tween $16,000,000 and $20,000,000 on the centenary. This amount included a special $2,500,000 grant towards an arts centre in Quebec City, provincial expenditures, and moneys raised for the centenary by municipal authorities.

The cost-sharing agreements cover grants of $1 per capita from the federal treasury, to be matched by $2 per caplta by the provinces and their municipalities, for projects of a lasting nature.

PROVINCES SIGN UP

Newfoundland, New Brunswick, Ontario and Alberta signed before the opening of a two-day planning conference. Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and British Columbia signed during the course of the conference Monday. Manitoba will sign by the end of the year and documents for Saskatchewan's signature are being exchanged by mail.

By the end of the year, all provinces will have signed and the machinery for implementing the agreements will be ready to roll in 1964, said Maurice Lamontagne, president of the privy council who is in charge of federal centennial planning.

In addition to the cost-sharing projects, the federal treasury contributed $2,800,000 to the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building in Charlottetown, which are to open next spring with a full season of theatre and music to celebrate the 1864 Charlottetown conference.

The $2,500,000 special grant to Quebec is for a similar arts centre in Quebec City, marking the 1864 pre-Confederation conference there. Mr. Arsenault said it will be a theatre, concert hall, and cultural centre with each province contributing a room to be named after it.

Other provinces have been looking for similar grants to match the special treatment given Prince Edward Island and Quebec.

CONSIDER GRANTS

Mr. Lamontagne told the conference that special grants to other provinces are still under cabinet study. Beyond these and the cost-shared projects the federal treasury would make no further capital grants, he said.

Actively being considered at the federal level now is the construction of an arts centre in Ottawa, the possibility of staging an international arts festival in Canada in 1967 and the machinery for a wide range of student exchanges and travel grants within Canada.

A Canadian opera based on the expulsion of the Acadians . . . a history of free-fighting in Canada . . . carved ivory statuettes of Canadian prim ministers . . . establishment of a bicultural institute on the Plains of Abraham . . . eradication of leprosy in the world—these are among projects suggested as ways of marking the 100th anniversary.

A list of 169 proposed projects has been compiled for the centennial planning conference by the National Centennial Administration, based on thousands of suggestions made by governments, corporations, associations and individuals.

They have been roughly classified in three fields—historical, cultural and ceremonial. Seminars on these subjects will meet Tuesday.

Projects likely to win approval in the historical field include the organization of a Confederation train and Confederation caravans to take exhibits of Canadian culture to all parts of the country.

The guests run in age up to and over 100 years. Some 150 of them will attend the event.

A Lions Club committee under chairman Allison Gill has prepared a fun-filled evening for the guests. It will include a visit with Santa Claus; presents of chocolates for the women and cigars and cigarettes for the men and in addition, all of the women will receive a corsage as they enter the hotel.

Special prizes will also be awarded the oldest woman and oldest man present.

Following the banquet, a 25-car motorcade will tour Charlottetown led by a sound car broadcasting Christmas carols. The motorcade will follow a prearranged route.

De Silva Gets Invitation

An Invitation to serve on an advisory committee on architecture for the 1967 Canadian World Exhibition at Montreal, has been extended to Walter de Silva, provincial town planner.

Pierre Dupuy, commissioner general for the exhibition, desirous of ensuring the success of the big show where architecture will play a vital part has invited 12 top architects of Canada to serve on the advisory committee.

Mr. de Silva, who holds architectural degrees from several famous universities in Great Britain, was well known as an architect before he took up the study of town planning. He came to this province nearly three years ago to prepare a housing and planning study for the city and has since been retained by the provincial government as its official planner.

PROVINCES'

invalid because it gives a judge in Ontario the power to relieve a debtor "from the payment of an obligation which the Parliament of Canada has stated the creditor is entitled to exact from him (the debtor)."

The court ruled on the validity of the act following a case heard in Ontario County Court Feb. 1, 1962.

County Court Judge R. S. Clarke of Guelph ordered that the terms of a mortgage between Ralph Douglas Sampson and Barfried Enterprises Limited be set aside in part and revised.

The mortgage was dated Sept. 3, 1956, and was for a face amount of $2,250, with interest at seven per cent annually. The sum actually advanced was $1,500, less a commission of $657.50. The difference between the $1,500 and the face amount of $2,250 was made up of bonus and other charges.

REVISED MORTGAGE

Judge Clarke set aside the mortgage in part and revised it to provide for payment of a principal sum of $1,500 with an annual interest rate of 11 per cent.

The question of the act's validity was not raised before Judge Clarke. This issue did not come up until Barfried Enterprises appealed Judge Clarke's decision to the Ontario Appeal Court, both on the merits of the decision and on grounds that the act is unconstitutional.

The Appeal Court, which heard argument only on the constitutional issue, quashed the judge's order, declaring that interest rates are a federal responsibility and outside provincial jurisdiction.

The attorney-general of Ontario appealed to the Supreme Court against the Appeal Court's ruling, with the support of the Quebec government. The appeal was opposed by Barfried Enterprises and the federal government.

PROVINCES ARGUE

When the appeal case was heard by the Supreme Court in June, Ontario and Quebec argued that the act is valid on grounds that it relates to provincial jurisdiction over property and civil rights.

Mr. Justice Judson said this and other submissions advanced by the provinces were well founded. The act dealt with rights arising from a contract and was legislation in relation to civil rights.

His judgment said "the theory of the legislation is that the court is enabled to relieve a debtor, at least in part, of the obligations of a contract to which in all the circumstances of the case he cannot be said to have given a free and valid consent."

"The fact that interference with such a contract may involve interference with interest as one of the constituent elements of the contract is incidental."

IN MEMORIAM

MULLIGAN — In loving memory of my dear brother, Ray who departed this life December 17th, 1962, at Winnipeg. His memory is a treasure
In life for me to keep
And the hope of our reunion
When my earthly span shall cease.
Lovingly remembered by his sister, Mrs. John J. White.

MULLIGAN — In loving memory of my beloved husband Ray who passed away Dec. 17, 1962.
Tho' his smile is gone forever,
And his hand I cannot touch,
Still I have so many memories
Of the one I loved so much
His memory is my keepsake
With which I'll never part
God has him in his keeping
I have him in my heart.
Ever remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Anne.

WHITE — In loving memory of our mother, Mrs. Margaret C. White, Murray Harbour, who passed away December 17, 1947.
Many years have rolled on since you left us,
But our memories are dear to this day,
We are thankful that we had such a mother
'Till that day, when God called you away.
Fondly remembered by Doris, Fern and Anita.

MULLIGAN — In loving memory of our dear father, Ray who passed away Dec. 17, 1962.
God saw you getting weary
So he did what he thought best
He came and stood beside you
And whispered come and rest.
You wished no one a last farewell
Nor even said good-bye
You were gone before we knew it
And only God knows why.
Lovingly remembered by sons and grandchildren.
