

THE LURE OF THE SEASIDE

The fascination of the Sea is alluring to everyone, and children, their elders, take restful pleasure in watching the rise and fall of the tide with its ever-changing scene such as has attracted the attention of a year-

Consider Small A-Power Plants For The Northland

OTTAWA (CP) — Possibility of using small atomic power plants at defence installations in the Canadian north is being studied by atomic scientists and the defence department. William Bennett, president of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Thursday told the Commons research committee that any plant developed for northern defence would be suitable for civilian use too. He also said: 1. Talks have been launched by scientists at the Chalk River, Ont., atomic project, and the pulp and paper industry on the possibility of a dual-purpose atomic power plant, producing both electricity and steam. 2. A Canadian plant will be in operation late in 1957 producing uranium metal in Canada for the first time. 3. Total dollar value of uranium produced by government mines and purchased by Eldorado Mining and Refining Ltd., from private companies with special price contracts likely will exceed $1,250,000 by March 31, 1962. Mr. Bennett said talks between Atomic Energy of Canada, a crown company, and the defence department have been undertaken "with a view to determine whether the department has a requirement for small package power reactors in the north." If this study showed that such power plants could perform a useful service in the north, an atomic defence team would be set up to prepare an outline specification for a project suitable for northern use. "Discussions are in progress," he said. "It was felt that the (defence) department might have a need for such a plant. Anything developed for the defence department would be suitable for civilian use." Possibility of a dual-purpose atomic plant for the pulp and paper industry was discussed at a recent conference at Chalk River. No decision was made to proceed with such a project but there was general agreement there was need for a "feasibility study" to determine whether the industry needs such a reactor. Mr. Bennett, also president of Eldorado, said this company now has decided to build a uranium metal producing plant at its refinery at Port Hope, Ont. Canada now buys a uranium metal from the United States. Completion of the plant would mean that Canada's atomic power program would be self-contained as regards its fuel supply. However, he said Canada has no plans at present to manufacture heavy water in this country.

LET SLEEPING POLICEMAN LIE

CHICAGO (AP) — Here's a robber who believes in letting sleeping policemen lie. The gunman, wearing a mask, held up Reginal Fitzgerald, 59, on his doorstep Monday night, taking $10. Then, he walked into the house with Fitzgerald, and awakened Walter Quasthoff, 29, and his brother, Robert, 21, who were sleeping on a rear porch. He commanded the three to wait in the living room, and went quietly into the bedroom where the Quasthoffs' parents, Fred and Josephine, were asleep. He brought out the elder Quasthoff's coat and trousers, and saw a star pinned to the coat. "Is that man a policeman?" he asked. The men nodded. The robber took $24 and the star from policeman Quasthoff's coat and left the house without a further sound.

Saskatchewan Liberal Leader A Former Tory

REGINA (CP) — Alexander Hamilton (Hammie) McDonald is measuring his Saskatchewan Liberal leadership against the demands of an election campaign for the first time. The provincial general election will be held June 20. Named to the post late in 1954, some observers credit Mr. McDonald with restoring harmony to the party lost following its 1944 election defeat by the CCF. The 37-year-old member for Moomin was a Progressive Conservative eight years ago, but he became a Liberal in the 1952 general election after sitting in the legislature for his first four-year term with the backing of both parties. He is of a third generation of farming McDonalds from Fleming in southeast Saskatchewan. The opposition leader and his family recently moved to Regina from the 960-acre farm, first settled in 1881 by his grandfather. Serving during the Second World War as an RCAF Spitfire pilot, Mr. McDonald was shot down three times. He was married in 1944 to Medicine Anne Casey of Washington, D.C. They have one daughter and one son.

Three Royal Commissions Costing Taxpayers Plenty

OTTAWA (CP) — Three royal commissions now at work have cost Canadian taxpayers at least $1,309,000. Supplementary estimates tabled in the Commons Tuesday show the government is asking another $662,920 for operations of the three commissions. $500,000 more for the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects, $170,920 more for the royal commission on broadcasting, and $52,000 more for the royal commission inquiry into the coastal shipping trade. This brings to $785,500 the total for the economic commission, $320,920 for the broadcasting commission and $194,000 for the coastal shipping inquiry. The coastal shipping commission, set up in early 1955, and is now in its final stages of work. Sfr. Sgr. Charles and Mrs. Burland and small son Charles Jr., of Melrose, Mass., were guests at the home of Mrs. Beland's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Woodside, Unionville, for the past week. Mr. Beland had just returned from French Morocco, Africa. They leave recently for their new posting in Orna, Nebraska. While on the island Mr. and Mrs. Beland and son Charles, accompanied by Mrs. Beland's parents Mr. and Mrs. Chesley Woodside motored to Charlottetown where they were weekend guests at the home of Mr. Percy Gay brother of Mrs. Chesley Woodside. They also visited friends and relatives in Knutsford and Springfield West. The annual School meeting was held in Burton School on Tuesday evening, June 5, with an attendance of eight. Mr. Henry Dalton was appointed chairman. The minutes and financial report was read by the secretary, Mr. Harold Howard. Officers for the ensuing year are Secretary, Harold Howard; trustees, Cecil Wood, Colridge Rogers, and Henry Dalton, re-elected.
