

ANNUAL MEETING

The Annual Meeting of the Prince Edward Island Fur Breeders' Association will be held at Birch Court, Experimental Farm, Charlottetown, at 1:30 o'clock on TUESDAY, MAY 30th.

All mink and fox breeders who are members of this Association are urgently requested to attend this important meeting.

The annual reports and a programme covering future activities will be under discussion. Recommendations will also be made for the election of two Directors to the Board of the Canadian National Silver Fox Breeders' Association.

W. R. SHAW, Secretary.

OPENING BARN DRIVE IN MALPEQUE ROAD

Saturday May 6th 5 p.m. - 12.30 a.m.

SPECIALIZING

- Chicken en Straw, Fried Clams,
- Fish and Chips
- Bar-B-Que, Chicken Rolls,
- Hamburgers

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

(By Thornton W. Burgess)

PETER IS CORRECTED
It shouldn't be, but often takes Real courage to admit mistakes. —Old Mother Nature.

It is curious how often folks delight in thinking they know something that other folks don't know. Something they do. More often they don't. That really doesn't matter as long as they think they do. It is the same way about seeing things. Folks like to think they have seen something no one else has. Why? You tell. No one is any better off for knowing something that no one else knows, or having seen something that no one else has seen.

Peter Rabbit had made the acquaintance of Waterfoot, the water loving Shrew who is own cousin to Short-tail and Teeny Weeny, the two members of the Shrew family with whom Peter had long been acquainted. Waterfoot was living at the Smiling Pool where he was as much at home as his cousins were on dry land. There Peter had seen him do something he hadn't thought any one could do. Waterfoot had made a quick short run on the surface of the water. In fact Peter had seen him do it more than once. It was such a wonderful thing to Peter that he had to tell his friends about it if he could get them to listen. He boasted about it. Yes, sir, that is what he did, boasted about what he had seen to those he was sure hadn't seen any one walk on the water. The truth is very few even knew there is such a person as Waterfoot; the Water Shrew. Like all his relatives he is of a very retiring disposition. Even his neighbors who live in the Smiling Pool or along Laughing Brook and spend much time in or on the water seldom see him and know little about him.

Peter was up in the Old Orchard. There he found Scrapper the King-bird who only a few days before had arrived from way, way down in the Sunny South where the weather is very warm the whole year through. There is no winter down there. Scrapper doesn't like cold weather. And he wants to eat. Of course. Like everybody else he not only wants to eat, but must eat, and what he eats mostly he must catch. He lives largely on flying insects. You see he belongs to the Fly-catcher family. He eats some insects that do not fly and some fruits and seeds but like the other members of his family he likes best to catch his food in the air. Where the weather becomes cold as in the winter in the north there are no flying insects, no insects or worms or grubs excepting those hidden away and sleeping. So Scrapper goes down to the Land of Always Summer where always there are flying insects and he can always get a dinner, a good dinner, for the catching.

"You may be a great traveler, but I have seen something you've never seen," boasted Peter. Scrapper didn't look interested. He had known Peter a long time. "I wouldn't be a bit surprised," said Scrapper. "I don't pretend to have seen everything. Nobody sees everything. What have you seen that you think I've never seen?"

"I've seen some one run on water and hardly get his feet wet. I guess you've never seen anything like that," cried Peter. "Oh, that," replied Scrapper with no show of interest. "Who was it?"

"It was one of the Shrew cousins. His name is Waterfoot. He lives over at the Smiling Pool. I guess he and his family are the only folks who can run on water," replied Peter.

Scrapper darted out from his perch and caught a flying insect in mid-air. "Your mistake, Peter. This is what comes of never traveling. Down where I spent the winter I've seen folks running on water more times than I can remember. They don't think anything of making little short runs on the water. They run so fast I guess there isn't time for them to sink in. They are members of the Lizard family. You ought to travel Peter. You really ought to. Everybody ought to," said Scrapper. Peter looked a little foolish.

CURED OF RABBIT FEVER
CHICAGO, May 5 — (AP) — Chloromycetin, one of the newer antibiotic drugs, has cleared up six cases of tularemia (rabbit fever) researchers reported today. A group of doctors from the University of Maryland School of Medicine, Baltimore, reported on the work in an article in the Journal of the American Medical Association. Two other antibiotics, streptomycin and aureomycin, also are effective against the disease.

