THIS IS NATIONAL Health Week hard working mineral calcium does a big job for the human body. It aids in the clotting of blood, the regular beating of the heart and the making of bones and teeth. To obtain the necessary supply of calcium, the average adult must depend upon his diet. Milk is the chief source, together with its product, cheese. Canada's Food Rules suggest that children need at least one pint of milk, either as a drink or in some part of their food; an adolescent needs at least 1 1/2 pints and an adult at least 1/2 a pint. This will not only supply calcium but also riboflavin, protein, some vitamin A, as well as other vitamins and minerals.

Death Monday of Thomas R. Beer

The death of Thomas R. Beer, who for several years has resided on the Malpeque Road, occurred in the Prince Edward Island Hospital on Jan. 30, 1956.

Mr. Beer was born at Kingston, P.E.I., on Feb. 3, 1871 a son of the late George Beer and his wife, a Miss Howard of Cornwall P.E.I.

In his youth Mr. Beer was engaged in farming at Kingston and eventually extended his holdings to include a butcher-drover business which he conducted with marked success. On moving to New Haven he became one of the largest livestock dealers and shippers in the province, reaching out to profitable markets in Cape Breton, Newfoundland and England, when the demand for live cattle was great.

Mr. Beer came to Charlottetown in 1917 where he continued active in business until 15 years ago when he retired to his farm in Charlottetown.

He was twice married, his first wife being the former Minnie Beer of New Haven who died in Charlottetown in 1918. His second wife was Annie L. Ramsay of Hamilton, P.E.I., who still survives. Other surviving relatives are: two brothers, George at Kingston and William at Hunter River, and two sisters, Mrs. Minnie Marshall, Kingston and Mrs. Janie Vickerson, New York. One sister, Mrs. Darrach (Elizabeth) died six years ago.

HEAVY BUSINESS MADE IN THE COOPERATIVE ACT.

In a recent speech in the House of Commons, the Liberal Member for Queens, Mr. Neil A. Matheson, intimated that investigations were being made regarding the feasibility of a causeway across Northumberland Strait. In a statement following the announcement, Premier Matheson said he intended to go into this matter fully at the next session of the House. It is interesting to note that the subject of a tunnel or a causeway was discussed in the local House as early as 1891. It was brought up in the Senate in 1942 when Senator MacArthur asked if the Government had up-to-date data on a tunnel between P. E. I. and New Brunswick.

Death of Charles I Is Commemorated

LONDON (Reuters) — While London's busy traffic hummed by, 30 persons stood in drizzling rain Monday to commemorate the death 307 years ago of Charles I, the king whom Britain beheaded.

Most historians agree that a Charles was an autocrat who tried to flout parliamentary rule—and lost his throne and life in the attempt—but he still has his sympathizers. After his death in 1649 Britain had no king for 10 years until his son was brought back.

The ceremony was held in Trafalgar Square, where a statue of Charles I is overshadowed by the huge memorial column to Britain's naval hero, Lord Nelson.

Later a brief religious service was conducted outside the banquet hall of Whitehall Palace, now a museum. Charles passed through the hall on his way to the scaffold on which he was beheaded.
