MISCELLANEOUS.

PETROLEUM AS FUEL.

The experiments which for several months have been in progress at Boston, looking to the successful application of petroleum as fuel for steamships, have been watched with much interest, and their results have been very important. These results, as claimed by the inventor of the system under trial, are a saving of four or five to one in space required for the storage of fuel, and of at least five-sixths of the labor required for feeding and tending the fires, to say nothing of the actual cost, which depends upon the relative prices of coal and oil. Application was made to the Secretary of the Navy, in November last, for opportunity to test the practicability of petroleum as fuel upon a Government vessel. The Department had already, in 1862, appointed a committee of naval engineers to experiment upon this subject, and upon this application a board of three chief engineers was ordered to examine the proposed experiments, the gunboat Palos being selected for the trial. Previous to entering upon the petroleum trial, her engines were tested with coal, thirty-six revolutions per minute, with thirty pounds of steam, being obtained. In the first petroleum test thirty-four revolutions were obtained with the same head of steam, and in the second test fifty revolutions with a pressure of thirty pounds. A comparison of the weight of oil the oil and the coal showed that one pound of oil had done the work of eight pounds of coal, and the general comparison of weight has shown one barrel of petroleum to be equal to one ton of coal.

Crude oils are used of a gravity ranging from 31 to 47 degrees. The oil is first conveyed directly to a cast-iron retort and vaporized by means of a slight fire underneath. Due proportions of steam and common air are incorporated with the vapor, and the gasses thus evolved constitute the fuel. This burns with an intense heat, and the combustion is so perfect that no smoke is visible at the outlet of the smokestack.

The fire is under perfect control, and there being no ashes, clinker nor refuse coal to clog the fires, they may be run an indefinite time without stoppage for cleaning. The burning of coal upon the Palos required the services of twenty-one firemen and coalpassers; with the petroleum only three men were needed. This same principle may be applied to locomotives as well as steamers, and, indeed, upon the Franklin and Warren Railroad, in Western Pennsylvania, a petroleum burning apparatus has been successfully employed. The petroleum regions are making still further use of the oil by applying the necessary apparatus to the fires of the engine houses at the wells, thus saving a very large outlay for wood or coal. During the height of the speculative fever, when dozens of wells were being sunk upon each acre in the favorite localities, all the coal for the engines was transported for miles over frightful roads at great wear and tear of horses and wagons, and at a corresponding cost to the well owner. Nearly all this great expense might have been saved had the use of petroleum for fuel been practically understood. The experiments at Boston are to be continued, and petroleum tested upon a sea voyage. The importance of the subject should insure for it a rigid and persistent investigation. Should the result of the experiments continue to be satisfactory, the carrying capacity of our steamships will be largely increased, while their payrolls may be greatly diminished, coaling stations may be discontinued, and a vessel may leave New York with enough fuel on board to propel her around the world.—N. Y. Tribune.

A liquor prosecution in Manchester, Conn., has developed some queer facts in relation to the working of the secret order of Good Templars. The principal witness for the prosecution was one of the spies of the order. It seems that they have a "detective department" with a morale about on a par with that of Baker's. Rev. H. S. Platt, of West Winsted, is the chief, and his subordinates are bound on oath to obey his orders without question. They are also sworn to secrecy, but if this particular detective kept anything secret he must have an awful tale to tell. Under the direction of his reverend superior, he would put up at a hotel, under a false name, tipple a while at the bar, go out and take a drink at a saloon, return and try a different kind of liquor, and when this amusement became tiresome report to headquarters. The "specimens" which is secured in quantity, were handed over to Rev. Mr. Platt for mince pies, probably. But most of the detective work was done by personal drinking. They could not obtain convictions so easily when liquor was bought by the flask. The justice would taste of a good article of Santa Cruz, and pronounce it blackberry syrup, much to the indignation of the honest Templar, who evidently knew whereof he spoke. This innocent testified that he did not know the taste of liquors when he entered the business, but that, by drinking from three to four times a day, he had become tolerably proficient. Still, his head was not very strong. He had to lie by a day or so, now and then, to recuperate his energies, he said; and we may believe him, since he testified that he would drink when others offered to treat; that he would throw dice for drinks, and that he didn't hesitate to gamble in the saloons. This man, who indulged in such dissipations without stint, was, it must be remembered, a sworn member of an organization which denounces liquor as an abomination. And this society was paying his expenses in the drinking and gambling line, and giving him two dollars a day for his virtuous services, which were directed by the Rev. Mr. Platt. It would be interesting to place the ministerial chief detective himself upon the stand, and elicit his explanation of such performances in the interest of the temperance cause. How much good sense, not to say sincerity, is there in a system which actually encourages drunkenness in its agents for the purpose of enforcing a law which public opinion does not sustain!

