No Prohibition On the High Seas

U. S. Rumsellers Believe They Can Anchor Outside Three Mile Limit and Conduct Liquor Business With Ferry to Shore.

(Special to The Guardian)
WASHINGTON, June 15.—“Floating bars” on American ships just outside the three-mile limit off American cities probably would be legal under the Shipping Board's ruling. That the Volstead Act does not hold on the high seas, a legal authority high in the government, said today. It was pointed out that since the board has held that the dry laws do not apply to American ships outside the three-mile zone there could be no prohibition against anchoring an “oasis” in the ocean with regular ferry service.

Inspection Yesterday of P.E.I. Heavy Brigade

The Splendid Turn-Out at Victoria Park Yester- day Afternoon Received Enthusiastic Praise from Inspecting Officer Col. Elkins.

The beautiful weather yesterday afternoon and the large crowd of spectators assembled at Victoria Park gave the last necessary touches to the success of the inspection of the P. E. Island Heavy Brigade. Shortly after 2 o'clock the Brigade, headed by the Brigadier band, left the drill hall and were photographed en route to the Park for Montreal papers. At 2.30 Lieut. Col. Elkins, D. S. O., Inspector of artillery, arrived and was greeted with the general salute. He then inspected the Brigade, remarking most favorably on the clean and neat appearance of the members.

Hubby Must Explain To Most Beautiful Wife on Continent

(Special to The Guardian)
NEW YORK, June 15.—Miss Allison Frances McElin, of Sherbrooke Que., declared by Col. E. S. Phillips to be one of the most beautiful women on this continent, yesterday won a contest when she married John L. Peeny, New York lawyer, as a result of the losers' displeasure. Peeny was arrested last night on breach of promise charges lodged by Miss Catherine De Cathelineau, daughter of a French Count. He was released under $250,000 bond and returned home to explain things to his bride of a month.

Railway Unionists Demand Resignation Of Privy Councillor

LONDON, June 15.—There is considerable speculation in labor and political circles regarding the convention of the British railwaymen which will meet on Monday when a resolution will be brought up demanding that the Right Honourable J. H. Thomas, the secretary, resign his privy councillorship on the alternative resignation of the officers. He holds in the railwaymen's unions on the ground that his duties to the Crown as Privy Councillor are inconsistent with his duties to the workers. Although the attack is due to the communists there are many moderates in the unions who object to labor leaders accepting any honours from the Sovereign. Thomas sent a letter last night to every branch of the railwaymen's unions and during the last few days there has been a considerable rallying on opinion to his side. The Birmingham railway men last night passed a resolution declaring that those who are denouncing Secretary Thomas are doing more to reduce the status of the workers than if they were to refuse to work with him and Curzon together. It looks as if Thomas will gain a victory, but the Democratic feeling towards honours is nevertheless increasing rather than diminishing.

Fifty Years' Service On City Police Force

Chief of Police Chas. Cameron Received Hearty Congratulations Yesterday Upon the 50th Anni- versary of His Police Service.

Fifty years of active service on the police force of Charlottetown is the unique record of Police Marshal Cameron, who yesterday received congratulatory addresses and a presentation of a purse of money by His Worship Mayor Jenkins and the members of the City Council on behalf of the City, as a slight recognition of his long and faithful service. The presentation was a surprise to Marshal Cameron, who in reply expressed his thanks and said that during his service he had simply done his duty.

When New Taxes Are Effective

At the time Marshal Cameron joined the force, Edward Flynn, was Police Marshal, the other policemen being James Richards, H. Pollard, Frank McCabe, John Hughes, T. Brennan, Ewen McGree, or as they were known, the "Bullies" of the city court was John Mollineux and the chief magistrate His Worship Theo DesBrisay. The police station was then on the market square, the present site being occupied by Love's tannery. The fire station was then at the old fire house, beyond the Euclid Street stretched only country lanes and pastures. Paved streets were unknown, even board sidewalks none too plentiful. Walking absent-mindedly down a public street it would be a too easy matter to fall into somebody's open cellar hatch. There was of course no water-system then, and buckets of water were peddled for a cent from house to house. Perhaps the scarcity of good water had some thing to do with the number of corner taverns.

Opening Last Night Of Beach Grove Inn

The presentation and addresses of appreciation and congratulation were made to Marshal Cameron yesterday afternoon in the City Council chambers.

His Worship Mayor Jenkins

In making the presentation to Marshal Cameron, His Worship Mayor Jenkins said that he had but a few hours ago learned of the fact that today was the Marshal's fiftieth anniversary of active service upon the Police Force of the city. He had then spoken to some of the members of the Council, feeling that it would be altogether out of place to allow such an occasion to pass without at least some words of appreciation. Unfortunately Councilors Moran and McLeod were out of the city at the time, but the other members of the Council he was glad to see were present. He said he would not doubt like to say a few words on their own behalf. Marshal Cameron has seen a great many changes in Charlottetown during his half century of service on the police force—a period of service almost unique in Canadian history. During that long time no one has ever pointed a finger or said a word against his reputation as an officer and a gentleman. This itself speaks highly for the efficient manner in which he has performed his duties. "On behalf of the City, and through me," he concluded. His Worship, "I have great pleasure in presenting you, with a slight token of the esteem in which you are held by the citizens of Charlottetown."

Mrs. Mallory Wins at Tennis

Coun. Rattray said that though age is honorable it is always agreeable to keep young and for this reason he would wish that the Marshal's 50th anniversary was yet a distant event. However, he wished heartily to congratulate him. As a boy around Charlottetown and as a young man growing into citizenship he came to appreciate Marshal Cameron's work. Fifty years' service seems almost a lifetime. He knew from experience what police officers had to do thirty and thirty-five years ago, and he had heard before that, in the days of heavy shipping, there were many difficulties to contend with in maintaining order. From men who recalled those times, he had heard that "Charlie" Cameron, never took back water from a law-breaker and never used any methods in the course of his duty that were not square and manly. All classes of people today look up to Marshal Cameron as an ideal officer, and the only thing they are sorry for is that ages is creeping upon him. The speaker felt that if citizens did their duty to an officer such as Marshal Cameron they would retire him on full pay. This does not at all mean that they want to get clear of him because in honoring him in this manner they would simply be honoring the city in whose service he has given the best years of his life.

Coun. Prowse.

Coun. Prowse endorsed the words of the last speaker, that Marshal Cameron was certainly entitled to honorable retirement on full pay. He also added his hearty congratulations upon the occasion of the present anniversary.

CHIEF OF POLICE CAMERON.

say the least, unpopular. Right thinking citizens, however, know that the police officer stands for their protection, and despite the fact that officers very often earn more or less unpopularity, it can be truly said that Marshal Cameron has earned very little of that. This does not mean that he has not been faithful in his work, but that he has used a great deal of tact and judgment in dealing with situations as they have arisen; and he has won the respect of the law abiding citizens as well as the law breaking citizens. "His is surely a unique record," the speaker concluded, and I think you did right, Your Worship, in calling this meeting to give some slight recognition of the excellent services which Chief Cameron has given the city."
