Well Attended Legion Meeting

Due to the financial burden entailed in supplying cigarettes twice monthly to veterans in the five city hospitals and institutions the Charlottetown Branch of the Canadian Legion at its monthly meeting held at the Clover Club last night decided to ask the Provincial Command to request the various branches in the three Island zones to contribute to the cost.

It was pointed out that approximately 75 percent of the veterans thus supplied were from out of the city and there was only one other Branch in the Province helping defray the cost. Visits are made to the veterans twice each month, and last month there were 249 packages of cigarettes distributed.

There was a very large attendance at the meeting last night and the Branch was congratulated by Provincial Command president A. H. Peake on both the attendance and the conduct of the meeting.

Comrade Leo Doyle presented the report of the House Committee and was given authority to proceed with the fixing of the concrete retaining wall in front of the Legion Home.

Supports S'side Resolution

The meeting pledged the support of the Branch for the resolution offered at the annual Provincial Command meeting in Summerside recently asking that when positions were open in the Provincial Government or the Canadian National Railway they be advertised to give veterans an opportunity of applying.

The report of the Poppy Committee was read by Stanley Bryant who asked for help from other members in making this year's campaign a success. He had several offers immediately.

A brief recently presented to Dominion Parliament representatives of this Province dealing with legislation on veterans pensions was read to the meeting. The members also heard read a letter from the Benevolent Irish Society expressing its great appreciation for the offer of the Legion Hall for the holding of its meetings following the loss by fire of its own home.

It was also mentioned that during the proposed visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh there would be a space especially reserved in front of the Provincial Building for all war amputees to permit them to see the Royal visitors.

Plan No Sessions While Princess In Ottawa

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 —(CP)— The government intends to propose to Parliament that it not sit Oct. 10 and 11, the days Princess Elizabeth will be in Ottawa, it was learned today.

This ended speculation that the Princess might be asked to address members of the two Houses.

Parliment, adjourned since June will reassemble Oct. 9, the day the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh start their tour in Quebec City. The exisiting session will be prorogued and a new one launched that day.

The next day the royal couple will be in Ottawa and since there are arrangements for them to visit Parliament there has been speculation that the Princess would be asked to speak briefly to the members.

The competition was keen and several elderly contestants in the men's class gave exhibitions of dancing which belied their years. Although not actually a competitor, Mr. George Chappell of Charlottetown, who is over 80, treated the crowd with his dancing, which would have done credit to a man many years his junior.

Graduation Ceremonies At Sanatorium Yesterday

The great need at present of more nursing aides was stressed yesterday by Dr. Owen H. Curtis, Chief Health Officer, in his address to the graduating class of Nursing Aides of the Provincial Sanitorium.

The ceremonies were held in the flower-decked auditorium with a large crowd of parents and friends of the graduates present. Col. G.E. Full, chairman of the Sanitorium Commission, presided and briefly congratulated the girls. He said they had done their work efficiently and well and had played an essential part at the Sanitorium. In speaking of their future in the profession he remarked that they had good experience in the treatment of infectious diseases — perhaps more than most registered nurses received — and were in a position to serve the public well.

The six graduates present, the seventh graduated in absentia, received their certificates from Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan who briefly congratulated them individually, and then had their new pins affixed to their uniforms by Mrs. C. St. Clair Trainor.

Lieut. Col. P.S. Fielding, M.M., Deputy Minister of Health and Welfare, substituted at the last minute for Hon. A.W. Matheson, the Minister, who was unable to attend. Col. Fielding offered his congratulations to the Sanitorium Commission, Dr. P.A. Creelman and his staff for producing such an excellent graduating class. He expressed his appreciation to the graduates for the work they had done and wished them all success in their future work.

Dr. Creelman said it was a privilege for him to congratulate the girls on their attainment and said they would be able to help greatly in the problem of work at the Sanitorium. "You can be of inestimable service to us". He paid tribute to the excellent work done in the past years by Miss Katherine MacLennan, R.N., and Miss Helen Arsenault, R.N., in their training of nursing aides.

