THE QUEEN'S BIRTHDAY

Splendid Celebration in Charlottetown,

MONSTER PARADE, BONFIRE AND FIREWORKS.

Handsome Decorations—Great Crowds of People.

The public celebration of the Queen's Birthday last night was an immense success. Charlottetown has once more demonstrated that it never does anything by halves.

The streets were thronged with people long before the hour at which the procession was to start, and every point from which a view of the parade could be obtained was occupied.

Flags, bunting, colored lights and especially-dressed store windows, added to the brilliancy of the scene. Besides, many persons carried flags, and nearly every one had red, white and blue decorations.

In the way of store decorations Weeks & Co's establishment was the most conspicuous. The front of the store was decorated with flags and bannettes, and on the top was a large representation of the crown. From the roof fireworks were set off during the evening. Paton & Co, Prowse Bros. and other well known establishments also had strings of flags leading from their places of business across the streets.

The City Building was handsomely illuminated and decorated, and leading across the street were strings of electric lamps. Strings of electric lights also stretched across the street from the new Province Block. The Law Court building, the Market House, Queen Square School, the Rovers Hotel, the residence of Mayor Warburton, and many other places of business and private houses were also illuminated.

It was about eight o'clock when the procession started from City Hall in the following order:

- Mayor Warburton and City Councillors in carriage.
- Armored train.
- Fire Department.
- Band of the 4th Regt. C.A.
- No's 1 and 2 Co's 4th Regt. C.A. Engineers.
- Detachment 82nd Battalion.
- 82nd Battalion Band.
- No 1 Company Boys' Brigade with stretcher section.
- Highland Brigade.
- No 3 Company Boys' Brigade.
- No 4 Company Boys' Brigade.
- League of the Cross and Society.
- St. Dunstan's Band and Students of St. Dunstan's College.

The militia looked well, as they always do, and the more youthful soldiers of the Boys' Brigade also presented a splendid appearance. The little fellows looked well in their natty uniforms, the boys of the Highland Brigade in their kilts attracting special attention. The little fellows of the League of the Cross, with their pretty collars and banners, were also a prominent feature and marched well. The firemen ably sustained their reputation, and their ornamental carriage with representation of the Queen and the various arms of the British service was a conspicuous feature of the procession.

Col. Moore and Col. Longworth directed the procession on horse-back, and the firemen were under the direction of acting Chief Charles Hermans, who sat behind a white charger. Major Stewart, Lieut. Grey, Surgeon-Captain Johnson and Captain Tidmarsh commanded the companies of the Boys' Brigade, and Charles McQuillan marshalled the League of the Cross.

The route of the procession was down Queen to Water Street, along Water to Prince, up Prince to Kent, down Kent to Pownall, down Pownall to Grafton, along Grafton to Prince, down Prince to Richmond, thence along Victoria Row to Market Square.

On the square there was a large bonfire, around which the different elements in the parade formed a circle, the back-ground being made up of several thousand citizens. During the progress of the fire cheers were given for the Queen, the British Generals on service in South Africa, and Mayor Warburton. The different bands contributed patriotic airs, and Soldiers of the Queen was sung by the members of the Boys' Brigade.

About half-past nine there was more cheering for the Queen, after which the militia and the others participating in the parade repaired to their headquarters where they dispersed. But many citizens lingered about the square until the last vestige of the bonfire disappeared.

After the bonfire the setting off of fireworks was continued, this feature of the celebration continuing until well up to midnight.

The manner in which the celebration of the 81st birthday of Victoria the Good was celebrated in Charlottetown will long remain a pleasant memory.

NOTES.

'Rah for the Queen.
Chief Sark occupied a prominent position on the armored train last night.

The Salvage Corps wagon decoration was the idea of Mr. Joseph Hennessey.

The decorating of the City Building was done by Mr. Robert Vanidestine, and was highly creditable to him.

The decorating of the Market building was done by Mr. William Dillon and Councillor Tanton. It was greatly admired.

The band music last night was especially good. The Band of the 4th Regt. plays exceptionally well since its re-organization.

The decorating of Weeks & Co's store was largely the work of Mr. L. G. Whelan. That the work was well done is freely acknowledged.

Hazard & Moore's display of fireworks last night was highly creditable. The fire balloon sent up by the firm was a pretty sight and attracted much attention.

The torches and colored lights in the parade last evening gave the whole a very pleasing appearance. The procession looked its prettiest as it passed along Victoria Row.

The streets along the route of the procession were well lined with people, and there was a profusion of flags and fireworks. The same remark applies to many of the side streets as well.

The boys of the Highland Brigade were this forenoon photographed by Mr. Westlake. As they marched from St. James' Hall to the photographer's under command of Major Stewart and Captain Bartlett they were the cynosure of all eyes.

The armored train was a conspicuous feature of the procession. The almost continuous rifle fire therefrom punctuated the band music and the cheers of the crowd along the streets through which the procession passed.

Last night Councillors Balls and Taylor provided the firemen with refreshments, a kindness which was greatly appreciated. Cheers were given for Councillors Taylor and Balls, Assistant Chief Hermans and Chief Laird who was prevented by illness from being present.

Rheumatism—"I believe Hood's Sarsaparilla has no equal for rheumatism. It has done me more good than any other medicine I have taken." MRS. PATRICK KENNEY, Brampton, Ont.

Bad Cough—"After my long illness, I was very weak and had a bad cough. I could not eat or sleep. Different remedies did not help me but Hood's Sarsaparilla built me up and I am now able to attend to my work." MINNIE JACQUES, Oshano, Ont.
