

Some cough mixtures smother the cough. But the next breeze fans it into life again.

Better put the cough out. That is, better go deeper and smother the fires of inflammation. Troches cannot do this. Neither can plain cod-liver oil.

But Scott's Emulsion can. The glycerine soothes and makes comfortable; the hypophosphites give power and stability to the nerves; and the oil feeds and strengthens the weakened tissues.

THE HESSIAN FLY.

What May Be Done After Wheat Harvest—Sowing Decoy Crops.

The Hessian fly is giving trouble in various sections of the country. In a bulletin of the department of agriculture on this fly the remedies discussed at length are burning the stubble, plowing under the stubble, destruction of volunteer wheat, planting decoy strips, rolling, late sowing of fall wheat, intermittent wheat culture, pasturing with sheep, mowing and selection of resistant varieties. Mr. H. Osborn, the author of the bulletin, says that a little thought concerning the measures discussed, with a recognition of the life history facts upon which they are based, will suggest that the best practical results will be obtained not by reliance upon any one method, but by an intelligent adaptation of two or more according to the conditions prevailing for the season. These will constitute a practice which can be modified for each year as the conditions will indicate.

With the harvesting of grain there is open the policy of burning the stubble or plowing it under or allowing it to stand for the exclusion of beneficial parasites. If the weather is very dull it will be best to defer burning, to allow the issuance of as many parasites as possible, but if burning is to be adopted at all it should be done before fall rains set in or the field has grown up to weeds. If rains occur early, burning will be best, and in any case the stubble should be plowed under and rolled as soon as there is any appearance of a volunteer growth of wheat. The chaff from thrashing should be burned and the screenings burned or fed to stock as early as possible, and care should be taken during autumn to plow under and roll the volunteer wheat that springs up in the stackyard. If winter wheat is to be planted, strips of decoy wheat may be put in to be plowed under at the end of three or four weeks and finally the crop planted at as late a date as practicable, according to dates given in the paragraph on late planting. This practice can be duly combined with the selection of resisting varieties of wheat and the application of fertilizers.

It will be observed that the modifications are based preliminary on the weather—whether dry or moist, a condition apparent to every one, and that the suggestion amounts to postponement of burning or plowing if dry, or the early adoption of one of both if wet.

The proper time for sowing decoys will vary with the latitude. According to Webster, for northern Indiana they should be sown during the later part of August, and in the southern part of the state not later than the first week in September. To the north and south of this he does not undertake to give dates, but it would depend upon the date of appearance of the fall brood of flies, the wheat being planted early enough to attract the flies at the time of their emergence. A decoy crop should be destroyed within four weeks at the utmost, and turned under so deeply that any insects maturing would be unable to escape.

Cover Crops.

Where a nitrogen fertilizer is not desired, rye is a good cover crop. It is also useful on very light, sandy soils, and on very hard, lumpy soils, where other crops are not easily grown. A few years of rye may improve such Drugs are expensive. Sometimes they are more expensive than need be. And sometimes they are not so reliable as they ought to be.

There was a time when the prices of drugs were away up—too high altogether. That is not the case now. The Apothecaries Hall changed that some time ago. You can get prescriptions from pure drugs at the proper prices—no fancy profits.

You can get all my reliable special remedies; they've been tried and found effective.

soils sufficiently to permit the use of other crops. Turnips have been recommended for use on hard, dry land, where other crops do not start readily. Rape may serve a useful purpose as a cover crop. Corn sown thickly 1 1/2 to 2 months before frost is said to make a good winter cover for orchards, though quickly killed by cold weather. Buckwheat is good for the same purpose, if sown so as to reach its full height, but not to produce seed before winter. Among other plants of more or less value as cover crops are oats, wheat, barley, millet and spurry.

Why Fresh Bones Make Eggs.

The different parts of ordinary market bones, upon analysis, were found to contain in abundance the ingredients which go to make up the growing chick, and in wonderfully close proportion, the different parts of the complete egg. The lean meat and gristle from the white of the egg, and about 16 per cent of the yolk. The marrow and other fat on the bones supply the remainder of the yolk. The lime phosphates in the bone yield all the necessary lime salts for the shell, and the requisite phosphates for the interior of the egg. It would pay anyone well, even if they only have a dozen hens to get a good bone cutter; it seems that the hens cannot help laying when fed with green cut bone. It is just what they require in winter to give them the laying habit.
