Plan Buffet Service To Fit The Function

"The word 'buffet,' as applied to food service, should be interpreted to fit the function," remarked Dr. Ralph Gratton, manager catering service of the Sheraton-Dallas Hotel.

"There are elegant reception buffets, always stand-up affairs, and luncheon, afternoon party and dinner buffets, which may be seated. In this case, tables are laid, usually for small groups.

SELF-SERVICE
"Each person serves himself from the buffet, then takes the food to the table."
"Waiters refill glasses, replenish butter, clear away used dishes etc. Sometimes they also serve dessert and coffee, often leaving a silver pot of coffee on the table. A similar type of service can be used in the home."

ARRANGED IN SEQUENCE
"All foods should be arranged in sequence on the buffet."
"First, the fruit, fruit cup or hors d'oeuvres to start the meal."
"Next comes cold meat or poultry and one savory dish kept hot in a chafing dish. These are sufficient for a home buffet. Chaudroid of Cornish game hen lobster Newburg in pale shells is elegant, yet simple to prepare."

"There should be two salads, one tossed and one of mixed ingredients, such as asparagus, tomato and avocado. It is a misconception to serve sweet jellied salads, as they are not compatible with savories."

SPECIAL TABLE
"At a home buffet, desserts should be served from a special table. They should be truly elegant, such as orange Bavarian, a feature here at the Sheraton-Dallas."

Note: Recipes for the orange Bavarian, mushroom lobster Newburg and Chaudroid of Cornish game hen will follow in this column next week.

BUFFET DINNERS FOR THE FAMILY
There are times when a family buffet dinner is a convenience, especially when a favorite TV show may conflict with the usual at-home routine. In this case, set a simple buffet table in the living room.

Plan a main course which can keep hot in an electric frying pan, casserole or in chafing dishes. Have a hot beverage and a cold first course and dessert. A nest of tables will provide eating space for each person with a good view of the TV set. If children are small, one of the parents should serve the main course.

All foods should be chosen for easy eating.

My First Visit—But We Hope To Return To P.E.I.

By Thomas W. Gavin, Albany, N.Y.

It was my first visit to Prince Edward Island, My friends and I left Albany, New York, July 2, in my 1949 Plymouth. We started our journey at 5 a.m. and had Frank Gavin, to spend their two weeks vacation with their sisters, Misses Mary and Betty Gavin of Tignish, Mrs. Gertrude Lemerise of McKownville, Albany, New York, and I went along as invited guests.

We took the Massachusetts and Maine Turnpikes and drove on to the Reversing Falls at St. John, New Brunswick. The Reversible Falls were not too accommodating for the tide was low but, while nature was at its best, we missed the clash of two opposing rivers. At Moncton, N.B. we witnessed the phenomenon of "Magnetic Hill". It was a weird feeling to stop the motor, remove the key, and find ourselves propelled over the road—up the hill—without the effort of driving.

It was interesting to see, on our arrival at Cape Tormentine, the trains, busses, trucks, luggage, and passengers go aboard the ferry boat and sail easily over the Northumberland Strait. We landed at Point Borden and we were on "The Island".

For two weeks we were thrilled with many interesting scenes this small province afforded us. Prince Edward Island presented a variety of contrasts—a little of the Old World atmosphere, of quietness and natural beauty; the friendliness and hospitality of its people.

Used as it was to the hills and mountains of New York and New England, I found an inner peace as we drove over the level country and noted the picturesque red soil sometimes bordering the deep green of the fields. Mentally I compared this type of countryside, its sweeping farmlands with its background of woodland, with portions of Indiana.

LANDMARK
In Tignish, the Church of St. Simon and St. Jude has long been recognized as a landmark for strayed tourists when they spy the tall spire looming over the northern end of the Island. Then too, it is a compass for lost fishermen as they stray too far from shore.

Charlottetown, the Capital, is an interesting modern city, yet it retains some of the dignity of the old world with its impressive parliament buildings, its government houses and its scenic gardens. The Basilica, the largest Roman Catholic Church on Prince Edward Island, which seemed to be built along the lines of St. Patrick's Cathedral in New York City, is an impressive structure. I cannot take my thoughts away from Charlottetown without expressing our appreciation to Lt. Governor W. F. Hyndman for his graciousness when he invited our party to inspect the Governor's Home. It was at the time the mansion and gardens were in readiness to welcome Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip to Prince Edward Island. This will always be a memorable incident of our vacation.

KENSINGTON

Miss Carol Raichford and Mrs. Robert Nicholson, Charlottetown, were motorists to Baltic on Wednesday.

Mr. Alton Buck of North Carolina, and Mr. J.G. Palmer of Delaware, spent a most enjoyable week's vacation in Baltic at the Riley Tourist Home.

