The first witness was Dr. Andres Aquino, a pathologist from the department of health, who stated that the deceased had died from severe damage to the brain in conjunction with injuries to the kidneys and slight pneumonia. He was followed by Dr. Malcolm Putman, a Charlottetown physician, who agreed with Dr. Aquino as to the cause of death and added that the deceased had a long wide fracture on the left rear side of his head and never regained consciousness after admittance to the hospital.

MacDonald was sentenced to 30 days in jail by Magistrate A. James Haslam, QC on Friday, on a disorderly conduct charge. At the hearing yesterday, Mr. Justice Bell issued an order for the discharge of the accused, as he was being held in jail on a faulty commitment. The application was not opposed by the Crown Prosecutor, John P. Nicholson.

Lyman McEwen, Dundee, a garage mechanic who had inspected the truck before the accident and made repairs to the muffler, was the next witness. He stated that there was no signal lights on the truck and that the new muffler made the engine reasonably quiet.

The last witness was a garage mechanic who had made repairs to the Corrier automobile which suffered damage to the radiator. He stated that the car was in good condition otherwise as it was new, and that the horn was reasonably loud.

The jury went out at 8.50 and returned their judgement at 9.25.

VEHICLES INSPECTED

Const. Durling, said that he inspected both vehicles and found them to be in good working condition. There was no evidence of alcohol on either vehicle or either driver. He also stated that the weather that day was sunny and the road was dry.

Const. Douglas MacLeod, Souris Detachment of the RCMP, followed and testified that he had made measurements of the scene and prepared a drawing showing the position of the vehicles on the highway. The drawing was presented as evidence.

James Lewis Clunney, Bristol, grandson of the deceased, was the next witness. He said that he was a passenger in the truck at the time of the accident. He stated that the truck had made a left turn and was struck by a car trying to pass at the time, so that the truck's right door had opened and Mr. Laybolt and himself had been thrown out. He said that the truck had no signal lights on it and no horn signal had been given, and that he had not heard any sound of a horn from the car which struck them. He did not remember if the windows were open or not.

DRIVERS TESTIFY
George Laybolt, Dundee, son of the deceased and driver of the truck, was the sixth witness in the case. He claimed that he did not make a hand signal, nor did he hear the horn, but he said that the windows of the truck were closed.

R. Albert Cormier, Toronto, came after Mr. Laybolt, and testified that he had followed the truck at about 25 miles per hour for a mile before attempting to pass, and when he did he blew his horn as he left the right hand lane and again when the truck veered across in front of him. Mr. Cormier said that he applied his brakes and was going about 5 miles an hour when he hit the truck. He saw the box fall off the truck and thought it hit Mr. Laybolt who had been thrown out of the truck.

The eighth witness was George Peizers, Toronto, a passenger in the Corrier vehicle, who said that they were not going fast when the collision occurred and that no signal was given by the driver of the truck. He referred to a photograph to show where the truck had been when struck.

MONCTON — Modern microwave transmission has replaced a section of telegraph wire along Canadian National railway line between Moncton and Sackville.

Part of the line had been used to carry circuits to Cape Tormentine, and by sea cable to Prince Edward Island. Microwaves are now playing a major role in helping Canadian National Telecommunications provide all types of communications services to Island business and industry.

Earlier this year, CNT completed an extension of its microwave network to P.E.I. the main link is at Lutes Mountain, near Moncton, while the Island relay site is at Egmont.

The copper wire on the pole line has been salvaged, and a CNT crew is now collecting poles along the line for reuse.

active demand to refer the bill to committee is reasonable. Defence Minister Hellyer has set the defence clock back half a century. Canada at that time had a unified force without a navy or air force and was an insignificant power.

WAS PUSHED TOO FAR
Mr. Hellyer had gone further than he had originally contemplated himself and had been "pushed over the precipice" by his own press releases.

The armed forces have been reduced to a short of international Royal Canadian Mounted Police and Canada has been removed from any field of influence in the world, added Mr. Dinsdale.

He said that after the Second World War the Liberals demobilized the Canadian forces. As a result, a "crash program had to be undertaken in 1950 for the Korean War.

J. Angus MacLean (PC — Queens) said Mr. Hellyer was going "from the frying pan into the fire" in trying to rush into unification of the forces.

Mr. Hellyer had never offered objective evidence that the unified forces system would work and would realize the savings and create the efficiency claimed.

There should be a thorough investigation of all available evidence so Parliament will not have to "take a multi-billion-dollar gamble blind."

David Pugh (PC — Okanagan) said the House is facing a dangerous situation as the supply motion debate continues. Under new rules, there was a 30-day limit to such debates and continuation of the supply debate would leave little or no time for departmental estimates.

The opposition has no intention of granting interim supply

Life insurance now can save money for young marrieds

Ask any independent financial counsellor. With few exceptions they'll advise life insurance as one of the first steps towards financial security. For young people it's generally the only way to create instant and substantial capital to replace earning power. And the younger you are when you buy, the lower the premiums.

You'll save money in another way too, if you buy cash value life insurance. This contains a living cash benefit that grows through the magic of compound interest. Your policy cash value can be used to finance a college education in the future or to add to a retirement income. In the meantime it's available to you in an emergency, or for a business opportunity. For example, it's about the best loan collateral you can have. "Do you own any life insurance?" is one of the first questions your bank manager will ask.

How do you fit life insurance into your budget? It's easier today than ever. Manufacturers Life's Manu-Matic Cheque Plan will provide for an automatic monthly deduction from your bank account and free you from budgeting worries. Ask the Man from Manufacturers to tell you more. You'll like his friendly and competent approach to your life insurance problems.
