K Of C Council Holds Meeting

Knights of Columbus Charlottetown Council No. 824, held their regular monthly meeting recently. Following the business part of the meeting chaired by the Grand Knight George MacGuigan there was held the Good of the Order part of the meeting. During this part of the meeting there was a panel discussion on the topic "What Do Institutions Become Irrelevant?" Members of the panel were: Chairman Rev. J. Faber MacDonnell, Judge C. St. Clair Trainor, Joseph O'Connell, M.A., Economist St. Dunstan's University, Eugene MacDonnell, M.S.W., Director of Child Welfare, and Rev. Allan MacDonnell, M.A., Sociologist St. Dunstan's University.

It was generally agreed by the panel that the term "institution" could be used and is used very broadly. It could refer to the family or even an individual and has generally been used when referring to many organizations. The term "institutions" was defined as an organized way of doing something. It was generally agreed that institutions are formed to achieve some purpose. This purpose can continue to change over the years and as a result the purpose for which an organization initially began may no longer exist. If this happens then the organization or institution must either cease to exist or find a new purpose or new purposes for its existence.

What happens is that over time the institution becomes less flexible and after a period of time spends considerable effort protecting itself and not maybe dealing with basic issues in which it should become involved. Unless there is a constant searching for present needs and even projecting into the future then the institution can become irrelevant.

Very generally speaking an institution must serve the common good and if it fails to do so it either must change or cease to exist. Higher education and possible adjustments in our attitude toward higher education was discussed. This area was left to be explored further at a future meeting.

Jeffrey, Ronald Marlowe Thrill Centre Audience

BY DOROTHY HALL.

Jeffrey and Ronald Marlowe delivered what might be termed the best Community Concert to date last night at the Confederation Centre with some splendid renditions of classical and light music. The talented dual pianists received a standing ovation from the audience of more than 500 persons attending and gave three encores.

The general impression I am sure was of looking into a mirror throughout the entire performance. The pianists were sensitively aware of one another's movements and wishes and each had the same movements and expressions of the other. This contributed greatly to the overall effect of the music, making it seem to be played by a single instrument.

The first selection was a quiet, simple melody by J.S. Bach, "Sarabande" from "Magnificat" which was by far the tonest best piece in the concert. It was followed by Pasacaglia written by Handel and arranged by Lubosutz. This was an example of perfect timing and dynamic control. Each variation seemed to increase.

The Danse macabre, by Camille Saint-Saens, was a particularly piece. It began with a series of fifth chords depicting the fiddler Death tuning his fiddle, and then continued with staccato counterpoints representing the dry brittle sound of cold bones as the wraiths emerge from their tombs.

The higher registers were used as fiendish laughter of the dancing ghouls. The rhythm of the waltz sweeps away the imagination to the climax of the dance, then the crow of a cock brings the dawn and silence falls.

Variations of a Theme by Haydn by Johannes Brahms seemed to be a general favorite of the audience. Based on a German chorale it is basically stolid with variations passing through a fiery chord to beautiful lyrical pieces and then to melancholy almost love song type of music. Technical stamp is required to play this selection and the Marlowe brothers certainly have that.

GREAT DEXTERITY After intermission, The Lark by Michael Glinka and arranged by Lubosutz, was shown the great dexterity of the players' fingers as the music soared as in flight and thrilled the song of the lark. A rather disappointing feature in this number was the thin tone that appeared in the upper registers during the lark's song but otherwise it went over very well.

Santa for Two Pianos by the modern composer Francis Poulenc was a curious mixture of conventional style, discords, and song snatches that could almost have been lifted from light opera. There was an interesting contrast of calm light passages and staccato work that has the fire of Beethoven and the harsh jarring dissonances appeared at the end again.

ular Fire Dance by Manuel de Falla, a Spanish composer. This was an exciting experience and was done extremely well with much vigor and assurance. Following this came amusing rendition of Yankee Doodle arranged by the Marlowes in the style of George Gershwin. It began as Rhapsody in Blue and had shades of other Gershwin songs intertwined, such as American in Paris. To end the performance was a light classical completely done. Finale of Poulenc's Sonata, which he wrote in 1939.

The Community Concert Association held a reception for the duo piano team after the concert.

Island Steers To Enter Atlantic Winter Fair

Approximately one dozen steers from this province are expected to compete in the registered beef steer competition at Halifax at the Atlantic Winter Fair, breeders here estimate.

The fair this year runs from October 27 to November 5 and the steer class will show on Saturday afternoon, October 29. The animals will be sold that night.

Fulton Sanderson, York Point has another "fairly good" Hereford to put in the competition this year, he said Thursday. This is the man who has carved out the unusual record of showing the grand champion the last two years. He showed the reserve champion in 1963.

