Found Governors Like "Belshazzar"

CHARLOTTE, Mich., Aug. 22—Governor Dickinson told a Sunday school class in Centre Eaton Methodist Church today that the conference of governors which he attended in New York State was "the nearest thing I know" to Belshazzar's feast, the text for today's international Sunday school lesson on temperance.

His blast against "high life" upon his return from the New York conference made the 60-year-old Mr. Dickinson a national figure. Attendance at his crossroads Sunday school class increased and today he talked for the first time to a gathering of 59 persons including "pupils" from Detroit and Chicago.

"Not that they went that far," the former temperance lecturer qualified in drawing his comparison between the private lives of his contemporates in high places and the Babylonian lords of biblical days.

"But I'm telling you the mere countenancing of drink at that affair of the Governors had just as evil an effect upon their people as Belshazzar's feasts had in Babylon," he said. "It was the influence that mattered.

Wants Example "From the Top"

"If we could start at the top, with the men and women who are in the public eye, and there have an influence that would come down to the rest of us, it wouldn't be long till that influence would cover the whole country.

"If we can't, we've got to start in the churches, our homes and our neighborhoods."

In this connection the Governor declared that "we've got to clean the liquor traffic out of the churches."

"Too many in our churches and on our own official boards have become enmeshed in the liquor traffic," he declared. "They don't seem to realize that their little wine parties are the same as Belshazzar's feast for the Babylonian nobles—on a little smaller scale, but with the same influences."

Mr. Dickinson warned his class to heed the handwriting on the wall before it was "too late."

"We've got to turn to the same power Belshazzar looked to when it was too late to save his life and prevent the division of his kingdom," the Governor said. "We've got to go back right where Belshazzar did and take the same advice

Asks a Different Home Life

"Until we can establish a different kind of home life and good examples in high places, we're not going to stop the influences left over to us from Belshazzar's day. Are we going to do that, or just let things ride?"

The Governor, estimating the State's annual liquor bill as paid by individual citizens "conservatively" at $90,000,000, also assailed drinking as a needless expense that yielded Michigan an inadequate revenue while sapping resources that would otherwise return a greater amount in taxes.

Mr. Dickinson's war on waste was also renewed today as he urged State employes not to spend their pay checks for "non-essentials."

Asked to define his idea of a "non-essential," the Executive said:

"If a young woman stenographer smokes cigarettes, I suppose you could consider one cigarette after dinner essential in her case. But if she smokes six or seven of them, then the sixth and seventh, at least, are non-essential."

Union Continues Its Drive For Better Wages

SYDNEY, N. S., Aug. 23 —(CP)—Pickets bearing placards "Buy here and starve us" and "you pay $1.25 an hour—we get 16 1-2 cents" lolled in front of Sydney service stations tonight as the newly-formed Automobile Workers Union continued its drive for better wages and working conditions.

The workers, whose wages in some cases are from $6 to $8 for a week ranging from 48 to 36 hours, called the strike yesterday after an open-air meeting at which their grievances were expounded by union president Syd Malcolm and foreman Waye, provincial organizer for the congress of industrial organizations, with which the union is affiliated.

The band of members went from station to station calling out employees, the number increasing as wondering small boys, curious idlers, gesticulating mechanics and amused policemen were attracted by the milling crowd. The parade was not noisy, and no violence was observed.

Station managers and skeleton staffs dispensed gasoline and apologies for slow service, while in a few stations new workers were hired as the old ones left.

Demands of the workmen included request for a 48-hour week, minimum wage of $12 for beginners and $15 for experienced men subject to upward revision according to experience and ability, and abolition of piece-work or flat-rate work. The union has about 250 members.

Although pickets were conspicuously absent from two stations, their managers refused to say if they had signed an agreement with the union.

Officials of the union said six of the city's 20-odd stations had signed to their terms. Decision to picket the rest was arrived at at a union meeting.

BUSY DAY FOR

the singing of O Canada by Girl Guides and Brownies with Miss Mary Callaghan at the piano, and Miss Iphigenie Arsenault of Charlottetown in charge of the Guides and Brownies. Following the opening the Brownies sang "Little Sir Echo" and Miss Laure Jeanne Arsenault sang a vocal solo, "the Call of the Hills."

Dr. MacMillan's address was followed by a vocal solo "Bless This House" by Rev. Bernard Gillis, D D. Miss Marion Dougan was accompanist.

The next item was a paper on "Family Pedagogy" by Mrs. Arthur Howatt of Charlottetown.

