

Open Atlantic Provinces Big Industrial Exposition

Prince Edward Island products such as manufactured goods, dairy products, foods and wools will be displayed at the Atlantic Provinces Industrial Exposition at Saint John, N.B. Registration of exhibitors and buyers will begin Tuesday at 1 p.m. and the exposition will be open to buyers Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Every effort has been made to insure that the exposition has a variety of attractions, in addition to the actual exhibits, which will wet the appetites of the exhibitor, buyer and consumer alike. It will be the greatest exhibition of Atlantic craftsmanship ever presented to the buying public.

The Exposition brings together Atlantic manufacturers and offers an unusual opportunity for purchasing agents of companies throughout Canada and the United States to see what the Atlantic Provinces offer in manufactured goods.

Interest Evident In Conference

That there is keen interest in the excellent program lined up for the Maritime conference on social work to be held in Prince Edward Island during the week of June 21 is evidenced by the fact that already over 120 delegates from Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland have made reservations.

This information was given by Frank MacDonald, chairman of the accommodations committee at this week's check-up meeting of the local members of the Conference executive, which is headed by Mr. Eugene A. MacDonald of Charlottetown, Director of Child Welfare for P.E.I., who is the president and chairman of the conference.

This is the seventh biennial Maritime conference on social work, and it will be the second time it has convened in Charlottetown. Two years ago it was held, for the first time, in St. John's, Newfoundland.

The conference is centered around the theme which is "Interpretation of Social Work". The program committee, of which Walter O. Baker is the chairman, has been singularly successful in securing outstanding speakers and discussion group leaders who are prominent in the field of social work in Ottawa, Montréal, Toronto, Halifax, Fredericton, Sackville and Charlottetown.

Lay members who voluntarily devote their time to organizations concerned with welfare, as well as trained social workers, will find much valuable information to be gained by attending this conference.

It will be an excellent opportunity for all interested in social work to gain a much better insight into this type of work, and enable them to interpret to others the great need that exists, as well as the far-reaching benefits to be derived.

CLIPS MONUMENT
CANE, Crete (AP) — A jet fighter plane of the Greek Air Force knocked the top off a war memorial obelisk Wednesday while stunting low at an air show in Aghia village. The masonry fell into a reviewing stand and killed the village mayor and his teen-aged son. The plane crashed and burned, killing the pilot.

SAWMILL FIRE
VICTORIA (CP) — Spontaneous combustion in a pile of sawdust is believed to have sparked a $100,000 fire which gutted the sawmill half of the Dalziel Box Company Saturday. There were no injuries.

RELIGION AND LIFE

BY VERY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

WHAT HAVE I TO GIVE?
Schools are closing. Convocations are being held. Many are exulting in what they have gained or done in the past season, and some are humiliated because they have done so little.

But to all, the successful and the less successful, the question presents itself—What next? Or, in the chant of the soldiers—"Where do we go from here?"

What has the world got for me to do? But back of that is the prior question—What have I got to give?

I have had opportunities for self-development and self-equipment, but what is the self thus prepared? In other words—What am I worth to my generation?

If you are a religious person the first question you will be expected to answer is—What do you know about God? The world is not interested in your opinions; it is mightily interested in your discoveries.

A friend once told me about his own moral and spiritual transformation. It was literally true that he had been enslaved, and with a touch, Christ had set him free. But it took a Christ to do it, and to him Jesus was the might to save.

IT HAPPENED
Still closer to me was another comrade whose life had been as clean and straight as anyone's could be, but whose intellect covered wide ranges of thought in its doubts and questionings, and who suddenly caught sight of Christ as the centre of his thought and the governor of all action.

The way in which he worked out the implications of that personal discovery made him a source of strength and hope to many.

No two persons ever find God in the same way. But when the Divine Spirit finds entrance to the soul of any person, it makes him or her the source of a river of grace that brings healing and help to many.

In the first place, Canada's assets stagger one's imagination. Here are young people in hundreds pouring out of our educational institutions, highly educated, finely trained, and eager to serve.

Each of them is confident that he has something to give distinctively his own. Each of them has found or is eagerly looking for an opening in which he can enter with treasures he alone can bestow.

The first concern of our schools and business enterprises is to find men and women with moral character and personal initiative and energy, and before them is that throng of our choicest youth who have spent their most precious years in preparation for service.

The possibilities are dazzling. Once a young graduate comes to a church office with this problem:

The church is calling for workers, but we cannot find any place where we are really needed.

As that particular congregation was looking for a full-time leader at that moment, there was no question. None the less, many young people have real difficulty in finding the task for which they have qualified themselves.

