Better Public Relations Said APEC's Biggest Need

"Almost everybody respects APEC, but hardly anybody understands its program, purposes, and services." R.P. Boutilier, Atlantic Provinces Economic Council staff contact and membership officer, told a council workshop at the Charlottetown Hotel yesterday.

The one-day workshop was held for Island members of APEC to further good public relations and increase membership.

Mr. Boutilier, speaking on the consolidation and expansion of membership support during a discussion period, stated that APEC had provided a launching pad for the growth of industries in the Maritimes, and the public should be made aware of this. "I am convinced," he said, "that APEC is the most important organization existing for the far reaching growth of the community.

"The organization possesses the most comprehensive library of economic facts on the region that is found on any one place," he said.

NEED STRESSED

Mr. Boutilier stressed the need existing in the Atlantic region for the type of services performed by the council. "Income per capita is only two-thirds that of the rest of Canada," he said. "Investment yields only half as much, and unemployment is twice as common."

He declared that a part of the country economically lagging so far behind the rest of Canada could not "pull itself up by its own bootstraps", but needed the aid of an outside body.

Mr. Boutilier earlier told members the council should attempt to increase membership to provide more effective service.

William Hayward and Jack Johnston, secretary, provincial committee, discussion group leaders, expressed the opinions that APEC has a definite bearing on business to the overall people of an area, and service clubs and other media could be used to promote public relations.

Speaking at the morning session was Ross MacKenzie, Summerside, chairman of membership and public relations committee, who also stressed the need for council members to become "enthusiastic salesmen" for APEC. To achieve this end, he explained, they themselves should become better acquainted with APEC work.

DETAILS HISTORY

Nelson Mann, Halifax, executive vice-president of APEC, discussed the history, formation, and purpose of the council. He said it was begun in 1954 modelled on a similar association in Scotland. Seven directors from each province formed four committees—tourist, power, agricultural and food—to carry out the work of the council.

Mr. Mann described some services performed by these committees in the past, and stated that APEC has made available 83 different publications, each one brought about through a great deal of time and effort.

Also on the program was a panel discussion "What is APEC—its history, purposes, and organization."

It is understood Mr. Vail had stopped his motor vehicle and was walking across the highway when the accident occurred. He is a patient in the Prince Edward Island Hospital.

Court House Under Repair

Under the supervision of caretaker George Howard, a crew of cleaners is working until late at nights giving the Court House in Charlottetown its annual fall cleanup in preparation for the fall sitting of the Queens County Assizes and the Supreme Court, which open here next Tuesday morning.

A rebuilding job has reduced entry into the building from the east end only. A crew of workmen yesterday tore away the old broken brick and stone steps from the west end, preparatory to replacing them with concrete steps.

In reference to the coming sessions, Deputy Attorney-General J. Arthur McGuigan said last night that the grand jury will have only one criminal case to consider, involving a charge of rape.

It was not known how many civil cases are on the docket.

MISSISSIPPI

The same argument was advanced on behalf of Lieutenant-Governor Paul B. Johnson, who stood in for Barnett on one occasion last week to bar Meredith from enrolling. However Johnson was made liable only to a fine, rather than imprisonment in the contempt citation the court levelled against him.

The justice department asked the court to hold any punishment in abeyance to allow Barnett and Johnson more time to effect compliance with the integration order.

Neither Barnett nor Johnson came to New Orleans for the hearing. Tuesday was to have been the deadline for the pair to purge themselves of contempt.

Barnett, in Jackson, Miss., was reported prepared to accept imprisonment had the court so decreed. City and state police encircled the governor's mansion there, alert against any disorders that might arise should federal authorities try to seize him. Hundreds of persons milled outside.

When word came of the 10-day reprieve Barnett declined any comment.

Meanwhile, some 12,000 heavily armed troops enforced the court's orders on the university campus after two days of rioting cost two lives but failed to prevent Meredith's enrolment.

Testimony, Argument End In Assault Case

Testimony and summation by counsel was completed last night in the case of Keir Warren, North River, charged with assaulting J. Spurgeon Jenkins, by striking him on the face with a rubber boot.

The case was heard at a special session of the Queens County magistrate's court by Magistrate James B. Johnston, QC, who adjourned the case until Oct. 15 for consideration.

The prosecution is being conducted by Alan K. Scales and the defence by Allison M. Gillis.

Following the final presentation by Mr. Gillis, Mr. Scales made a request to amend the information from its original framing.

Mr. Scales asked that the charge be made to read, "did assault J. Spurgeon Jenkins, by striking and grabbing him in the chest and shoulder and striking him in the face with a rubber boot."

Mr. Gillis raised strong objection to this attempted procedure, stating that the defence had completed its case including the argument by himself.