Mrs. Howatt traced the religious and moral education of a child from birth to the end of high school, dividing the period into four phases, first, from birth to two years of age, second, from two years to seven, third from seven to twelve years of age and the fourth from 12 years onward. Of the four the most important was the time from two to seven for if the child had sound religious, moral and physical education during that period it might be considered three-quarters educated, the speaker said. The principal burden of the child's education devolves on the mothers, Mrs. Howatt believed. Self-control was the aim and triumph of education and "firmness and horse sense" were described as the most valuable attributes for the mother to possess.

Mrs. Howatt dwelt on the prevalence of the use of intoxicating liquors and the use of profane language and the apparent indifference with which they were looked upon by many. The aim of the Catholic mother should be to raise the standards of youth, Mrs. Howatt said.

Mr. Pius Callaghan of Charlottetown spoke briefly dealing principally with the meaning of panel discussions in connection with study club work.

Mrs. Frank Murray, president of the Charlottetown sub-division presided last night.

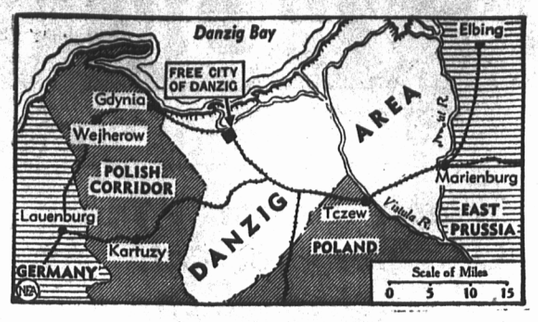
Here's the Meat of Europe's Quarrel Over Danzig

The German Side

GERMANY CLAIMS: Danzig, a traditionally German city with almost 100 per cent German population, wishes to be and should be incorporated into the Reich. Germans in Danzig have been abused, their rights curtailed by Poles. Danzig and the Polish Corridor cuts the Reich off from East Prussia in a way intolerable to German pride, a reminder of the repudiated Versailles settlement. Return of Danzig to Germany would not affect Polish independence.



The Polish Side

POLISH CLAIMS: Danzig, Gydnia and the Polish Corridor are an absolute economic necessity to Poland independence, as their only outlet for sea-borne trade. Further, the latter two are truly Polish. Deprived of this sea outlet, Poland would immediately become a second-rate country, and lose economic and military power to defend itself against further aggression, to which it regards the Danzig move as only the prelude.

Foerster

GERMAN STRENGTH

Chancellor Hitler, whose spokesman in Danzig is Albert Foerster, head of the free city Nazis, has—to back up his claims — about 2,500,000 men under arms He has a superior air force and mechanized divisions, but a potential lack of supplies and reserves in case of long war As allies, the Reich could count on Italy (900,000 under arms) and possibly Hungary (200,000) if war became general.

Hitler

Beck

POLISH STRENGTH

Col Josef Beck, Polish strong man, has about 1,000,000 under arms, small but good air force, good arms, splendid cavalry. He is faced with insufficient reserves if Nazis seize Danzig from free city status under Dr Karl L Burckhardt, League of Nations commissioner, Beck might count as allies Britain (70,000 soldiers and world's greatest navy), France and Turkey (1000,000 ecah), and Russia (2,500,000).

also saw the Prime Minister.

The Foreign Secretary had a talk with Count Edward Raczynski, Polish Ambassador, and discussed the latest developments. Both Poland and France were informed in advance of the message sent to Hitler by the Government.

Both Mr. Chamberlain and Lord Halifax will make statements on the international situation in Parliament tomorrow.

The Foreign Secretary will broadcast Britain's case to the world tomorrow night from Downing Street where Mr. Chamberlain made his dramatic statement two days before the Munich Conference last September.

As indications came from the Dominions that they agreed with London's stand, the Dominion's High Commissioners met here tonight to study ways and means of active cooperation.

Gibraltar was placed on a virtual war footing. All soldiers' leaves were cancelled at the British rock fortress, defence posts atop the great rock were manned with full complements including heavy artillery emplacements and anti-aircraft guns, and a barricade was thrown across the north entrance to the harbor. Reinforcements were sent to the Spanish border as the Gibraltar defence committee met to consider further action.

Dispatches from Australia and New Zealand indicated those Dominions were standing firm behind Great Britain.

See Heavy Price Paid By Hitler For Soviet Pact

NEW YORK, Aug. 23—(C. P.)—A Berlin despatch to The New York Herald Tribune today said that whatever new strength the proposed non-aggression pact with Russia may bring Germany, "Observers were convinced Fuehrer Hitler had never yet had to pay such a heavy price—that is, his former Nazi principles."

