P.E.I. School For Deaf Has 8 Pupils Entered

Prince Edward Island's first school for the deaf has opened at the Vocational School with eight pupils registered, Dr. L.G. Dewar, minister of education for the province announced last night.

Instructor for the school is Michael Hennessey of Charlottetown who took a ten months' training course in Northampton, Mass., at the Clarke School for the deaf.

Mr. Hennessey received excellent training at this institution, which is the oldest Oral School in the North American continent, dating back to 1867.

The school for the deaf here is located in the new wing of the Vocational School. The spacious classroom is ideally lighted and the latest in electronic equipment is used.

Education Minister Dewar met the entire staff of the Vocational School last week and discussed all phases of the school's operations.

The Radio and Television Repair course, he said, started the middle of the month. This is also a new course. Instructing this technical course, comprising 17 students is Gerald Howatt.

A diesel course is scheduled to get underway with Floyd Buell as instructor, October 13. Sixteen applications are on hand and the diesel instructor received his training at the Vocational School at Nanimo, B.C.

Principal E.D. MacPhail will likely have his hands full when night classes get underway the first week in October as applications stand in excess of 450.

'Still' Case Adjourned On Plea Of 'Not Guilty'

A plea of not guilty was entered by Charles Findlay MacEachern of Newtown Cross, following his arraignment in Queens County Magistrate's Court before Magistrate James B. Johnston, yesterday.

MacEachern is charged with having in his possession parts of a still suitable for the manufacture of illicit spirits. By mutual consent of the defence counsel, Allison Gillis, and crown counsel, Gerald R. Foster the case was adjourned until Monday, Oct. 5.

Lorne Robert Rhynes, Bayfield Street, Charlottetown pleaded not guilty to the charge of driving while intoxicated. An adjournment was also given in this case at the request of Mr. Gillis, until Wednesday, Sept. 30, bail to stand.

PLEAD GUILTY

Two residents of Charlottetown pleading guilty to charges of unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor in a place other than their residence, each received fines of $20 or in default of payment 30 days in Queens County Jail.

A similar penalty was imposed upon a Hunter River man convicted of having in his possession intoxicating liquor not purchased on his own individual permit.

Adjournment until Monday, Oct. 5, was given in the case of Peakes resident charged with operating a motor vehicle with defective equipment (lights, brakes, etc.).

United Church Men's Groups Unified Under One Program

Allison MacKinnon of Charlottetown, has returned from attending the first national convention of United Church AOTM Men's Clubs which was held at Canadian Rockies in the Muskoka district of Ontario.

At this convention all men's activities of the United Church were brought under a unified program supervised by the board of men of the church. Dr. L.H. Cragg, vice-president of the University of Alberta and president of the board of men, described the meeting as the most significant event in the life of the church since union in 1925.

The attendance which included a number of wives of the delegates was around 375 people. The theme speaker was Rev. Gordon Hunter, son of the well known Toronto preacher and author, Crossley Hunter.

Until the present amalgamation of men's work, there were two main groups in the church. These were the AOTM (as one that serves) predominantly in Western Canada, and United Church men's clubs which were more plentiful in Eastern Canada. In addition to these there were men's brotherhoods and a smaller number of men's fellowship groups.

These have now become integrated under one constitution with a common program. The aims of the new organization are: To deepen and enrich the lives of the men, to encourage Christian fellowship and Christian service.

Following the convention Mr. MacKinnon, accompanied by Mrs. MacKinnon made a tour of the New England States including a visit to New York City and Boston.

Point Of Law Adjourns Case

Adjournment until Monday, Oct. 19 was given in the case of Ephraim Malone of Emyvald, who at a previous hearing in Queens County Magistrate's Court pleaded not guilty to the charge of having the care and control of a motor vehicle while intoxicated.

Magistrate James B. Johnston gave the adjournment to allow defence counsel Allison Gillis, and crown prosecutor Gerald R. Foster time to prepare argument as to whether or not the statutory warning should or should not be given to a person by the police under such circumstances as were present at the time of the alleged incident.

The question regarding the giving of the warning was brought up by Mr. Gillis during the hearing of the evidence of one of the police officers who conducted the investigation.

In his testimony Cst. William A. Wilson, RCMP, stated that as the result of a call he proceeded to the Cornwall district on the evening of Sept. 21.

At the Cornwall service station he observed the accused standing near the rear of 1956 Dodge sedan along with Cst. Roy of the RCMP. The accused, he said, was unsteady on his feet, his speech was thick and there was a strong odor of liquor coming from his breath.

A search of the accused, produced a set of car keys which fitted the Dodge car the headlights of which were still burning and the engine still hot. Under the front seat of the car, witness said that he found a 26-ounce bottle containing liquor.

Canada Needs Immigrants Says Rotary Club Speaker

"We are twenty-five years behind Ontario in our bid for new Canadians from Britain and European countries", Col. A. W. MacKenzie, regional settlement supervisor, department of citizenship and immigration for the Atlantic Provinces said yesterday in addressing Rotarians at their weekly luncheon meeting held in the Charlottetown Hotel.

COL. A. W. MACKENZIE

Col. MacKenzie continued, "The oft-expressed view of reputable economists is that there is little or no connection between immigration and unemployment. The great contribution of immigrants as producers of wealth, as employers of labour and as consumers of Canadian products receives too scanty attention."

