93 Year Old Layman Inspires Church Goers At S'side

—On November 15 the members of the congregation of the Church of Christ, Summerside, were thrilled and inspired to hear a message from one who had celebrated his 93rd birthday. The speaker was Mr. George A. Jeffery, who reached that grand old age on November 14.

His message entitled "Satisfied Christians" was delivered with comparative ease and forcefulness. It embodied many high and lofty thoughts. Most inspiring of all was Mr. Jeffery's numerous quotations from the psalms and other passages of scripture. These quotations from memory revealed his unusual ability to memorize and quote whole chapters from all parts of the scriptures.

To commence, Mr. Jeffery quoted as his text psalm 17:15, "As for me I will behold Thy face in righteousness; I shall be satisfied when I awake with Thy likeness." Briefly he spoke of the benefits of reading the psalms. He alluded to their spiritual uplift as well as their poetical superiority. He urged his hearers to find comfort, strength, warmth, vigor in the reading of the psalms.

The main body of Mr. Jeffery's message contained three distinct divisions. First, the unsatisfactory period in man's existence; said he, "that period is now." He showed conclusively, that from the lowest to the highest, men are not completely satisfied, for life holds many grave problems, discouragements and disillusion.

Then he spoke on the period of transition when man takes greater interest in the things of eternity and those things pertaining to God and His righteousness. This transition, he said, "takes place when man becomes aware of God's concern and God's promises through the Gospel".

Lastly, Mr. Jeffery spoke on the satisfied condition when those who put their trust in God and His word will experience the realities of God's promises.

In his concluding remarks he revealed his own personal joy and satisfaction in looking with faith and assurance to the great promise of eternity with the Lord. —S.