MR. GLADSTONE AND MR. DISREALI.—In an article on political inconsistency, the Pall Mall Gazette thus compares the two English politicians who are perhaps the two strongest illustrations of the subject:—

"Were it not that he is a great parliamentary chief, and that his errors are as serious a national loss as his achievements are a great national benefit, the progress of Mr. Gladstone's mind would be as curious a thing to watch as any existing subject for psychological study. One thing is certain, the fear of 'Hansard' will never deter him from forming and avowing each fresh change in his opinions.

"As to his formidable rival, to quote 'Hansard' to him of him is about as profitable as to blame an actor for not wearing the same dress and putting on the same expression of countenance in Hamlet and in Romeo. Consistency, theoretical and practical alike, is not his line. To use the slang saying of the day, he does not go in for it. Probably Mr. Disreali never lost one hour of his natural rest through suffering from the throes of an anxious heart, striving to reconcile things apparently inconsistent, under the conviction that logical consistency in belief is as much a duty to those who can attain it as honesty in purpose and truth in conversation. And this is perhaps one reason why in all these his last transformations the House has preferred to laugh to listening to any serious exposure of the past parliamentary career of its successful 'Wizard of the East.' Transformations are the order of the day on the mimic stage, and why not on the stage of the House of Commons."

A company has been formed in France, with a capital of three million francs to search for three Spanish galleons, which were sunk by the English fleet at the commencement of the last century. The galleons in question were returning from Mexico and had on board about five million piastres. They are still at the bottom of the sea, and several attempts to come at the treasure have failed. Powerful machinery is constructing at Bordeaux.

The United States steamer Resaca arrived at Sanfrancisco on the 3rd inst, from Panama, with yellow fever on board. She reports 68 cases on the voyage up, and 18 deaths. Most of those who died were burried at sea. The sickness is confined to the crew, 135 in number. Not one case occurred among the officers. Sixteen cases are reported on board now. Communication with the vessel and shore is not permitted.

The total strength of the British fleet recently reviewed off Spithead was, of vessels of war (exclusive of armed troopships, etc.) mounting 1,092 guns, and having an aggregate horse-power of 23,500 horses, and a burden of 102,000 tons. The fleet of iron plated ships was the finest ever assembled, numbering of all models 15, including Capt. Cole's turret-ship.

The Most Reliable Friend!

Holloway's Ointment.

Its Searching & Healing Properties are known and recognized throughout the World.

The number of years this invaluable Ointment has stood the test of public opinion, (and the longer known the better appreciated) is a testimony of itself more convincing than anything that could be written in praise of its truly wonderful healing properties. In the cure of bad legs, bad breasts, sores, wounds, and ulcers, its effect is marvellous. For ring-worm, scald-head, scrofula, and diseases of the skin generally, there is no remedy to be compared to it. When assiduously rubbed upon the skin (previously well bathed in warm water) this Ointment is quickly absorbed into the system, and cleanses, in its passage, every part to which it is applied.

Glandular Swellings, Mumps, Bronchitis, Quinsey, Sore Throats and Diptheria.

In any of the above diseases, immediate and permanent relief is obtained by effectually rubbing this detergent Ointment, twice a day, upon the neck, chest and back. Its acts upon the very mainsprings of life; for through the glands pass all new matter required for the body's reparation and all old particles detrimental to its preservation. The Ointment, used conjointly with Holloway's Pills, will act so searchingly and certainly as to effect cures in the most hopeless cases.

Rheumatism, Lumbago, Contracted and Stiff Joints.

