To Place Order For Fifty German Farm Workers Here

The Dominion-Provincial Farm Labor Committee met today in offices of the Provincial Department of Agriculture. Included among those present were Deputy Minister Shaw and Mr. S. C. Wright of the local Agricultural office; Mr. David Hay, from the Regional Unemployment Insurance office; Mr. Earl Cannon, the National Employment, Summerside; and Mr. J. B. Murley and Mr. S. C. MacLeod of the National Employment Charlottetown.

Last year's farm labor program, during which sixty German farm laborers were brought to the province, as well as a number of Dutch workers was reviewed. Some of the committee expressed disappointment because many of them remained in the Province a very short time, some of them, only a month. However, the records showed that upwards of fifty percent of those who arrived last spring stayed on Island farms until the autumn, and that practically all of them were good and skillful workers.

All of the newcomers from Germany have their transportation costs paid to them, under a financial plan sponsored jointly by the Dominion Department of Labor, and the Provincial Government. The money is recovered in monthly installments after the immigrants start working in this country.

Mr. Hay who came over from Moncton expressly to attend the meeting, and whose duties keep him in close touch with the Canadian Department of Citizenship and Immigration, told the committee that farm laborers were already being recruited in West Germany, and that many of these men would be available in the spring. Other European countries did not permit organized recruiting but permitted any one to emigrate who had the inclination. This emigration was checked to a large degree by regulations limiting the amount of money which emigrants were allowed to take out of their respective countries.

Before the session wound up it was agreed that Prince Edward Island would place an order for fifty German workers for this year, which could be reduced if the demands fell short of this figure.

Modern Art Work Exhibited

An interesting exhibition, entirely of modern paintings, opened this week at the Art Center, Market Building. They are the works of two promising young Canadians, Ghitta Caiserman and Alfred Pinsky.

This exhibition has been brought to Charlottetown by the Maritime Art Association, for showing here until the end of the month, said Miss Frances Johnston, director of the center.

Most of the 21 paintings on display are portrayals of people by Miss Caiserman. From this exhibition it would appear that she is more interested in painting humans than Mr. Pinsky who prefers landscapes. She paints them with broad, bold strokes, carrying a fine color rhythm throughout.

One interesting work shows a little girl lost in her mother's clothes, which she has dressed herself in. One lone shoe dangles in her hand; a big, red flower adorns the big hat and subtle undertones of red are discovered in the floppy, sad grey dress.

The feeling here is one of sad childish longing mingled with excited triumph.

Other paintings of Miss Caiserman include a woman washing a friend's honey-orange hair, a family group in a modern setting, a worker with lunch-box and banjo, and children dressed for a masquerade.

The influence of Mexican art and Latin-type people appear in some of these. It is not surprising, then to find that Miss Caiserman recently won two scholarships, one of which took her to Mexico to study. Another recent honor was the hanging of one of her paintings in the National Gallery.

Mr. Pinsky showed fewer works, all of which were landscapes and still life. His paintings are done in smaller, more detailed strokes. His colors, especially of buildings or parts of them, are mostly pleasant warm tones.

The exhibition, showing various styles and subjects, makes an interesting display.

Natives of Montreal—Both artists (who in private life, are husband and wife) are natives of Montreal where after the war, they set up the Montreal Artists' School, known for the more "earnest-type" of student. Previous to that, they studied at the Nova Scotia College of Art, in both Montreal and Halifax, Vic. Ruziz, Guardian cartoonist and president of the Charlottetown Art Society, was a student associate.

Mr. and Mrs. Pinsky were back in the Maritimes last summer, to Fredericton, where they taught painting at the University of New Brunswick.

The exhibition is open 1:30 to 5 p.m. Monday (except next week), Tuesday, Wednesday, 3:45-5 p.m. Thursday, and all day Saturday. Future exhibitions will be a set of Danish paintings and also some work of Goodridge Roberts.

Drama Award Is Presented To Mr. Pius Callaghan

Mr. J. Pius Callaghan, B.A., was presented yesterday afternoon with the official parchment designating him as having been granted the Canadian Drama Award by the Board of Governors of the National Organization.

The parchment presentation was made by Mrs. Ruby Houle, C.D.A., and the accompanying gold pin of identity was presented by Mr. J. Austin Trainor, C.D.A., at the request of the Board which met in Victoria, B.C.

In making the presentation, fitting reference was made by Mrs. Houle to the contribution made by Mr. Callaghan to dramatic art in the city and his constant desire to be of service in the production of any entertaining feature in the life of the community.

Mr. Trainor recalled the success of Mr. Callaghan as a student at St. Dunstan's University in giving leadership in worthwhile productions by the Dramatic Society of that institution of learning, and subsequently in the broader field of city activities of like nature.

Mrs. Gave Patterson, President of the Little Theatre Guild commended the Governors on their choice in making the well merited award as did also Mrs. H. W. Davison.

Mr. Callaghan, who is telegraph news editor of The Patriot, gratefully acknowledged the honour which had been bestowed on him and the expressions of good will from his friends and co-workers in the production of many plays, an experience which had been both pleasing and profitable.

Lobotomy Operations At Falconwood Hospital

Three patients of Falconwood Hospital recently underwent prefrontal lobotomy at the Prince Edward Island Hospital and are making satisfactory recoveries from their operations.

Dr. A. J. Murchison, Superintendent of Falconwood Hospital announced yesterday that these three patients are the second in a series of operations which will be carried out from time to time on patients on whom other therapy has failed to produce results.

Dr. W. D. Stevenson, neurosurgeon from Halifax, performed the operation which on the average, took one-half hour. In this instance all the patients were male but last June similar operations were carried out on three female and three male patients from the institution.

Dr. Murchison points out that the patients selected for the operation are very closely screened by visiting psychiatrists who are associate professors of psychiatry at Dalhousie University and who make fortnightly visits to Falconwood. A neurosurgeon is brought in for consultation and lastly the relatives of the patient are consulted and the operation and its expected results explained to them. They of course have the option of agreeing or refusing to have the operation performed.

From a physical standpoint, lobotomy is not considered a serious operation and the fatality rate is next to nil. The patient experiences little discomfort and is usually able to leave the hospital 24 hours afterwards.

"Lobotomy is not to be considered a cure-all" said Dr. Murchison, "but in a good many cases the patient experiences a much more comfortable life and is much easier to look after. In some instances they are released to their homes where they do not present a problem and are able to a degree to be useful citizens. The results vary according to the individual concerned and the degree and length of their illness. A more encouraging result can be expected from those of higher former mentality than patients who previously possessed a low I.Q."

Following the operation patients are given constant and close supervision with every effort being made to bring about rehabilitation. While it is not possible to predict the results of the operations last week, those upon whom the operation was performed last June have shown improvement.

One of these has been released to his home and a woman patient is a regular participant in the occupational therapy classes which she was quite unable to attend previously.
