The S. S. "Wearmouth" Lost—Sixteen Hands Drowned.

MONTRAL, Nov. 22.
The steamship Wearmouth, which arrived here from Cow Bay with a cargo of coal, on the 1st inst., cleared for Quebec on the 7th inst., and loaded there with deals, for London, G. B. She sailed from the latter port on the 19th inst. On the following day she encountered a terrific storm in the Gulf, and on Monday at midnight was driven ashore on the Magdalen Islands. Four of the crew reached the shore, and were found by the inhabitants in an exhausted condition; but sixteen of the crew were drowned.

The Wearmouth is an iron screw steamer of 1051 tons, barque rigged. She was built at Glasgow by R. Duncan & Co., in 1865, and was owned by Messrs. Greenshields, of Liverpool. She was classed 9 A1 at Lloyd's. She will probably prove a total loss.

Brookshaw the Blackmailer Sentenced to Ten Years P. S.

LONDON, Nov. 22.
On the 14th of October last, a man named Brookshaw, a commercial traveller was committed for trial in this city for sending a threatening letter to Colonel Teesdale, Esq., to the Prince of Wales, in which he stated that it was his intention to murder the Prince of Wales unless a certain sum of money which he demanded was immediately sent to him. The line of defence taken by Brookshaw's Counsel in the trial ended yesterday, was, that he (Brookshaw) is a crank. But the evidence for the prosecution proved him to be a professional blackmailer. The Court therefore sentenced him to ten years penal servitude.

The Joyce Murderers Trial Completed.

DUBLIN, Nov. 22.
The remaining four prisoners at the conclusion of Patrick Casey's trial were arraigned for complicity in the Joyce murder. They all pleaded guilty and were sentenced to death. The sentence was a great disappointment to them, as they thought by pleading guilty to the charge of complicity they would be sentenced to life long servitude instead of hanging.

GENERAL CABLE NEWS.

LONDON, Nov. 19.
Yesterday business was in great part suspended in London. In the morning there was a fog, which was a prohibition upon ordinary traffic, and the rest of the day was given to the review of the Egyptian troops by Her Majesty. The weather cleared, as it is held that it always does for the Queen, and by one o'clock a large proportion of London's five millions had poured into St. James' Park and filled every approach to it. Not ten per cent. of the enormous multitude saw the pageant, which was one of extraordinary brilliancy. The royal family was out in full force. Her Majesty was very plainly dressed, looked very well and was guarded from the view of her faithful subjects by innumerable soldiery. The Prince of Wales was hardly more visible, and the immense royal establishment, with all its apparatus, carriages and upholstery, presented a very curious spectacle. The event filled London with excitement, and was eminently successful in its design, which was to let the Egyptian heroes in the sunshine of the royal presence to stimulate the national military feeling to show to the public of what it is paying so much money for. The Indian officers and men, in their grotesque uniforms, came in for applause, and looked deeply impressed and wretchedly cold.

The World's London Special says: The chief feature of the review was the huge crowd—such a crowd as is only to be seen in London on a holiday; and I must chronicle the remarkable enthusiasm manifested yesterday everywhere by all classes. The loyalty of the British people in the metropolis is evidently as great as ever. The Prince of Wales was also received with immense cheering.

The Tribune's London special cable says that Mr. Gladstone's wife, family and friends occupied a private stand in the grounds belonging to his residence during the review yesterday. The Prime Minister was conspicuous throughout, raising his hat to every distinguished person passing, and to every regiment, and often standing long bearded.

The appearance, demeanour and marching of the troops of every arm, delighted the military critics. Few traces of hardship were visible. The streets were thronged and the entire line of march was over two miles. Decorations abounded and the multitude were immense. The cheering never ceased.

The Queen presented war medals to two representatives of each regiment. A general presentation of medals will take place at Windsor on Tuesday.

LONDON, Nov. 20.
A man named Sanders was arraigned to-day, for sending a letter to Mr. Gladstone threatening to murder him. He was remanded after disclaiming any intention to murder the Prime Minister. He is merely a dangerous swindler.

In the Commons, to-night, Mr. Gladstone in reply to Mr. Parnell, stated that the Government was not at present contemplating any amendment to the Arrears Rent Act. Mr. Trevelyan said up to the 15th inst., applications under the Arrears Rent Act had reached 141,670; the land commissioners hoped to settle, before the 30th inst., all cases lodged prior to Nov. 25th. The condition of the Archbishop of Canterbury is regarded by his physicians with increased anxiety.

GUAYANQUIL, Nov. 20.

board of inquiry, with a view to securing a thorough and searching investigation of the circumstances attending his brother's suspension from duty by Capt. DeLong, and also of his (Dr. Collins) charge that his brother received unfair treatment and was not allowed to accompany Noros and Ninderman though able and anxious to do so. Collins states that his brother's diary will duly substantiate all the charges he has made. The diary contains an entry substantially as follows:—"We are starving and through the mulish stupidity of our leaders we shall probably all be lost."

Nov. 9th, lat. 42.05, long. 52.30, sighted a wreck; bore down and found it to be the bark "Constantine," Capt. Kruger, of Frederickstadt, from Liscomb, N. S., with lumber for Barrow; water-logged; mainmast gone; forward house broken in; decks broken up and sea making a clean breach over her. Lay by and took off the crew of 12 men and proceeded. Nov. 13th, lat. 41.10, long. 63.40; passed a number of barrels, seemingly petroleum barrels that had been but a short time in the water.
