Religion and Life

By Very Rev. George C. Pidgeon, D.D., L.L.D. First Moderator of the United Church of Canada (Copyright)

The following story is told of a question put to William Jennings Bryan, the famous American orator, during a visit to the Canadian West.

There had been an orgy of speculation in that part of the country, and the question was raised of any man's right to money which he had not earned—that is, for which he had not given an equivalent in value.

After one of Dr. Bryan's addresses, questions were encouraged, and one man posed this problem: Is it possible for any person to earn $100,000? "Oh, yes," said Mr. Bryan. "There are many of our public men, our directors of industry, our teachers and doctors who have given the world much more than the worth of a hundred thousand dollars."

"Then is it possible for one man to earn a million dollars?" the questioner persisted. "That is a harder question," said the speaker, "but when you consider what our inventors and leaders in scientific research and discovery have contributed to civilization, it is clear that many men have given the world far more than the worth of a million dollars."

Then the speaker himself raised the question of the possibility of any human being's earning in that sense a hundred million dollars. He was speaking in a Y.M.C.A. building, and added: "When I recall what George Williams, William Booth, Francis E. Clark and others of their class have done for mankind, I am sure that many men have earned much more than a hundred million dollars. But I have noticed this, that the men who have earned one hundred million dollars have been much too busy earning it to collect it; and the men who have collected that amount have been much too busy collecting to earn it."

It is with the contribution to the world made by George Williams, the founder of the Y.M.C.A. that we are concerned today. A note just handed in reads: "On June 6, 1844, in London, England, George Williams, a draper's clerk, and eleven other young men, all under 23 years of age, founded the Y.M.C.A. The first Y.M.C.A. in North America was founded in Montreal on November 25, 1851, by a Montreal merchant who had heard of the movement when on business in England. This 100th anniversary is celebrated tomorrow. The value of the service given by the Y.M.C.A. to the youth of Canada in war and peace cannot be stated.

Who then gets the difference? It is accounted for by the cost of transportation, weaving, tailoring and selling.

A kind of crude spoon was used by primitive men of the Stone Age. From then on down through the Egyptian, Greek and Roman civilizations it can be clearly traced in varying forms and substances—wood, shell, flint, bone, ivory, bronze and the precious metals, gold and silver.

In the 23rd Chapter of the Book of Exodus we read where the Lord commanded Moses to make golden spoons for the Tabernacle.

Our forefathers brought with them to this island the spoons they had used in the Mother Country. And the early silver-smiths copied the designs which they found at hand, or which were later brought to the New World from England. Some of these early spoons may still be seen in Lorne Valley where they have been handed down from generation to generation.

The ditto-graph was invented by K. M. Turner of New York, in 1807. Its chief importance is that it magnified sound. It is used by some business firms as a convenient means of inter-communication.

Headline from the New York Herald: "Good home for anyone who enjoys poor health." From the Baltimore, Md. Sun: "Tuesday will be marked by a supper featuring pancakes. There will be men flipping the flapjacks and costumed waitresses."

A pumpkin that weighed 136 pounds, 10 ounces, was raised by John Fraser of Golding, B.C. This famous pie filler was four feet long and three feet five inches across.

Believe it or not, but any reliable book on botany will tell you that oranges and lemons are neither fruits nor vegetables. What then? They are defined as "berries."

Here's another eye-opener: The onion belongs to the lily family, and the Spanish moss that visitors see growing on trees in Florida is second cousin to the pineapple.

By BOOKMAN CHURCH GOING

Many years ago a farmer in Hants County, in discussing religion, said to me: "I wonder some people do not go to church because the circle of ideas is so interesting." There are intellectual reasons for church going. The large issues of life are dealt with—God, sin, conscience, immortality, duty, brotherhood; these are all great subjects. Life's ills and remedies are brought together.

It seems from a reading of Hebrews, that in the first century there was a falling off of church attendance. The writer tells his readers not to do as some, forsake the assembling of themselves together. (Heb. 10:25.) It has been announced in our day. Recently I heard of a Canadian minister who this August spent a holiday in U.S.A. and one Sunday afternoon attended three different services in large city churches. All three were filled to the roof and the preaching was good. This is encouraging, and shows that there are "some who are still interested in things of the spirit."

Psalm 73 tells of a man who became puzzled at the world. His feet had well slipped, and we can imagine him saying "I give it another trial." As we would say he slipped into church. Verse 17. His eyes were opened and he was content, and breaks out into a spell of rejoicing. Surely this is one of the functions of the church—to hearten people.

Ian MacLaren, who gave us these Scottish idylls: the Bonnie Brier Bush and Auld Lang Syne, who was a Presbyterian minister, on reviewing a ministry of 25 years in Liverpool, said: "If I were beginning again I would scarcely ever preach longer than twenty minutes and I would comfort my people more. He would see to it that his pulpit brought healing to

What is the Miracle of Canada?

The miracle of Canada is the reward of its thrifty people; it is a standard of living wrought by men and women who believe in spending and saving wisely. The average Canadian, for example, owns his own car and his own home. He pays his bills when due. His pattern of living is excellent.

When the pattern breaks But unexpected emergencies do break the pattern. Usually the emergency requires more money than he has available. This can happen to anyone. Then help must come from a dependable outside source.

By BOOKMAN CHURCH GOING

Some folks say that they can worship God in the woods or on the hills. True, but if all did that there would be no organized religion. Worship in the open may supplement the other but cannot take its place. There are distractions that our fathers knew of if the radio, cinema, good if held in subordination. I heard of a man in N.B. who liked to go to church with the radio because he could smoke at the same time. How he differed from one whom I knew who dressed in his best even if there was no worship publicly; this was out of respect for the day.

It is true that some good people never go to church. Some years ago there was a striking article in a British magazine entitled "The Church Outside the Churches." Can we not hear again our Scottish forefathers sing "I joyed when 'To the house of God' you mother or girl friend. I am the latter, and cannot see how any young girl can be selfish enough to expect him to see her first. His mother probably has only a few years left to see him at all, whereas the other party will have him completely for years to come.

Girls, please use some good old-fashioned common sense and wait now for your time to come. The mother definitely ought to be first even if it is not her son's choice. A GIRL FRIEND ANSWER: Here is a young girl who will never have in-law trouble. She has learned, at an early age, the consideration and thoughtfulness for others that it takes many people a lifetime to acquire—and some never do. Follow her good advice, young ladies.