"The Nazi regime, which proclaimed itself as Europe's bulwark against Bolshevism and which was given by Hitler the sacred mission of expansion to the east at the expense of the Soviet Union, apparently decided that this price had to be paid.

Soviet newspaper circles in Berlin were uninformed about the move until it was announced, but they privately repeated earlier Soviet assurance that Josef Stalin's policy against aggression in Europe had not changed. They insisted that any renewal of the old non-aggression treaty with Germany was likely to be in terms which would leave Russia's hands free—as the usual wording of non-aggression pacts would do—to oppose Germany with arms if Hitler should commit an act of aggression against a third nation.

"Germany best informed about the Soviet Union made no bones about admitting this. They were convinced that the Soviet desire for peace without a second Munich was still the strongest determinant of Russian policy."

PARTITIONING OF POLAND IS THREATENED

Hitler Offers Two Alternatives — Yield Or Fight, Report.

(By LOUIS P. LOCHNER)
(Associated Press Staff Writer)

BERLIN, Aug. 23 —(AP)—Fuehrer Hitler appeared tonight once again to hold Europe's fate in his hands, adhering firmly to his demands upon Poland which a reliable informant said included acceptance by the Poles of a protectorate Government.

The demands, according to trustworthy information, were dispatched yesterday to most European capitals as follows:—

1. Unconditional return of Danzig.

2. Cession of those sections of Poland which were German before the Great War (Pommerellen, Pomorze and Polish Upper Silesia.)

3.Acceptance of a protectorate for the area remaining, similar to that of Bohemia and Moravia, parts of former Czecho-Slovakia.

REITERATES WARNING

The British Ambassador, Sir Nevile Henderson, was said to have re-stated Great Britain's pledge to aid Poland as an answer to these demands in a call at Hitler's Berchtesgaden home today.

The expose to other Governments is said to have contained Hitler's two alternatives for a Polish settlement:—

Either Poland accepts these terms and permits Germany peacefully to occupy the sections claimed, or Poland fights, with the result that Germany will see to it that her eastern adversary is partitioned once again as has been her fate in the past.

"Too Late" Reply

According to one version, Sir Nevile assured Hitler that Prime Minister Chamberlain was continuing his efforts on behalf of peace.

"Too late" was in effect the German Dictator's reply, it was ascertained reliably.

Hitler, according to the official German News Bureau, D. N. B., "left no doubt in the mind of the British Ambassador that the obligations assumed by the British Government could not induce Germany to renounce her championship of national interests vital to the life of the Reich."

Three questions were on everyone's lips as they met today on the streets, in restaurants or in society:—

1. Will the Fuehrer strike on Friday, as it has generally been assumed in all walks of life as well as those in the foreign colonies of Berlin?

2. Might he even decide to press the button for a showdown with Poland tonight, in the hope of completing his coup before the British Parliament can get together tomorrow?

3. Will he succeed in persuading the Poles that their position is hopeless, thereby ensuring another bloodless conquest for himself?

Those who still believed Hitler would have his way without bloodshed pointed to assurances attributed to the British Prime Minister that he was doing his utmost to persuade the Poles to negotiate.

They also pointed to rumors current in financial circles that Premier Mussolini was pressing upon Poland to meet the German demands.

That the British and the French take a serious view of the situation was attested by the fact that all except five British correspondents and one French have left the Capital.

Besides these newsmen, only the embassy and consular staffs are still in Berlin; all other French and British citizens have departed.

The German Government, too, has a more serious view.

The anti-aircraft guns on public buildings for instance, which peeped forth so conspicuously during the September Crisis, were again in place in the Capital.

Advices from various reliable sources indicated that since yesterday, from the High Tatra Mountains to the Baltic, the German armed forces along the Polish corridor have been placed in a state of "highest readiness."

NOT FOR PUBLICATION

CARDIFF —(CP) —Because he refused to give his wife's age and date of their marriage, when registering the birth of his son, a chemist was fined £10 ($47). He said he did not wish to tell of his "private affairs" only to register his son's birth.

Decrease Is Noted

MONTREAL, Aug. 23—A "favorable" decrease in deaths from tuberculosis, which claims nearly twice as many lives in Quebec as elsewhere in Canada, was reported today by Dr. J. A. Jarry, chairman of Quebec's anti-tuberculosis committee.