Many thousands of martyrs from the above complaints have found life almost unsupportable; yet, if Holloway's Ointment be briskly and perseveringly rubbed upon the parts affected, ease may be safely guaranteed, especially if the pores of the skin be previously opened by fomentations with warm water. The gross humors require expulsion from the system; it is therefore necessary to have recourse to Holloway's admirable Pills, which, by purifying and strengthening the system, greatly assist the operation of the Ointment and facilitate and confirm the cure.

Bad Legs, Bad Breasts, and Ulcerations of all kinds.

There is no medicinal preparation in the world which may be so thoroughly relied upon, in the treatment of the above ailments, as Holloway's Ointment. Nothing can be so simple or safe as the manner in which it is applied, or its action on the body, both locally and constitutionally. The Ointment, rubbed around the part affected, enters the pores just as salt enters meat. It quickly penetrates to the source of the evil and drives it from the system.

Erysipelas and Scrofulous Sores.

In all irritations of the skin, sores, ulcers, burns or scrofulous enlargements of any kind, Holloway's Ointment presents a ready and easy means of cure. It manifests a peculiar power in restraining inflammation, removing stagnation, cooling the heated blood, and checking all acrimonious and unhealthy discharge.

Diseases attendant on Childhood.

Diseases incident to early life fall more under the management of the mother than the medical man. Holloway's Ointment should therefore be regarded by her as a "Household Treasure," as it never fails in bringing out the rash in measles and scarlatina; and for the removal of all skin diseases its effect is miraculous. In cases of whooping cough and croup, this invaluable Ointment should be rubbed twice a day upon the throat and chest, and the youngest invalid will derive therefrom the most soothing relief. Two or three of Holloway's famous Pills, reduced to a powder, will augment the curative powers of the Unguent.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:

Bad Legs	Corns (soft)	Rheumatism
Bad Breasts	Cancers	Scald Heads
Burns	Contracted and Stiff Joints	Sore Nipples
Bunions	Elephantiasis	Sore Throats
Bite of Moschetoes and Sand Flies	Fistulas	Skin Diseases
Coco-bay	Gout	Scurvy
Chiego-foot	Glandular Swellings	Sore Heads
Chilblains	Lumbago	Tumours
Chapped Hands	Piles	Ulcers
		Wounds
		Yaws

DR. LA'MERT
ON
SELF-PRESERVATION.
PRICE WITH ENGRAVINGS AND CASES, 1s. 6D, BY POST, 3s. CURRENCY.

SELF-PRESERVATION: A popular Essay on Nervous and Physical Debility, resulting from injurious habits contracted in youth, or excesses in maturity, which, by prematurely exhausting the functions of manhood, destroy the happiness of Married Life, or prevent the fulfilment of engagements that constitute the most cherished objects of existence, by DR. LA'MERT, 37 Bedford Square, London, Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians of Edinburgh; Member of the Royal College of Surgeons, England, &c.

The above work contains most useful and interesting information on the physiological changes which occur in the Reproductive System during the periods of youth, puberty, and manhood; and on the due attainment of that degree of functional vigour upon which the hopes of posterity depend. It also points out how all the attributes of manhood can be preserved to an advanced period of life, how they are lost, and how they can be recovered. It is free from the gross exaggerations, alarming descriptions and dangerous remedies so generally resorted to by persons, who, practising with false medical qualifications, inflict most serious injuries, and render judicious treatment frequently abortive.

The author is the only legally qualified practitioner whose name stands on the 'Medical Register,' (the sole test of medical qualification) who has been exclusively engaged for a series of years in the treatment of the various functional disorders of the nervous and reproductive system, which, owing to the great discoveries of modern science, are rendered subservient to a rational, simple and easy mode of treatment.

At home for consultation daily from ten till two, and from six till eight, either personally or by letter—37 Bedford Square, London, England.

Patients residing in the Colonies can be successfully treated by correspondence, and remedies can be forwarded in secrecy and safety to any address.

"SELF-PRESERVATION" may be had of the undermentioned Agents, price 1s 6d; free by post, 3s currency:—Halifax, N. S, Mr. Johnson, Chemist. Yarmouth, N. S., Messrs Young & Baker, Booksellers. Sydney, C. B, Mr. J. P. Ward, News Office. St. John, N. B., Messrs. H. Chubb & Co., Courier Office. Charlottetown, P. E. I., Mr. John Ings, Islander Office.