On Tuesday evening a large number of friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bearisto, Baltic, to tender a farewell party to their eldest son, Freddie who leaves for Camp Borden, Ontario, to commence his training with the army. Mr. Marshall DeLaney acted as master of ceremonies and called upon Mr. Roger Cousins to read an address, while Mr. Roy Crozier made the presentation to Freddie of a well filled purse. Lunch was served by the hostess, assisted by several of the ladies. The remainder of the evening was spent in music and dancing with Messrs Edgar Matthews, James Bearisto and Joe Wigmore supplying the music.

Mr. and Mrs. Nell Mathews and daughter Darlene, and Miss Mary Mathews of Baltic, left by motor for Oshawa, Ontario on Monday.

Mrs. Claude Hogg, Summerside East, has had as her guest Mrs. Joseph Woodside, Kensington.

Mrs. Gordon Cousins, Baltic, entertained the Darnley Woman's Missionary Society of the Princetown United Church at their monthly meeting on Tuesday evening with a good attendance.

Mr. Louis Fitzsimmons, Long River, was a visitor to Summerside on Thursday afternoon. C.V.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Bright & Fragrant Philox Arranged In Pretty Rows

The philox in our memory garden continues to keep bright in the harvest-sun. "Yes," we overheard James remark to another farmer when they chatted of the harvest this evening, "there are few grainfields now, not ready to be harvested. They have the sunlight and the moonlight as well and its surprising how soon they ripen."

Bright and fragrant the philox are in a pretty row in the border: the white there is, gift of a real gardener and kind; the ruby-hearted white too given us by a woman of the district who is one to share with others, older and young those little gifts of hand and heart, the tangible and intangible often overlooked by folks as too inconsequential for thought, but priceless many times to the recipient.

The rose shade came from the small and most industrious lady who presides over our girlhood home by the Strait. All through her years she has loved her flowers, passing on this trait to her five daughters, though we doubt if any one of them has the magic touch with them she has. There are the mauves of the sunset clouds and a magenta, each with its story for us. The orange-red came one year from that boon of the farmwife—an end of chicken money long saved from less satisfying feminine temptations, against a gardening day of the Spring.

These days we miss much a wee lad of the family confined to the house across the lane with tonsillitis. Of late, there has been no young face pressed inquiringly against our screen-door asking

"What you busy at?" or calling "Is you there, Nanna?" Then come and see... "this or that wonder of the day to be enjoyed out about. He has been a po' sick baby in recent days, the common thought of the family being revealed in the anxious question "How is Alex now?" Under the doctor's care, he improves daily toward that great day with us—when he will once more follow the beaten path from the house across the lane to our door.

"Now don't forget, Ellen, to cast an eye odd times over the fields to see that everything's in order while we're away." James said when the little truck bore them off to work this morning. "Just" he smiled, "don't fall asleep at the switch!"

Bringing us nice glimpses of other island districts and homes, and also far Provinces interesting visitors came today in his absence... and the afternoon sun was mellow then over the farmlands though it had descended behind the woodlands across the road, gilding the tips and spires there fetchingly, when our harvesters came home to supper. Good progress the harvesting makes. A few more days of blue sky and sunshine will see all our grainlands in stock.

"I can hardly wait for that" Mack said this evening, "I love the threshing, you see."

A quiet pleasant day this—all golden and blue.

St. Joachim's Church Is Scene Of Lovely Wedding

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St. Joachim's Church, Vernon River, recently, when Florence Irene, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Murphy, Cherry Valley and Ronald Bernard, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Peter McInnis of Earncliffe were united in marriage by Rev. Urban Gillis.

The organist for the occasion was Mrs. Len Murphy, with the girl's choir of Vernon River singing appropriate hymns during the Nuptial Mass. The Sanctuary was decorated with baskets of mixed flowers.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a waltz length gown of white nylon net and lace over rayon satin. Her headpiece was a pearl and sequin tiara, which held her fingertip veil of nylon tulle. She carried a cascade of red roses and a white prayer book.

The bride's only attendant was Miss Mary Power, who was gowning in a street length dress of pale yellow with white organdy flowers and matching accessories. She carried a cascade of yellow carnations.

Mrs. Murphy chose a flowered blue dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

The best man was Mr. Murtagh McInnis, brother of the groom, and the ushers were: Messrs. Everett Murphy and Charles MacIsaac. The bride's brothers Charles and Kenneth Morrissey served as altar boys.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast for 60 guests was held at the Village Rendezvous, after which the newlyweds left for a honeymoon trip, through the Maritimes. For travelling the bride wore a blue fitted suit with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations.

On their return a reception was held at the home of the groom where many friends gathered to convey their good wishes.