The reduction was reported by Dr. Jarry as he made public a report of the committee, formed more than a year ago when statistics placed Quebec's death-rate at 93.3 per 100,000 population as compared with 48 per 100,000 for the rest of Canada.

The Quebec death-rate, now at approximately 78 per 100,000, was reduced, said Dr. Jarry, mainly through the efforts of the committee which will function until 1940, when a complete report on the tuberculosis situation will be presented to the provincial government.

"But," added Dr. Jarry, emphasizing the point, "the figure must be brought down to 34 per 100,000 population, or even lower, before it even can be termed satisfactory."

Advise Committee In Rehabilitating Producers

ANTIGONISH, N. S., Aug. 23—(CP)—Establishment of local advisory committees in each county of Nova Scotia to recommend to the provincial government expenditure of funds for rehabilitation of primary producers was suggested in a resolution passed at the concluding session of the rural and industrial conference today.

The committees, to be established by the provincial government, would serve without remuneration. They would advise the government in rehabilitating people in agriculture, fisheries and handicrafts.

At its 17th annual meeting, the conference which has become a clearing house for ideas and experiences related to the co-operative movement, heard a symposium in which voluntary group health insurance was urged as preferable to complete state medicine.

Three speakers agreed the health insurance scheme was preferable, although in diseases such as tuberculosis needing long hospitalization and specialized care, treatment could best be administered on a wide provincial or national basis, they said.

Confer 15 Honorary Degrees

HALIFAX, Aug. — (CP) —Fifteen honorary degrees were given by the University of King's College today in celebration of the sesquicentennial of the College's foundation.

Out of doors in the quadrangle, Dr. A. Stanley Walker, president and vice chancellor of the University, stood on the portico of the main entrance and from between the Ionic columns conferred the degrees, two doctorates in Divinity and 13 doctorates in Civil Law.

Garbed in their academicals, members of convocation listened to the public orator cite the recommendations of the candidates in Latin and in accordance with the age-old ceremony brought to King's from Oxford University, gave their assent in the same language.

Early in the ceremony, part of which was broadcast, president Walker read a greeting from the Archbishop of Canterbury, ex officio patron of the University under its royal charter.

"BUSTERS" WINNERS

SPRINGHILL, N. S., Aug. 23 —(CP)—An eight-inning rally of six runs broke up a 3-3 tie with New Glasgow and gave Springhill Fencebusters a 9-4 victory today to send them into the Nova Scotia baseball semi-finals against Halifax Cardinals.

Springhill had won the first game of the two-in-three series against the Pictou County titlists Saturday by an 11-1 score.

will prevail, but if the hour comes it will find New Zealand united and solid."

Southern Rhodesia

The Southern Rhodesian Parliament was called to meet Monday to pass legislation similar to Britain's emergency powers bill, which Prime Minister Chamberlain is submitting to the House of Commons tomorrow. Enrollment of local defence force volunteers will start in Bulawayo tomorrow.

Speaking at Thaba Pachoa, Orange Free State, the Deputy premier of South Africa, General Jan Smuts, who commanded British troops in East Africa during the Great War, said: "I look upon these days as very dark, very serious and very grave." He said that a "cataclysm" now would doom European civilization.

The Natal Mercury said Great Britain "deserves the fullest sympathy for standing by its pledges. Should Nazi blindness make it necessary, the very existence of Great Britain and the Commonwealth and even of civilization hangs on the honorable fulfillment of her obligations."

Reports from Simla indicated that mobilization orders might be issued for Indian Army reserve officers and air raid precautions taken.

Defences at Hong Kong were being strengthened, and evacuation of women and children to a safer zone was contemplated.

At Gibraltar elaborate military preparations were being made. Boom defences were placed in position in the harbor and the Spanish frontier zone was reinforced.

Tonight British planes "bombarded" Gibraltar testing the rock's defences against aircraft.

FRANCE STARTS MOBILIZATION

Move To Bring Armed Forces to 2,000,000.

PARIS, Aug. 24—(Thursday)—(AP)—Posters calling two French classes to arms were plastered on government buildings early today as France increased her Empire forces to almost 2,000,000 men in a partial mobilization against a feared clash with Germany.

Announcement a German-Soviet Russian non-aggression pact had been signed in Moscow caused deep pessimism in France.

Government sources had said prior to the Moscow announcement that signing of the pact would make it "almost impossible to avoid war over Germany's Danzig claims.

Requisitioned taxis early today in Paris carried "bucket brigades" to various government buildings where they pasted up the posters. Automobiles and trucks also were requisitioned.

