Fantastic Quantity Of Liquor Sought In Chain Letter Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—An ingenious scheme whereby some Vancouver residents have been collecting fantastic quantities of Christmas liquor in return for a modest one-bottle investment appeared last weekend to have reached the saturation point. The scheme, operated on the chain letter system, spread throughout greater Vancouver in little more than a week, but bogged down because of a shortage of new participants. While late entries were be-moaning the loss of a bottle which didn't seem likely to be returned—let alone pay interest—many of the early participants gleefully eyed Christmas supplies ranging up to the maximum 64 bottles. The craze is believed to have started in suburban West Vancouver about 10 days ago. A participant is given a list of five names with telephone numbers. He contacts the person at the top of the list and gives him a bottle of liquor of his choice, then adds his own name to the bottom, passing copies to two friends. The two friends go through the same procedure. RAPID SHORTAGE Theoretically the scheme could provide each participant with 64 bottles. But University of B.C. mathematics expert P. S. Bullen says a shortage of participants develops rapidly. By the time the originator of a letter got his 64 bottles, he says, there would be 4,096 persons in the club. If these all received their 64 bottles, there would be 262,144 members and it would take another 16,777,216 participants to complete that round. Mr. Bullen said he thinks the whole thing is "completely immoral." It wasn't clear whether the system is illegal. "I'm not prepared to say," said city prosecutor Stewart McMorran. "I'm not going to advise the public on something as contentious as this." Mr. McMorran and the attorney-general's department in Victoria said no action is planned because they haven't had any complaints.

Aviation Future Is Predicted By Transport Minister Hees

TORONTO (CP)—Transport Minister Hees took a squint into the future last week to give a Toronto audience an indication of what may be in store for aviation 15 to 20 years from now. He said Canadians likely will see: 1. Coast to coast flights in Canada taking only 1 1/2 hours and

Newsman Taken By Cuba Police

HAVANA (AP)—Cuban military intelligence agents Thursday captured Frank Austin Young of Miami, who fled a military jail Wednesday to avoid serving a 30-year prison sentence. Minutes after Young was seized, agents arrested James Buchanan, a reporter for the Miami (Fla.) Herald, and charged he was carrying medical aid to Young. Both men were taken into custody in a Havana tourist hotel. The first word of Buchanan's arrest came from the U.S. embassy.

The National Broadcasting Company announced, meanwhile, that two of its Cuban photographers also had been detained by military authorities. The two, Charles Santos and Luis Rivas, were taken into custody in Pinar del Rio, where they had gone to make pictures dealing with Young's escape. Young was sentenced Tuesday by a military tribunal in Pinar del Rio. He surrendered Thursday to an army intelligence agent in the hotel in downtown Havana.

Weldon Chan Goes To China

OTTAWA (CP)—Weldon Chan and his family are going to be deported to Hong Kong. Immigration Minister Ellen Fairclough said last week the 40-year-old Chinese man tried to make a mockery of Canadian law. Chan's whereabouts are unknown. He disappeared from his home in Vancouver Nov. 5 while a deportation order was pending against him. His wife came here this week to plead for domicile for them and their five-year-old daughter. She saw Mrs. Fairclough Wednesday, but apparently failed in her mission. In a bristling statement issued Thursday the minister said: "Weldon Chan has on successive occasions broken the law of this country; he has indeed attempted to make a mockery of the law that it is my duty to uphold. The deportation of Mr. and Mrs. Chan and their daughter will therefore be carried out as soon as Mr. Chan is located."

CONTRACT BRIDGE By B. JAY BECKER

for the fourth year in a row, sixteen countries competing). When Reese and Schapiro held the North-South cards for Britain, the bidding went as shown. The four notrump bid by Schapiro was Blackwood; the five diamond response (artificial) showed one ace. Schapiro now had to decide whether to bid six clubs or diamonds. He knew the opponents had an ace. The chief question was whether there was less likelihood of losing a trump trick in diamonds or clubs. He made the better decision when he chose six diamonds, which was virtually foolproof. Twelve tricks were easily made for a score of 1,370 points. But when the Swiss pair of Besse and Reichenbach held the same cards, the bidding went: West led the jack of hearts and the British East-West pair grabbed five tricks immediately to defeat the slam 400 points. So the British team gained 1,770 points on the deal, worth 10 international match points. The match eventually ended in a draw, however, despite the disaster suffered by the Swiss on this hand. The four club bid was Gerber. In this case—showing convention the inquiries start at four clubs instead of, as in Blackwood, at four notrump. The four heart response showed one ace. (Four diamonds would have shown none.) Why Reichenbach leaped to six notrump is a mystery. Either he did not recognize that the opponents had an ace, or he may have thought his partner had the ace of hearts and he wanted to protect the king of spades. Whatever the reason was, it turned out badly.
