

The Soldier's Dream.

(Published by request.) On Milton's fair slope at the close of the day, The soldier lay down to repose; The fires that glimmered on yonder heights, Told the watchfulness of the foe.

A long forced march the men underwent, Many wounds they had to avenge; They lay with their arms within easy grasp, The Cross of St. George to defend.

His spirit had wandered o'er mountain and dale, Through scenes he familiarly knew; He dreamt he was home amid kindred dear, On the banks of the sweet Montague.

He clasped his fond wife to his medal decked breast, And kissed his children dear; Strange, strange their faces to him appeared, He was absent so many years.

The neighbors assembled to hear him relate, His stories of distant lands; Of India, with its gorgeous shrines, And Egypt's blood-stained sands.

The old men gravely shook their heads, The youth did dance with joy; As he told them of prisons, carnage, death, And sieges like that of Troy.

Times and things since he left had changed very much, New rulers were on the throne; The old slab bridge had tumbled down, Was replaced with one of stone.

A music hall now takes the place where the trees When he left had stood; A gallery of art adorns the spot, Where Jim had then sold grog.

And where is the oracle the soldier then asked Who from holiness ne'er could fall? He's gone to his rest left a name embalmed, With that of Methuselah.

And what of the Martyr, the soldier enquired, That angel so well disguised? He has taken his seat in that House above, Of grays beyond the skies.

The notes of the bugle then broke his repose, To arms! could be heard afar; The rushing squadrons, the clashing of steel, Such are the scenes of war.

He breathed a prayer to the throne above, That soldiers then adore; To protect him through that dreadful day, And to his home restore.

A Curious Case.

SINGULAR PHENOMENA IN THE LIFE OF LOUISE LATEAU.

Foreign mail advices announce the death of Louise Lateau, the stigmatica of Bois d'Haine. This singular being was born on the 30th of January, 1850. She made her first communion at the age of eleven years, and began to earn her living as a seamstress at the age of fifteen. During the cholera visitation of 1866 she exhibited much devotion in attending to the wants of the pest stricken. In 1867, she was attacked by a lingering malady and received the last sacrament. She was, however cured (miraculously, said her friends), but only for a short time. Early in 1868, she was said to have first experienced pain in the locality of the stigmata, and she again received the last sacrament. It is alleged, nevertheless, that she foretold her recovery, and on April 21, she appeared completely restored to health. The first outward indication of the stigmata is said to have taken place on April 24, 1868, when a wound in the side was visible, which healed the next day. On May 1, blood was reported to have issued from the upper surface of her feet as well as from her side, and she then confided the matter to M. le Cure. Seven days later the stigmata of the hands added themselves to the others, and M. le Cure advised her to apply to the physician of Fayt, who attempted to cure her. In the course of 1868 several evidences of ecstasy are said to have occurred, and on September 25, 1868, the crown of thorns first appeared. After this she ceased to sleep. Her alleged complete abstinence from all nourishment began on March 30, 1871, and the wound on the shoulder appeared on the following April. The case attracted great attention at the hands of medical men, physiologists, and psychologists, and numerous pamphlets appeared on the subject.

It is stated that during the bombardment at Tamatave. Missionary Siaw's residence was looted, and he was threatened with punishment by the French officials, because he failed to remove the debris caused by ransacking his house.

In an address before the British Association for the advancement of Science, at Southampton, on Thursday last, Sir William Wheelhouse ascribed the commercial depression of the country to the operation of Free Trade laws, and advocated a return to a Protective tariff.

A LONDON Druggist says: "during the many years I have been in the drug business, I have never had a medicine that gave such general satisfaction, or for which there was such a large sale, as there is for Mack's Magnetic Medicine, advertised in another column of your paper." Sold in Charlottetown at Apothecaries Hall. [see 24 lw wky]

The Great French Remedy, Dr. LeDuc's Periodical Pills.

For the cure of Leucorrhoea or White's Emission or painful Menstruation, Green Sickness, Falling of the Womb, Catarrh of the Uterus or Vagina, Hysteria, Pain in the Back, or Pains, or for the purpose of invigorating and giving tone to the Genitive Organs, two pills should be taken twice daily, or in very enfeebled conditions, one pill three times a day. To effect cures in chronic cases it will be necessary to continue the use of the remedy for some months. A reasonable trial will create sufficient confidence in the remedy to insure its being taken until a permanent cure is effected. AYER'S Hair Vigor restores, with the gloss and freshness of youth, faded or gray hair to a natural, rich brown color, or deep black, as may be desired. By its use light or red hair may be darkened, thin hair thickened, and baldness often, though not always, cured.

It checks falling of the hair, and stimulates a weak and sickly growth to vigor. It prevents and cures scurf and dandruff, and heals nearly every disease peculiar to the scalp. As a Ladies' Hair Dressing, the Vigor is unequalled; it contains neither oil nor dye, renders the hair soft, glossy, and silken in appearance, and imparts a delicate, agreeable, and lasting perfume.

MR. C. P. BICHER writes from Kirby, O., July 3, 1882: "Last fall my hair commenced falling out, and in a short time I became nearly bald. I used part of a bottle of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, which stopped the falling of the hair, and started a new growth. I have now a full head of hair growing vigorously, and am convinced that but for the use of your preparation I should have been entirely bald."

J. W. BOWEN, proprietor of the McArthur (Ohio) Enquirer, says: "AYER'S HAIR VIGOR is a most excellent preparation for the hair. I speak of it from my own experience. Its use promotes the growth of new hair, and makes it glossy and soft. The Vigor is also a sure cure for dandruff. Not within my knowledge has the preparation ever failed to give entire satisfaction."

MRS. ANNE FAIRBANK, leader of the celebrated "Fairbank Family" of Scottish Vocalists, writes from Boston, Mass., Feb. 6, 1880: "Five years ago my hair began to give all very evidence of the change which befalling time procureth. I have used AYER'S HAIR VIGOR, and so have been able to maintain an appearance of youthfulness a matter of considerable consequence to ministers, orators, actors, and in fact every one who lives in the eyes of the public."

MRS. O. A. PRESOTT, writing from 18 Elm St., Charlestown, Mass., April 11, 1882, says: "Two years ago about two-thirds of my hair came off. It thinned very rapidly, and I was fast growing bald. On using AYER'S HAIR VIGOR the falling stopped and a new growth commenced, and in about a month my head was completely covered with short hair. It has continued to grow, and is now as good as before it fell. I regularly use but one bottle of the Vigor, but now use it occasionally as a dressing."

We have hundreds of similar testimonials to the efficacy of AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It needs but a trial to convince the most skeptical of its value.