The first to be posted were the requisition orders which read:—

"The right of requisition is opened in the commune of Paris beginning Thursday the 24th of August 1939 at zero hour."

Little knots of early morning homegoers drearily read the posters. They winced, then made their way home mindful of a repetition of the exhausing death struggle of 1914-19 18.

A few wept in the rain washed streets.

French Government officials had clung to the hope the German-Soviet Pact would not be signed but would drag into endless negotiations.

PERRY-MORAN — A pretty wedding was solemnized at the Church of the Most Holy Redeemer at 6 o'clock Monday, August 21st, when Margaret Dorothy Perry, second daughter of the late Robert Perry and Mrs. Perry was united in the Holy Bonds of Matrimony to George Arthur Moran, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. George Moran. The ceremony was performed, and Nuptial Mass celebrated by Rev. W. E. Enright C.SS.R., rector. During the celebration of Mass, solos were pleasingly rendered by Miss Mary Moran, and Messrs Samuel Doyle and Pius Callaghan, with Mr. Alex McLean, organist, presiding at the organ, and who also played softly during the ceremony. The bride wore a rose beige dress with Japonica hat, shoes and gloves with a corsage of sweet peas. The bridesmaid's dress was powder blue with a jacket of navy blue, with matching shoes, hat and gloves. She wore a corsage of sweet peas. After the ceremony the bridal party had breakfast at the Revere Hotel. The happy couple left on a short honeymoon through the Maritime Provinces. On their return they will reside at their new home on Brighton Avenue.

VISITING ISLAND— Mrs. Angie Garvey, of Dover, New Hampshire, is at present revisiting her old home in Tracadie. Mrs. Garvey is well known in New Hampshire as a very versatile entertainer able to perform on many instruments, and also to step dance, although, she says, "I am not as light on my feet as I used to be." From clippings taken from Dover papers it is learned that Mrs. Garvey is a very enthusiastic salt water fisherwoman, and on return recently from a successful trip with one hundred large size flounders, invited her neighbours in and gave them a "feed fit for a king." Mrs. Garvey had hoped to put on an entertainment before leaving the Island, but she found that time did not permit her. She has received a warm welcome from her many friends in Tracadie and vicinity since arriving here. One woman jocularly remarked, "Unfortunately I was unable to see the Queen, but I am going to see you." Prior to coming to the Island Mrs. Garvey visited her son, Leo F. Garvey, a leading barrister in Winchester, Mass., and president of the Lion's Club of that city.

FLY TO RACES—Four Charlottetown followers of the bangtails saw the harness meet at Truro, N. S., yesterday yet were in Charlottetown long enough to get a good day's business done. Messrs. Pope Clark, Alfred MacNeill, George Buntain and Ralph Bevans chartered a twin-motored plane here, left at one p. m. saw the races at Truro and were back in time for a late supper.

ESCAPES WITH "DUCKING"—The question was asked in several quarters yesterday "who was the local man who almost drowned Tuesday night while towing a scow along the waterfront here?" The man's identity was not revealed officially but the circumstances were said to be this. One of the men in the towing powerboat stripped off his clothing down to his underwear and plunged into the water to "cool off." His foot accidentally became tangled in the tow rope and for a time he was dragged head down by the towing boat. Rescued from his unenviable position he appeared none the worse, except for having swallowed a quantity of salt water.

TAKE PICTURES FOR SCHOOLS— Two movie cameramen from New York invaded the blacksmith shop of Proud and Moreside on Great George Street this week and took pictures of the process of shoeing a horse from the shaping of the shoe to the clinching of the nails after it was applied to the animal's hoof. The pictures were for use in high schools it was explained. With the disappearance of the horse from large cities thousands of children were growing up in total ignorance of the horse and his habits. Recently one child from a large city entered the Proud and Moreside shop and watched with interest the placing of a shoe on a horse's foot. Later, describing the process, she told how the smith had "put the shoe on the board part of the foot."

PLEASED WITH SHIP—The ship Seaborn, which his company had purchased for the Wood Islands-Caribou ferry service "exceeded" his "wildest expectations" Mr. R. E. Mutch, president of the company said last night after seeing the ship for the first time at Halifax. The 182 foot former steam yacht was so ludicrously fitted it was a shame to remodel her for a ferry service, Mr. Mutch said. A member of the company would go to Ottawa to confer with officials of the Public Works Department on Monday next Mr. Mutch said. Details of how the ship would be remodelled remained to be settled. The company official would be accompanied by Mr. J. Patterson head of the Halifax Ship Yards.