He contended that any amendment the Crown wished to make should have been done immediately after the Crown had presented its side of the case.

The magistrate disallowed the amendment, and said that "I think there is power to amend an information to conform to the evidence. But the Crown was aware of the situation at the conclusion of its case, and it should have been done then."

The accused taking the stand told of having an argument with Mr. Jenkins regarding work he wished to have done at the site of the dam located on his property.

Mr. Warren said that after words were exchanged he had phoned P. A. Murnaghan and afterward had told Mr. Jenkins that Mr. Murnaghan wished to speak to him.

He said that he then started toward the mill and when he was behind the car, Mr. Jenkins backed it into him which resulted in his leg being grazed in two places, requiring medical treatment.

The accused said that he had gone to the driver's side of the car and asked the complainant what he had backed into him for and at the same time had made an attempt to grab Mr. Jenkins.

He said that after being told that the Mounties would be called, Mr. Jenkins had driven off and on the way had driven up on the lawn in front of the house, and the brother of the accused who was standing on the lawn was forced to run out of the path of the car.

Mr. Warren then told of he and his brother going after Mr. Jenkins in his brother's car and catching up to the Jenkins' car when it had stopped behind a bulldozer.

TOOK KEY

The accused said that he had gone to the right side of the car and got partway in, in order to remove the key from the ignition, which was broken when the driver had hit the witness' wrist. His brother, he said, went to the driver's side and grabbed Mr. Jenkins by the left arm.

While he was taking the key, the witness said that the complainant had picked the rubber boot from the floor of the car and hit him on the shoulder with it. He denied having hit Mr. Jenkins with the boot, but said that he had merely brushed the boot away with his arm.

Cross-examined, the accused stated that he did not hear the car backing up before it struck him, and he denied that he had been the first to pick up the rubber boot.

The second witness Gordon Warren, son of the accused, said that he could see that his father and Mr. Jenkins were arguing, but could not hear what was being said.

After the argument he said his father had gone to the house and then came back and told Mr. Jenkins something. He said that Mr. Jenkins jumped into his car and his father started towards the mill.

SAW TRUCK BACKED

He said his father was about 10 feet behind the car when it was backed up at about normal speed, and struck Mr. Warren.

He said that he did not see his father lay a hand on Mr. Jenkins, but he had seen the latter poke his head out of the window and yell to a man in a truck, "You are a witness for me, that I didn't back into him."

He also said that he saw his uncle standing on the lawn of the house, and saw Mr. Jenkins drive his car up on the lawn about six feet passing so close to his uncle that he was able to grab the door handle, but could not hang on.

Merrill Howard, North River, who was visiting the Warren farm on the morning of July 26, said he was about 10 feet behind Mr. Warren when the car was backed into him.

He testified that when Mr. Jenkins got into the car he first looked to the rear and then started backing up. He also said that he witnessed the car drive up on the lawn in the direction of Mr. Warren's brother.

Women Drivers Said Not Timid, Emotional

By GERRY McNEIL

QUEBEC (CP)—Are women in the driver's seat timid, emotional, mechanically ignorant and generally incapable?

"Women," snapped Mrs. Ethel McLellan, a safety expert from Toronto, "drive like men but get blamed for it."

Mrs. McLellan, director of women's activities in the safety division of the Ontario transport department, thus summed up her answer to leading questions by two male panelists on the capability of women at the wheel.

Panelist J. B. Humphrey, vice-president of the All-Canada Insurance Federation, and S. E. Swallow, a Ford Motor Company of Canada executive, tossed the questions at Mrs. McLellan, Senator Josie Quart of Quebec City, Constable Jessie Meiklejohn of the Hamilton, Ont., police department, and Nell Siemens, director of women's activities on the Canadian Highway Safety Council.

The panel discussion before the Canadian Good Roads Association heard Mr. Shallow head off by suggesting that women are "temperamentally incapable" and don't understand the mechanical operation of cars.

"A woman," said Senator Quart airily, "can do a lot with a hairpin while a man is talking about what he'd do with his tools if he had them with him."

"I think there are very few men in the audience who know more about the mechanics of a car than women," said Miss Siemens. "I own a European car and a few days ago, a garageman I went to didn't even know where the motor was.

"And when I have a flat tire, I just get out and stand there. It always gets fixed."

N.S. Government Relieved Of Coal Subventions Share

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has relieved Nova Scotia of its share—about $700,000 a year—of the cost of subventions on the movement of Cape Breton coal to Ontario, C. L. O'Brian, chairman of the Dominion Coal Board said today.

He said that as of July 31 the provincial government had been relieved of its obligation to contribute to the cost of the subvention on shipping of Nova Scotia coal.

