one stroke over a pair of fast finishers, veterans Jackie Burke and Julius Boros.

Burke, who finished with a 70, missing an 18-footer by inches for a possible tie, and Boros, with the day's best closing round, 65, each collected $3,800 for their 273 total.

Three players tied for third—South African Gary Player, Bob Rosburg and J. C. Goswiec—each two strokes behind Venturi.

Rosburg, Goswiec and Player each collected $2,333 for their share of fourth place.

At 275, three strokes off the pace, was Bill Casper, who opened Friday with 80 and then followed with rounds of 64-64-84 Casper earned $1,900.

Rounding out the top nine finishers were Marty Furgol at 276, good for $1,700, and Ted Kroil at 277 which paid $1,600.

U.S. Open champion Tommy Bolt finished in a tie at 279 for an $875 take.

Will Be Glad To Meet Durelle If Price Is Right

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Archie Moore says he'd be glad to defend his world light heavyweight title against Canada's Yvon Durelle "if they come up with the money."

"I've got a secret dieting formula that'll take me down to 175 pounds in no time," said Arch.

"Isn't this guy Durelle something of a slugger?"

"I wouldn't lose any sleep about that," said Arch.

"Suppose he got down to 175 pounds for a title bout with Durelle and then wanted to gain weight to fight Patterson?"

"That's simple, I just eat," said Archie.

As for Monday night's fight in Reno, Moore will be seeking his 127th knockout—a world record. He shares the 126 mark with the late Young Stribling. He's beaten King four times, but never kayed the Reno battler.

Hold Funeral Of Engineer

MONTREAL (CP)—Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from a funeral home in west-end Montreal for Philip Louis Pratley, 73, prominent consulting engineer and co-designer of most of Canada's largest bridges, who died Friday.

Burial was at Mount Royal Cemetery.

Mr. Pratley had been retained as consulting engineer on such bridges as the Angus L. Macdonald bridge, between Halifax and Dartmouth, N.S., the Burlington Skyway bridge at Burlington, Ont., and helped design the Canso Causeway between Cape Breton Island and the Nova Scotia mainland.

He was co-designer of Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge, the Isle of Orleans bridge near Quebec City, the Canadian portion of the Thousand Islands' bridge at Gananoque, Ont., the Lion's Gate bridge at Vancouver, the Blue Water bridge at Sarnia, Ont., the Ambassador Bridge at Windsor, Ont., and the Niagara arch at Niagara Falls, Ont.

He was awarded the Julian C. Smith Medal in 1943 by the Engineering Institute of Canada.

He is survived by two sons, P. J. Pratley of Ottawa and H.H. Pratley of Montreal.

Dr. Pratley had many friends in Prince Edward Island who will mourn his passing.

In addition to being an outstanding engineer, he was one of Canada's leading Bible students. He was a member of the Church of Christ and was a man of wisdom and integrity.

The feud between Greek and Turkish-speaking residents of the British Mediterranean island colony arises from a deadlock between the two groups over the island's political future.

DEMAND UNION

The 400,000 Greek Cypriots demand union with Greece. But the 100,000 Turks oppose this and seek the island's partition into Greek- and Turkish-speaking areas.

British troops have tried to keep order amid Greek and Turkish demands for an end to British rule. Among the dead are 36 British servicemen.

Because of the killings wives and children of British servicemen will not be allowed to join their husbands and fathers. But Monday's order said dependants already here would not be evacuated.

Will Be Glad To Meet Durelle If Price Is Right

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—Archie Moore says he'd be glad to defend his world light heavyweight title against Canada's Yvon Durelle "if they come up with the money."

"I've got a secret dieting formula that'll take me down to 175 pounds in no time," said Arch.

"Isn't this guy Durelle something of a slugger?"

"I wouldn't lose any sleep about that," said Arch.

"Suppose he got down to 175 pounds for a title bout with Durelle and then wanted to gain weight to fight Patterson?"

"That's simple, I just eat," said Archie.

As for Monday night's fight in Reno, Moore will be seeking his 127th knockout—a world record. He shares the 126 mark with the late Young Stribling. He's beaten King four times, but never kayed the Reno battler.

Hold Funeral Of Engineer

MONTREAL (CP)—Funeral services were held Monday afternoon from a funeral home in west-end Montreal for Philip Louis Pratley, 73, prominent consulting engineer and co-designer of most of Canada's largest bridges, who died Friday.

Burial was at Mount Royal Cemetery.

Mr. Pratley had been retained as consulting engineer on such bridges as the Angus L. Macdonald bridge, between Halifax and Dartmouth, N.S., the Burlington Skyway bridge at Burlington, Ont., and helped design the Canso Causeway between Cape Breton Island and the Nova Scotia mainland.

He was co-designer of Montreal's Jacques Cartier bridge, the Isle of Orleans bridge near Quebec City, the Canadian portion of the Thousand Islands' bridge at Gananoque, Ont., the Lion's Gate bridge at Vancouver, the Blue Water bridge at Sarnia, Ont., the Ambassador Bridge at Windsor, Ont., and the Niagara arch at Niagara Falls, Ont.

He was awarded the Julian C. Smith Medal in 1943 by the Engineering Institute of Canada.

He is survived by two sons, P. J. Pratley of Ottawa and H.H. Pratley of Montreal.

Dr. Pratley had many friends in Prince Edward Island who will mourn his passing.

In addition to being an outstanding engineer, he was one of Canada's leading Bible students. He was a member of the Church of Christ and was a man of wisdom and integrity.

M. R. E. C. Camp Breaks Up Today

Returning to their homes today will be sixty-five boys and girls who have been attending a Junior Maritime Religious Education Council Camp at Augustine Cove. The camp was under the direction of Miss Sue D'Arcy, of the Children's Work Board. Elmer Maclean was business manager and Roger Macmillan was camp councillor.
