WHO IS RESPONSIBLE FOR JUVENILE DELINQUENCY? "Don't blame irresponsible parents or lurid comic books," warns Prof. C. G. Gifford, of McGill University. An expert who has had plenty of close association with the teenage "problem," this social worker spent 15 months with Toronto's notorious "Beaney Boys." The rate of juvenile delinquency has been rising in Canada, and many parents are worried about it. Don't miss this provocative article which shatters many prevailing myths about the reasons why kids "go wrong."

CANADA'S PRIME RACONTEUR needs no priming to share one of his gems of humor with his readers. Perhaps that's why he has the largest reading audience of any Canadian writer. His story in this Saturday's Patriot Weekend Magazine is guaranteed to produce laughter — when Greg Clark's uncanny nose for news inspires him to follow the case of the pin-jabber right through to the end!

GRACE KELLY'S MARRIAGE to Prince Rainier of Monaco was written off as "an interlude between pictures" by skeptical reporters. Do the restraints of her position cause a dull life behind the high palace walls? Is she happy with a husband once described as "the worst-tempered monarch in Europe?" "Marriages are made in heaven," claims the priest who was matchmaker of the romance, "but safety matches are made on earth." Which category does Monaco's marriage fall into?

Third Service In Local Series Held Last Night

The third in a series of Passion Week services was held last evening in the First Baptist Church of Charlottetown, and was conducted by the pastor, Rev. H. L. Milton.

Mr. Milton, in welcoming the large congregation, said that he had been encouraged by the splendid attendance night, and expressed the prayer that the meditations on Christ's Passion might serve to deepen the spiritual life of the church. The senior choir rendered the appropriate selection, "God So Loved The World" by Stainer.

In continuing a series of sermons based upon "The Upper Room," Mr. Milton spoke last evening on the High-Priestly Prayer of Jesus offered in behalf of His disciples and all believers who came after them.

Mr. Milton began by saying that it is an awesome thing to overhear someone praying in an act of private devotion.

"In reading the seventeenth chapter of John's Gospel," he continued, "we hear the prayer Jesus offered in our behalf. He prays that we may glorify God, that we may be kept from the contagion of the world's evil, that we may be sanctified or separated unto the Gospel, and that we may achieve true oneness with fellow believers."

The Passion Week Services concluded this evening in the observance of a Candlelight Communion. The concluding message of the series will have to do with "The Sacred Feast" instituted by the Lord Jesus Christ on the eve of His death. Believers from various communions are welcome.

FINDS "NOSE-CONE" SOUTHAMPTON, Ont. (CP)—A 4 1/2-foot object resembling the nose cone of a rocket was found Sunday near this Lake Huron community. John Ranney said the aluminum cylinder was about 2 1/2 feet in diameter, contained 27 tubes and was marked "Serial FM Mods Inc." and "Dec. 30 LA."
