Goodwill Can Do Marvels To Ease Canadian Tensions

By ED TREFIAK

CALGARY (CP)—Knowledgable goodwill can do marvels in relieving tensions between English and French-speaking Canada, Norbert Prefontaine of Montreal said here.

Mr. Prefontaine, executive director of the Canadian Centenary Council, said understanding between the two linguistic and cultural groups can be worked out under an existing legal framework.

He said "I have every respect for constitutional experts and have no doubt that we could enact amendments to the British North America Act (basis of Canada's constitution) which might facilitate relationships between the central government as well as between English - speaking Canada and French - speaking Canada and perhaps cause the whole country to move forward more rapidly."

He added in a speech to 200 southern Albertans at a workshop of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism:

"I am constantly reminded, however, that the spirit of the constitution is more important than the letter of the constitution."

RECOGNITION NEEDED

Speaking in English, Mr. Prefrontaine said basic Quebec positions and needs must be recognized.

In order to plan its economy as it wishes and support the education and health measures it has implemented, Quebec needs a larger share of resources now in Ottawa's control. Co - operative federalism, still largely untested, might be an answer, as witnessed by the agreement of pensions.

Mr. Prefontaine was one of three speakers at the one-day workshop.

Jean Louis Lebel of Calgary, who outlined views of French-speaking western Canadians, called for extension of French radio and television programming in western Canada and establishment of bilingual schools.

"It is estimated that about 40 per cent of the 1,300,000 French-Canadians living outside Quebec have lost their cultural identity," said Mr. Lebel, vice-president of the California Standard Company.

"Fortunately, a very large percentage of French - Canadians in Quebec and practically all French - Canadians outside Quebec want Canada to remain united But such a united Canada must be one where they can feel at home wherever they go and not only in the province of Quebec," he said.

Viewpoint of an ethnic group other than English and French was presented by Rev. J. W. S. Kong of the Calgary Chinese Pentacostal Church, who said he felt bilingualism and biculturalism was "the key to happiness of this nation and the individual life."

Nixon Says Keeping Clear Of Stop-Goldwater Effort

DETROIT (AP) — Former vice - president Richard M. Nixon said here if Arizona Senator Barry Goldwater gets the Republican party's nomination to contest November's U.S. presidential election, Goldwater will back a platform through which he can win the united support of his party.

Nixon told reporters here that Goldwater has either modified or clarified his views on a number of major issues.

The lone major exception, Nixon said, is civil rights.

"Whether the party is split (following the nomination at next month's party convention in San Francisco) depends on the candidate and whether he has the leadership qualities to unite it," Nixon declared.

STAYING NEUTRAL

Nixon, in Michigan for a speech to the Economic Club of Detroit and a $100-a-plate party fund-raising dinner in Muskegon, said Romney's criticism and actions of former President Eisenhower had the effect of a "stop-Goldwater" effort.

Nixon said he was staying clear of any such movement so that he can support any candidate nominated at the national convention.

Rotary Names New President

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. C. P. H. Teenstra of Hilversum, The Netherlands, has been elected by Rotary International as its president for 1965-66.

The club believes in overlapping its presidents so they are fully trained when they take office. Last year it elected Charles W. Pettengill of Greenwich, Conn., who takes office July 1.

Christine Keeler Is Given Release

LONDON (AP) — Christine Keeler, the prostitute who travelled in such high circles she almost brought down the British government, ducked shyly out of prison Monday.

The 22-year-old redhead was slipped out of the prison gate shortly after midnight well ahead of the 8 a.m. release time. This disappointed a crowd of 200 curious gathered at the main gate of Holloway Prison for women. She dropped out of sight in London

Korean Gov't Suspends 576

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park has taken another step to pacify students threatening the stability of his South Korean regime. He ordered 576 officials, among them a deputy minister, suspended for corruption.

Park's announcement came on the heels of the death of a university freshman injured during demonstrations by students who were demanding Park's resignation on charges of dictatorship and government corruption. The student's death raised the possibility of new demonstrations.

Drug Industry Control In U.S. Is Criticized

WINNIPEG (CP)—The president of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association says the United States government has gone too far in its control of the drug industry.

J. Keith Lawton of Halifax, in Winnipeg to attend the annual meeting of the Manitoba Pharmaceutical Association, said Monday in an interview in, rigidness of U.S. laws has made it difficult to get new drugs on the market there.

"It paid off with thalidomide but it can be overdone."

"Obviously drugs must be made safe before they are produced but they have to be in use a long time before any side effects can be seen," he said.

He said that the association is watching the development of medical care programs, but feels that people who can afford it should pay for their drugs. But "the government or some government - sponsored agency should be providing for those who cannot pay."

He also said the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association has now established a 14-man Dominion examining board which will soon allow pharmacists to move from province to province without writing provincial examinations.

Opening lead—jack of hearts

Some hands practically play themselves. The declarer starts with a firm number of tricks and he winds up with exactly that number because there is nothing he can do to add to them.

But in other hands the number of tricks declarer can take is far from certain at the start. The result may depend in part on how the opponents' cards are divided, or in part on how declarer chooses to play the hand. These deals are far more interesting to play than the so-called pat hands.

Take a case like this one, where East-West cash two hearts and East then plays a club. On the surface, it looks as though declarer will lose two club tricks and go down one, but, actually, South now has a reasonable chance to make the contract.

He has a right to hope that he can establish a diamond trick and thus make the contract. So he wins the club with the ace, plays a diamond to the ace, and ruffs a diamond.

He requires three entries to dummy to be able to utilize the diamond he is trying to establish as a trick, so he plays a low spade and finesses the seven. When the finesse succeeds, declarer ruffs a diamond high and enters dummy with the jack of spades to ruff the fourth round of diamonds.

His work is now done. The nine of diamonds is a trick and he crosses to dummy with a trump and discards a club on it. As a result, he makes exactly ten tricks.

Note the importance of the trump finesse, without which the contract cannot be made. It is better to finesse against the ten of spades at trick six than to play the jack in hope of dropping a singleton ten from East. This is because West is far more likely to be dealt the 10-x or 10-x of spades than East the singleton ten.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X E is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
