

THE DAILY EXAMINER.
SEPTEMBER 17, 1883.

Editorial Notes.

—It is reported that a rich vein of Anthracite coal has been discovered about eighty-five miles west of Calgary. If the report is true the fuel problem of the Canadian Northwest is solved.

—The population of New York is not self-sustaining. Last year the deaths numbered 37,951 and the births only 27,321, leaving a deficiency of 10,630. It is significant the number of men and maidens in that wealthy metropolis, "can't afford to marry."

—There is some talk of a special steamer to run between Summerside and Shediac during the Dominion Exhibition weeks. Now that the Steam Navigation Company have a third steamer, this might be done. Indeed it will be a chance to advertise their new steamer which the Company are not likely to let slip. No doubt there will be a crush of exhibits and exhibitionists; and an arrangement which would facilitate transport across the Straits would be appreciated and add to the Company's well earned popularity, if not to their profits at the end of the year.

—The Toronto Exhibition was recently opened, and is being daily patronized by thousands of spectators. The Marquis of Lorne and Princess Louise were in attendance at the opening and were presented with an address of welcome to which the Marquis replied extempore. After the ceremony they walked through the various buildings, accompanied by their suite and others, and inspected the exhibits. They expressed themselves as astonished at the great advance shown in the extent and quality of the exhibits since their first visit in 1879, and were particularly pleased with what they saw in machinery hall.

—Storm signals are wanted at Souris. It appears that some years ago, meteorological instruments were sent to Souris; but they have not lately been used; and storm signals have never been hoisted. As Souris is an important fishing station and bids fair to be one of the most considerable ports of the Island, its people think that warning should be given them of the approach of storms—not alone by the telegraphic weather probabilities, but by the hoisting of the storm drum. If they represent the matter to the Department of Marine and Fisheries, giving statistics of the shipping which frequent the port, we have little doubt that their desire will be granted.

—"Silent as the grave," says the St. John News, "on the sugar question now are the opponents of the National Policy. Yet how loud, how incessant, were their outcries a while ago against the sugar lords who were said to be fattening at the cost of the oppressed consumers. How fierce their denunciations of the tariff under which sugar refining had become an established Canadian industry. Wherefore this Grit reticence now? Why is the sugar question not so much as mentioned by the Grit organs now? Why do they steer clear of it so cautiously? The cause is not far to seek. The Grit arguments against the sugar tariff have gone to sticks. The logic of facts has swept from beneath the Grit position every vestige of solid ground. It can be no longer denied that Canadian consumers are getting under the tariff an excellent article of home refined sugar at a cheaper rate than it could be procured for from the foreign refinery under the Cartwright tariff. The same logic is also showing that the national Policy is likewise giving a wholesale stimulus to Canada's trade with the West Indies. Hence the silence. It will not be long before a like silence surrounds the cotton question."

—There is something awkwardly inconsistent about the Patriot's latest attack upon the local Government and the Hon. A. J. McDonald. The Patriot declares that the appointment of Mr. McDonald is the "last act of Sullivan & Co. to prop up their tottering administration." From this the reader would judge that Mr. McDonald is a man of strength; and it is somewhat surprising to see him described in the very next sentence as the weakest and most unpopular of all the Government supporters! It is quite evident that the Patriot's attack is a mere pretence. The Patriot is not in earnest. It doesn't believe its own statements. But it must say something; and it has really nothing valid upon which to base its censure. The Patriot dare not say that Mr. McDonald is not a thoroughly honest and reliable public man. Mr. McDonald has been long in the Legislature, and while there he has exhibited better judgment than many who talk more glibly. His character is unassailable; and while there are certainly other gentlemen supporting the government who would creditably fill a seat at the Council Board, all will admit Mr. McDonald's claims, and will, we have no doubt, continue to give the Government and Mr. McDonald a cheerful and hearty support.

—Under the heading of "misplaced censure" the Patriot of Saturday evening makes a clumsy effort to excuse the wholesale bribery and corruption of the many "Judases" of the Grit party. Unwilling to disturb the Patriot in its exultations over the unseating and disqualification of Mr. Fauquier in the Muskoka election, and being anxious that it should be allowed to enjoy this drop of comfort to its fullest extent, we considerately refrained from informing our contemporary to what extent the Grits had heretofore been guilty of breaking the election law, and what had been the measure of punishment meted out to these followers of the army of purists. The profound silence of the Patriot, whilst these men were, one after the other, unseated and many of them disqualified, led us to believe that hitherto it had been in almost total ignorance of the facts. But it does not now so appear. The Patriot has all along known of the corruption that was going on in the Grit ranks. It knew well that many of its too liberal representatives had been severely punished by the law of the land; and yet, until Mr. Fauquier's case became a matter of public notoriety, never a word was heard from the Grit organ about the "venial sins" of its own party. But the chief difference, says the Patriot, between the two parties is that the Reformers—save the mark—deplorable bribery wherever found. They lament it when it crops up in among their own ranks as much as they do when fighting it in their opponents." Is this true? Whoever heard a word of lamentation from a Grit paper over the unseating of Mr. Fauquier? Whoever heard a word of lamentation or anything else over the unseating of a Grit candidate. In the latter case there has ever been a discreet silence, in the former a display of fireworks equal to a fourth of July celebration. Does the Patriot desire to convey the impression that it deprecates the means which largely secured Dr. McIntyre his election for King's County. Did it not, along with all the other Grits from one end of the Island to the other, rejoice over the Court's decision that there was such a thing as legal treating after all, and that the petition of Dr. Muttart was accordingly dismissed? Is the Patriot prepared to say that it is firmly convinced there was no dishonesty or any attempt at bribing on the part of the Grit agents in Kings; or, like the learned Judge, does it conscientiously believe that because treating is the custom in the country, more especially at election times, there is nothing illegal in it. Let the Patriot explain what it means by deploring corruption in its own ranks.