In making a presentation of a gift from the Sanitorium Commission to each of the girls, Col. Full said that the new class of nursing aides just starting was remarkable for one thing. Of the seven girls taking on the work six of them had at one time been patients at the Sanitorium. They knew the value of nursing aides and were returning to be of service.

Congratulates Commission

Dr. W.J.P. MacMillan said the Sanitorium Commission had rendered a wonder public service to the Province for many years. "Dr. Creelman has been the greatest benefactor we have had for the work he has done", Dr. MacMillan said in pointing out how the death rate in Prince Edward Island had shruken in tuberculosis from 118 per 100,000 to 30 per 100,000 in the past 20 years. Besides the difference in lives there, he said it was impossible to estimate how many other lives had been saved. "The end of tuberculosis is in sight".

At the conclusion of the program the graduates, their parents, friends and other guests were guests of the Sanitorium staff at afternoon tea.

The six graduates receiving their pins and certificates were Bernice MacDonald, Morell; Irma MacDonald, Morell; Lucy Gallant, Mayfield; Imelda Mooney, Souris; Florence Peters, Charlottetown; and Hermine Richard, Wellington. Mrs. Thelma MacLeod, Charlottetown, another graduate was not present for the ceremony.

Interspersed in the program were two numbers by Mrs. Neil MacLean, accompanied by Mrs. Keith Rogers on the piano. The numbers offered to rounds of applause were "Bless This House" and "The Whistling Song".

Dr. Curtis' Address

In his address Dr. Curtis pointed out that the nursing aide today is in a more favorable position than were her predecessors. Administrators in all fields of health services are realizing the value of nursing aides as teammates with doctors and nurses in the provision of care to the sick. This realization has in large measure been brought about by the greatly increased demand of the people for more medical care and more hospitalization. This increased demand in turn, Dr. Curtis said, may be attributed to several factors:

1. A growing knowledge by the public of the value of finding disease early when it can be more readily cured or its further progress prevented.

2. Improved economic status of our people so that they may more easily afford early medical care and hospitalization.

3. Improved medical knowledge whereby diseases which formerly ran a long course are now brought under control quickly.

4. Improvement in the type of care provided in hospital which now results in a high percentage of recovery.

One more feature which has contributed to the importance of nursing aides is the great shortage of registered nurses. Here the training has fallen far behind the increased demand for R.N.'s not only from the public health service, the large industries and most important of all, the armed forces.

Only by increasing the number of nursing-aides-in-training, by improving the quality of the courses given, and by utilizing their services to the best advantage in the provision of medical care, can increased services be supplied.

Much of the overcrowding in hospitals and the long waiting lists be avoided if cases of minor illness and injury were cared for at home by nursing aides under the close supervision of the family doctor, the speaker emphasized. In this way much of the emotional upset incurred by the patient on entering hospital might be avoided; the cost would be much less than that of highly specialized hospital care; and finally a hospital bed would be released for a more acutely ill patient.

Dr. Curtis visualized national and provincial associations of nursing aides comparable to now-existing associations of medical men, registered nurses, physiotherapists, etc. Such an organization, he said, would protect the rights and privileges of the aide as well as protect the community in which she works.

Six Children Burned To Death In Ontario Fires

TORONTO, Sept. 27 —(CP)— Two Ontario mothers watched helplessly today as six children burned to death in separate fires.

Near Hagersville, about 25 miles south of Hamilton, Mrs. Ward LaForme, a child in her arms, was forced out of her burning home in which her other three children died. They were trapped in a second-floor bedroom.

At Parry Sound--140 miles north of here--Mrs. Sam Tucci realized too late that her four-year-old twin daughters and a neighbor's child were caught in a burning woodshed behind her house.

Sam Tucci, father of the twin girls, rushed at the blazing shack, kicked in part of one wall, and staggered from the building with the three bodies in his arms. They were Joan and Jeannette Tucci and Betty-Anne Bartlett, 3, who lived across the road.

Police said they believed the children had been playing with mathes and ignited an old straw mattress in the shed.