Last year the total cost of the federal subvention, including the provincial share, was estimated at between $11,000,000 and $12,000,000.

In 1959 a special increase in subvention assistance was worked out to enable Nova Scotia coal to move farther into Ontario.

In future the federal government will bear the entire cost of the subventions.

BASIC FLAT RATE

The basic federal aid to moving Nova Scotia coal to market consists of a flat-rate subvention providing direct payments to producers or distributors of 30 cents a ton. Coal mine operators are permitted to use the money as they themselves see fit, though the federal government hopes it will be used to maintain and expand coal markets.

Mr. O'Brian also noted that since the closing of three coal mines of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company, which had also been receiving special subsidies to delay closure, Nova Scotia has been relieved of another $300,000 a year outlay.

This subsidy, begun in April, 1960, provided $1 a ton of coal to help move it into markets within the Maritimes not covered by regular coal assistance. The federal government put up 50 cents of each dollar and the Nova Scotia government chipped in with the other 50 cents up to a maximum $300,000.

Senate Restores Foreign Aid Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Tuesday passed President Kennedy's $4,422,800,000 foreign aid money bill restoring $792,400,000 of an $1,134,400,000 cut made previously by the House of Representatives.

Responding to Kennedy's plea that the slashes were irresponsible and a threat to the national security, the Senate approved major restorations in every item cut.

Labor Congress Has Report On Remedy For Jobless

By ROBERT RICE

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Labor Congress has bolstered its demand for a "big, new massive push" for Canada's economy with a bright, breezy research report on labor's remedy for unemployment.

The report, prepared by Dr. Eugene Forsey and the CLC's research department, reiterates the CLC argument that a massive expansion in government spending is needed to solve unemployment and the country's economic ills.

Organized labor has made this view known to the government in recent months in repeated pleas for planned, long-term, sustained expansion of "our social capital, of our public services, of investment in the development of our human capital."

The CLC—and its political ally, the New Democratic Party—have advocated deficit budgeting to finance this public investment in social projects and services.

The government, in the throne speech last week, pledged itself to a balanced budget as an objective — without saying when this would be achieved.

SEE GROWING NEED

The research paper, made public Tuesday by the CLC, argues that there is a great and growing need for such public projects as housing, slum clearance, hospitals, schools, recreation facilities, streets, public transit, sewage and water facilities, and so on.

"In present circumstances, with a grossly under-employed economy, surplus plant and idle workers, the only way to achieve and sustain full employment is to adopt a considerable degree of deliberate deficit financing, that is, of planned budget deficits."

The report, which suggests the last five deficits of the federal government were more accidental than coherently planned, says deficits need not cause inflation.

". . . If we can put idle plants and idle men to work, it (the economy) can produce the extra goods and services to meet the extra money demand created by the deficits."

The research paper also spells out labor's general case for reciprocal free international trade and rationalization of small-time industry into larger mass production units.

U.S. President Seeks Solidity To Block Reds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy was reported to have made an eloquent appeal to the foreign ministers of 19 Latin American countries Tuesday for hemispheric solidarity to quench the fire of communism in Cuba.

The president was described by Senator John Sparkman (Dem. Ala.), one of those who attended a White House luncheon, as speaking at length and vigorously on the theme that the Soviet threat posed in Cuba is the responsibility of all—not only the United States.

While protocol ruled out any formal response by the ministers, some of them told members of Congress that surprising units was developing in conferences by State Secretary Rusk to develop broader and more concentrated political and economic pressures against the Russian-backed government of Fidel Castro.

Rusk was reported to have assured the ministers that there will be no deal with Russia to end Soviet support of Castro in exchange for concessions in Berlin or other trouble spots.

Liner's Docking Delayed 2 Hours

NEW YORK (AP)—A longshoremen's strike stranded 1,352 passengers on the liner Queen Mary for two hours Tuesday in the Hudson Rver.

Tugboat crews sympathetic to the striking longshoremen refused to help dock the British liner and her captain ordered the anchor dropped to await favorable conditions before proceeding into port unassisted.

In another development, State Supreme Court Justice Norris E Spector refused, at least temporarily, to bar the Waterfront Commission of New York Harbor from authorizing the use of white-collar personnel to unload passenger's baggage from strike-bound ships.

Recess Called On Yank Holdup Of Livestock

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—The National Farmers Organization Tuesday night called a recess in its holding action on livestock but threatened to renew "in a short time" its drive to keep animals off the market until processors agree to long-term contracts.

The recess was called by Oren Lee Staley, NFO president, 32 days after NFO members voted to hold livestock in an attempt to stabilize farm income at higher levels.