Irving MacDonnell, York had the best steer on the hoof last year, but his Angus dairy went to third place overall when the points for the carcass had been added up. Mr. MacDonnell had a good Angus steer this year, neighbours report.

Both the Sanderson and MacDonnell steers this year will weigh in excess of one thousand pounds it is estimated.

Jury Announces Verdict On Recent Double Fatality

A coroner's jury returned a verdict last night that Clifford J. Doucette of Miscouche and Blais Wright of Summerside came to their death due to injuries sustained in a car accident on the evening of September 30, 1966.

The inquest into the double fatality at St. Eleanors, a few hundred yards west of Summerside on September 30, 1966, was held at City Hall, with Coroner A.J. MacMillan presiding. The driver of each vehicle were killed instantly and pinned in the wreckage. They were alone at the time of the accident.

The first witness called was Dr. Andres Aquino, assistant provincial pathologist. Dr. Aquino told the jury he found that Mr. Wright and Mr. Doucette both came to their death as a result of skull fractures and other multiple injuries as the result of the accident at St. Eleanors on September 30.

Dr. Aquino told the jury that the alcohol content in Wright's blood was 1.7 millimeters. He stated under cross-examination that this was ordinarily accepted as under the influence of alcohol but not definitely intoxicated.

Dr. Aquino told the jury that the quantity of alcohol in Doucette's blood was 0.6 millimeters and this amount was definitely insignificant.

Cast. Donald Bartlett, a member of the Summerside RCMP Detachment said that he was called to St. Eleanors on the evening of September 30, 1966, to investigate a two-car collision. Cast. Bartlett said he arrived on the scene and witnessed the two crashed vehicles on the east side of the road. He also said he was present when Dr. MacKay of Summerside pronounced both victims dead.

Cast. Bartlett told the court that on a search of both vehicles no liquor was found. He said that on the night in question the sky was very cloudy and the pavement was very wet.

Also giving evidence was Norman Joseph Cormier of Summerside.

Members of the jury were John Ernest Hennessey, Charlottetown; Donald Cameron Gordon, Sherwood; Stewart James Westway, Parkdale; Donald Henry Campbell, Sherwood; Carlyle Joseph Gaudet, Parkdale; William Walter Burhoe, Charlottetown and Louis Henry Gaudet, Sherwood, foreman.

BIG PROBLEMS

the possibility of an earlier date than 1968. The agreement was made on Monday, opening day of the Liberal party's national meeting.

The informants said Manpower Minister Marchand had threatened to resign unless the possibility of an earlier date was written into the bill.

Mr. Sharp was absent from the Commons when the health minister opened the debate.

The legislation provides that the federal government pay half the cost of provincial medical care programs that are universal, provide a comprehensive range of physicians' services, are portable among provinces and are operated by provincial organizations open to audit.

The original target date of July 1, 1967, was part of the Liberal party's last election platform.

Mr. MacEachen said he regrets the decision to defer the starting date, but this did not alter the government's commitment to the principle of the plan.

The postponement was based on the government's assessment of economic conditions and if the decision were taken today it would not be different.

The government is determined to have the plan in operation "not later than" July 1, 1968, he said. The government had a responsibility to give the program top priority in 1968.

Meanwhile, the government will look at financial and economic conditions and "nothing would please the government more than to be able to proceed earlier."

The government doesn't feel now that it could or should proceed earlier, but there will be "sufficient flexibility" in the legislation to advance the starting date if future conditions make it possible.

This would be done by an amendment to the original bill after it is given approval in principle and the Commons has giving it clause-by-clause study.

Mr. MacEachen said the government has no intention of referring the legislation to a Commons committee for study.

Ferry Changes Are Announced

MONCTON. — Minor changes will be made in the published schedule of the Borden-Cape Tormentine ferry service when clocks go back to standard time on Oct. 30, it has been announced by E.J. Healy, operations manager of Canadian National's Maritime area.

Starting on that day, the first sailings from both Borden and Cape Tormentine will be at 7 a.m. instead of 8 a.m. as published in the schedule. The second crossing from both points will be at 9 a.m. instead of 9:25 a.m.

Says Mr. Healy "It is felt that these times will be more convenient for people travelling to and from the Island. Having the first crossing an hour earlier will enable businessmen and others to start their journeys earlier in the day. The second sailing has been advanced to shorten the gap between the first and second trips of the day."

Although there will be 30 scheduled crossings a day between Borden and Cape Tormentine during the winter, ten in each direction. Two ships will be required to provide the service. The full list of scheduled crossings effective from Oct. 30 will be as follows: Departing both Borden and Cape Tormentine at 7 a.m., 9 a.m., 11 a.m., 12:25 p.m., 1:50 p.m., 3:15 p.m., 4:40 p.m., 6:25 p.m., 7:50 p.m. and 9:30 p.m.
