Auto Industry's Best Year Indicated By Current Trend

TORONTO (CP) — Current indications suggest that 1963 will be the best year in the history of the Canadian automotive industry and that the present level of business will extend into 1964, E. H. Walker, president of General Motors of Canada Limited, said here.

Addressing the directors' luncheon at the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. Walker said beyond 1963 the economic forecasts point to a modest steady growth in the Canadian economy.

It is reasonable to expect, he said, that by 1970 or 1971 Canada's population will increase 25 per cent to more than 22,500,000 and the labor force 26 per cent to 8,200,000 persons. Gross national product should reach $57,000,000,000 — up 40 per cent and personal disposable income should be nearly $40,000,000,000 —up 41 per cent.

"For the Canadian automobile industry all of this clearly predicts an increase in the number of vehicles in operation, a growing market and increased sales and production.

"In this same period of time, the industry believes that the market for new passenger cars will reach 650,000 annually and the market for new trucks in excess of 100,000 annually. This compares with 504,000 passenger cars and about 82,000 trucks sold in Canada last year."

Ottawa Okays Halifax Plan

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government approval for the third stage of the city of Halifax's redevelopment project was announced here.

Revenue Minister Garland announced that the federal government will pay one-half the estimated $3,526,000 cost to acquire and clear a 31 - acre blighted area immediately west of Barrington Street and south of the Angus L. Macdonald Bridge.

Net cost of the project, however, is expected to be reduced to about $1,697,000 as a result of resale of some of the cleared land for residential housing. A 150-unit public housing project also is being investigated.

Within the area to be redeveloped a few school and church properties and certain buildings considered of special historical or architectural merit are not to be torn down.

Marketing Seen Hurdle For Poultrymen

HALIFAX (CP)—Delegates to the Canadian Hatchery Federation convention here were told that poultry producers' capacity to produce is far less critical than their ability to sell.

A Drew Davey of Ottawa, poultry division director of the federal agriculture department's production and marketing branch, said despite the need for continued improvement in production, merchandising and sales promotion had become a primary economic function in the industry.

He suggested that the main export market of the future might be found in the low and moderate income countries. But he warned that egg production was an enterprise that most countries could develop fairly quickly.

Mr. Davey said in the last 40 years Canada's poultry industry had developed into one of the most technical and fastest growing sections of modern agriculture.

In the last 10 years the volume of poultry meat marketed had quadrupled. Eggs marketed for consumption had increased 35 per cent. In 1962 the total cash income from poultry products was $295,000,000.

He said marketing boards had been established in some provinces and other groups were giving the idea consideration.

"With a commodity such as poultry, marketing boards seem to be a means of exercising some control over the production or the marketing of the product."

FREE MEAL IS FAR AWAY

GRAND BANK, Nfld. (CP) — Walter Follett has won a free meal at a Salem, Mass., restaurant. How he collects it from this Burin Peninsula fishing community would appear to be his problem.

Follett, a school teacher here, was sports fishing about 10 miles from home when he found a bunch of colored advertising balloons bearing the inscription: "Three - minute pizza, 95 Bridge Street, Salem, Mass."

A note attached offered the finder a free meal at the restaurant. It left the 800-mile transportation problem up to Follett.

Opening lead—king of spades.

There is one important principle that runs through the play of many hands. It is the principle that, regardless of how dark the outlook, you must go all out to make the contract if you are the declarer, or all out to beat the contract if you are a defender.

Many contracts stand or fall depending upon the distribution of the adverse cards. There may be no chance for declarer to make a contract if the cards are distributed one way; and a certainty— or at least a possibility —of making the contract if the cards are distributed another way. In such cases the declarer must play on the basis that the unseen cards are favorably distributed, for otherwise he would be giving up.

The same principle applies to the defenders. Each of them must also assume a holding by declarer that permits the contract to be defeated. In many cases the assumption will prove false, but, even so, there is little to be lost by adopting the sanguine view.

Here is a simple illustration. West is defending against four hearts and leads the king of spades. The problems is what to play at trick two. His proper play is a low club, in which case the contract is defeated when East takes the ace, returns a club, and then gets a club ruff to set four hearts a trick.

But many players would not dare lead a club away from the king at trick two. The specter of South having the ace and thus getting a free club finesse would freeze them in their tracks and give declarer the contract when they made some other "safer" play.

This is the wrong philosophy. It is true that these players might lose a trick by leading a club, but they would never lose the contract because of the play. If South has the ace of clubs, the contract is obviously indefensible, so West must presume that East has that vital card and act accordingly.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