HIS GUIDANCE
The first answer is, Seek God's guidance. He who has called the worker has the work waiting to be done.

Next, the church is called by God to do her part in bringing the workers and their work together. God's call is often conveyed through human agencies, and often Christians who feel their own limitations see in some ways prescribed by their church, it will also come with constraining force to many who have been thinking of other things.

When it comes, do not turn a deaf ear. The kingdom is faced with enemies and obstacles as serious as any our fathers knew, but the God who used them will work through their children in a still more decisive way.

ALSO TO THEM
The call is urgent for those who have ears to hear.

And while it comes to those who have prepared themselves in the ways prescribed by their church, it will also come with constraining force to many who have been thinking of other things.

When it comes, do not turn a deaf ear. The kingdom is faced with enemies and obstacles as serious as any our fathers knew, but the God who used them will work through their children in a still more decisive way.

Combines Act Allows 'Business Mergers'

By DON PEACOCK
Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP) — The government is drafting revisions in the anti-combines legislation to allow certain types of competition-eliminating business mergers, it was learned last weekend.

Well-informed sources say framers of the new legislation are encountering some difficulty in writing this modification into the long-standing principle of anti-combines law that maintenance of business competition is its chief purpose.

Some idea of what the government has in mind was given in a recent Toronto speech by Justice Minister Fulton.

Among principles and purposes he said the government intends to retain in the legislation is "by maintaining competition, to bring about the most effective allocation of resources and the highest possible standard of living."

Informants say elimination of competition for the purpose of getting control of prices, restraining trade or other factors detrimental to the public interest will still be illegal under the legislation.

BACK FREE COMPETITION
But they say the government plans to ask Parliament to approve a modification which would add to the existing principle—that free competition is in itself in the best interests of the public—a qualification as to what kind of free competition is desirable and what isn't.

Other changes to be proposed, sources say, include a provision aimed at penalizing businesses that engage in misleading advertising, such as misrepresenting prices as being wholesale prices.

The government is understood to want to make possible merger of competing companies that might actually result in a more efficient operation and be of greater benefit to the public interest than under normal competition.

The prospective changes in the anti-combines law—which in its influence on the pricing of goods in every section of the economy

OLDEST ELI DIES
BRIDGEPORT, Conn., (AP)—Rev. Herbert S. Brown, 99, who was Yale's oldest surviving graduate, died Friday at his home after a long illness. He was the last surviving member of Yale's class of 1881. His death passed the title of Yale's oldest living graduate to Harris D. Colt of New York City, 98-year-old retired lawyer, an 1884 grad.

RECENT GRAD
Dr. Robert Forsyth Nelson, recent graduate of Dalhousie Medical School is the son of Mrs. J. Robert Nelson and the late Mr. Nelson of Charlottetown. He served his internship in St. John General Hospital and now intends to set up practice in Westfield, New Brunswick.

young person the capacity that they lack.

I have just heard of a young person being pressed into Christian service by friends who discerned in him powers of which he himself was unconscious. John Calvin was on his way to a centre of learning for the pursuit of his studies when he was laid hold of by a man already in the battle.

One of the most effective young preachers I have ever heard told me of the way in which events seemed to precipitate him into church work for which he felt himself unfitted, and then unexpected successes led him forward step by step to a productive ministry.

Christ is in action among us. Still He is discovering the Andrews men greater than themselves.

Such discerning spirits will see many among this spring's graduates successors to those in Canada who laid foundations deeper and broader than they knew.

Plastic Bags Hold Peril

NEW YORK (AP) — Don't let your children play with plastic bags!

The harmless-appearing transparent sacks can be suffocation traps.

Youngsters have a penchant for pulling the bags over their heads, unaware they are courting death through entanglement that cuts off their oxygen supply.

More than two dozen children have suffocated already this year in the United States. The national safety council fears the number may rise to 100 before the year is over. A number of the victims have been less than a year old.

The bags are the type used largely by dry cleaning establishments for returning cleaned garments. The material is also for such purposes as covering pillows and crib mattresses.

The toll has spurred agitation across the U.S. to have the bags perforated or clearly marked

Bills to that effect have been "dangerous."

Introduced in congress and some state legislatures. Health officials and dry cleaning groups, including the national institute of dry cleaning, have urged precautions.

But some officials hold that final responsibility rests with parents—to keep the bags out of the children's reach.

EXPORTS RISE

LONDON (Reuters) — Exports rose more than nine per cent in April to £195,600,000, the second highest total on record, the board of trade said Friday. But imports rose about seven per cent to £245,800,000 and the visible trade deficit of £39,100,000 showed little difference from March.
