"OPERATION ALUMINUM"

BRITISH COLUMBIA 1954

The vast Kitimat hydroelectric and aluminum smelter project will be turning out aluminum by mid-summer this year. Completion of Kenney Dam in October, 1952, was the first major milestone. In December, 1953, the ten-mile, 25-foot diameter water tunnel was "holed through" Mount DuRose in the world-record time of 21 months. Three 140,000 H.P. generators are now in position in the Kemano underground powerhouse, and power will soon pass along the 50-mile transmission line to Kitimat. At Kitimat, in former wilderness, potlines for the first phase of production have been installed. Aluminum at the rate of 91,500 tons a year is scheduled to flow from Kitimat this year, thus increasing Alcan's ingot capacity to over one and a quarter billion pounds annually.

QUEBEC 1953

In Quebec, Alcan completed two new powerhouses and augmented its aluminum melting facilities during 1953. The new generating stations at Chute du Diable and Chute a la Savane on the Peribonka River — one of the principal tributaries of Lake St. John — have a combined generating capacity of 540,000 H.P. The total installed generating capacity of Alcan's power plants in Quebec has thereby been increased to 2,580,000 H.P. The rated annual capacity of the added aluminum melting facilities at Isle Maligne is 71,500 tons a year. By the end of 1953 ingot capacity in Alcan's four Quebec smelters — at Shawinigan Falls, Arvida, Isle Maligne and Beauharnois — totalled over one billion pounds a year, or about a quarter of world capacity.

Alcan embarked in 1951 on an expansion programme to meet the increased demand for aluminum. This programme, divided into two principal parts, is completed in Quebec and nearing conclusion in British Columbia.

In the fifty-four years since the first Canadian aluminum plant opened at Shawinigan Falls, Canada's aluminum industry has grown to be the second largest in the world; and Canada now exports more aluminum than any other country.

Still the need grows, both at home and abroad, for this light, strong, modern metal of many uses. And Aluminum Company of Canada is putting man-power, and money, and engineering brains, and imagination into the job of keeping up with that demand.

Aluminum is "packaged power". The electricity needed to produce one ton of aluminum would light the average home for nearly a generation. By making use of Canada's abundant, low-cost power, this Canadian enterprise has created employment and income for tens of thousands; for the men who build and operate the dams and powerhouses, the docks and smelters and power lines it needs; and for the more than one thousand independent Canadian companies who turn aluminum into countless forms important to industry and our own daily living.