Since the dawn of this century, nearly six million people have come to Canada, since the end of the Second World War nearly two million. Only a relatively small proportion of those people came to seek employment on the open labor market. The yearly movement includes a large number of dependents. Of the 124,700 who came to Canada 63,100 were workers, 61,600 were dependents. Among this 63,000 workers were the sponsored group who came directly to jobs awaiting them. They are those for whose admission a Canadian citizen or a legal resident of Canada has applied, on a basis of an undertaking that the immigrant will not become a public charge and that employment and shelter will be provided. There were 25,000 in this group in 1958.

In addition there were 19,500 classified as "workers" who belonged to the so-called "self-establishment" group, which includes farmers, business and professionals.

In fact about 18,600 of the 124,700 immigrants in 1958 were workers who looked for employment on the open market. Even among these there were approximately 4,700 who were in the short supply classes of nurses, teachers, doctors, librarians, stenographers etc., for which there is a constant need.

"In fact, on my desk Friday was a list of 204 openings for skilled, or professional, 57 occupations are named on the list," Col. MacKenzie said.

U.S. IS BRAIN

Describing the exodus of trained persons from Canada to the United States, Col. MacKenzie drew on the official figures to show that more chemistry specialists emigrated than graduated from Canadian universities. Between 1955 and 1957, others who left Canada for the United States included 2,472 engineers, 1,073 teachers, 344 chemistry specialists, 2,643 nurses and 535 physicians and surgeons.

Impressive figures for 1958, indicate the importance of our immigration and also point out the exceedingly small part that we in the Atlantic Provinces have in this movement.

In that year, the Settlement Division reported 1,420 new small industries established by immigrants and 908 farm settlements. These 2,328 settlements gave employment to 7,429 persons and the total purchase price of the property that they acquired amounted to more than 18 million dollars, with down payments amounting to more than eight million dollars.

P.E.I. NOT ON LIST

"Where are those 1,420 new enterprises? There are 805 in Ontario, 222 in British Columbia, 153 in Quebec, seven in Nova Scotia, two in New Brunswick, 40 in Manitoba, 22 in Saskatchewan and 73 in Alberta. P.E.I. island does not appear on the list."

"In the same year," Col. MacKenzie continued, "immigrants purchased farms in all provinces except Newfoundland. There were 786 farms purchased and 83 rented. These farms gave employment to 1,263 persons. The overall purchase price was $10,063,800 with down payments of 3,285,500."

REPLACEMENTS NEEDED

"We have witnessed an outward movement of our people for as long as most of us can remember. Not only our people but our industries have gone as well. Surely it is time for, and a responsibility of each and every citizen to get in line with other parts of Canada in looking for replacements," he concluded.

The speaker was introduced by Brian O'Meara and thanked by Ralph Balderson. Ken Parker gave an interesting review of articles of interest in the October Rotarian. Reg Jenkins presented the recently won golf trophy to the club, the same having been won by his aggregation in completion with Summerside Rotarians and donated by Brace, MacKay Co.

President Gerry Hartlen expressed deep regret at the passing of Della Moore, wife of Rotarian Fred Moore.

A special welcome was extended to Premier Walter Shaw and H. Watson Jamer of London, Eng., both of whom are deeply interested in the subject of the address by Col. MacKenzie.

Other guests of Rotary were: H.B. MacLean, Vancouver; Lucas B. Allen, Summerside; Stewart Veal, City; and Stewart Wright, provincial deputy minister of agriculture.

Visiting Rotarians were: Athol McLeod, Cambridge, Mass.; Albert Smith, South Edmonton, Alta.; and Dial E. Elkins, Washington, D.C. with 26 years perfect attendance.

Oddfellows, Rebekahs Hold Annual Memorial Service

Oddfellows and Rebekahs held their annual memorial service last evening in the Oddfellows Hall, Charlottetown to pay tribute to the memory of those members of the order who had passed away during the year.

J.A. MacNair, P.G.M. was chairman for this reverent and solemn hour of remembrance. Led by the Salvation Army Band, all joined in singing "Oh God Our Help In Ages Past", which was followed by scripture reading by Arthur MacLean who chose the 14th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John.

A beautiful and solemn memorial pageant, entitled "Life's Beyond" was then portrayed by members of Alpha Rebekah Lodge, with readers, Mrs. Lois Brown and Mrs. Gordon MacPherson.

During this presentation, a vocal trio composed of Mrs. J. L. Enman, Mrs. J.G. Dennis and Miss Ethel J. Sutherland rendered "Sometime We'll Understand" and "The Blessed Light of Home" with piano accompaniment by Mrs. Ralph Crockett.

More Spuds Are Shipped

Prince Edward Island exporters have shipped 61,000 more bags of spuds to Newfoundland this year than in the same period last year.

However a spokesman for the department of industry and natural resources said yesterday that the M.V. Fergus which sailed Saturday could have carried triple the 3,000-bag cargo loaded.

Replacement of blighted tubers already shipped was seen as the best method to restore the trade to its former level. Mounting criticism of the quality shipped this summer was blamed for the drop in Newfoundland demand.