Contract Bridge

By Josephine Culbertson

THE "NATURAL" PLAY

It would be captious to say that today's declarer misplayed that hand, since he did nothing that thousands of very good bridge players would not do in his position. Scrapper, a top-ranking expert would protect himself against the extraordinary break which "ruined" the actual declarer—if he didn't, he would not deserve his expert rating!

South dealer.
North-South vulnerable

♠	A Q J 7 2	♠	K
♥	K 5 4	♥	J 8 8
♦	8 2	♦	K J 3
♣	9 8 6 4 3	♣	10 7 6 2
♠	A J 6	♠	K 5 4 3
♥	10 5	♥	Q 10 9 7
♦	A Q 3	♦	A 7 5 2

The bidding:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass
1 NT Pass 3 NT Pass

West, whose longest suit had been bid by the about-to-be dummy, opened the deuce of hearts. Declarer took the trick in his own hand and started right in to establish the spades. This was a logical action, but South's technique was not so logical—he led and passed the spade ten. East won and returned a heart. Another spade lead revealed the bad break, so South now tried for a diamond trick, leading low from dummy to his own hand. The position of the diamond jack, however, defeated this effort, and the outcome was a one-trick set.

Declarer's initial lead of the spade ten was the sort of "natural" play which is so difficult to resist, but it was wrong. South had three sure heart tricks and two top clubs; therefore his objective should have been to take four spades—not five or three, but four! That being so, there was no possible advantage in leading the spade ten, and there was the danger, however remote, that either East or West might turn up with the singleton king.

To guard against this danger, to the greatest possible extent, South should have led the spade five to the ace. Of course the king did not "figure" to drop, but what if? With two entries still in dummy, South could then lead to his own spade ten, and in that way establish the spade suit just as surely (and more safely) than by starting off with the ten-spot.

NOTICE

The Semi-Annual Meeting of the Milk Producers and Vendors Association will be held at Birch Court Experimental Farm Tuesday evening, May 9th at 8 P.M.

PERCY G. GAY, Sec'y.

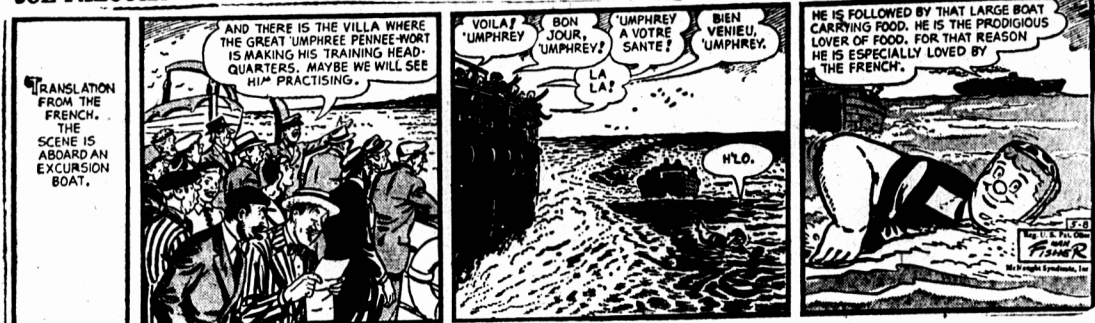

KING OF THE ROYAL MOUNTED

by Lane Grey

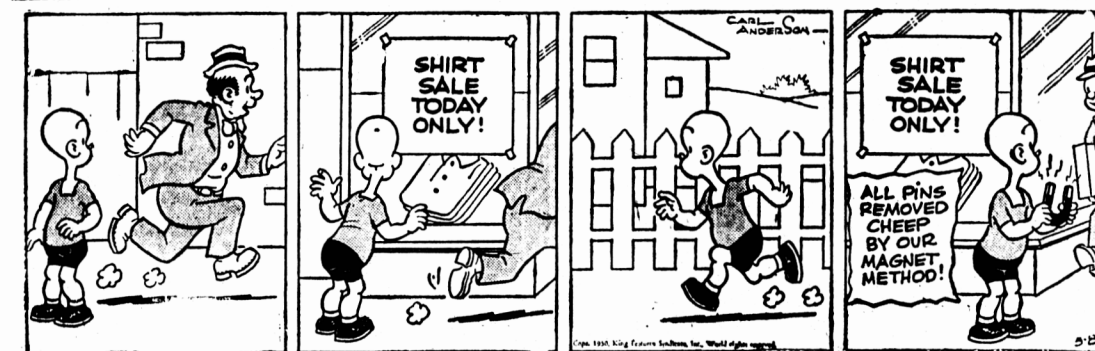

JOE PALOOKA

by Ham Fish

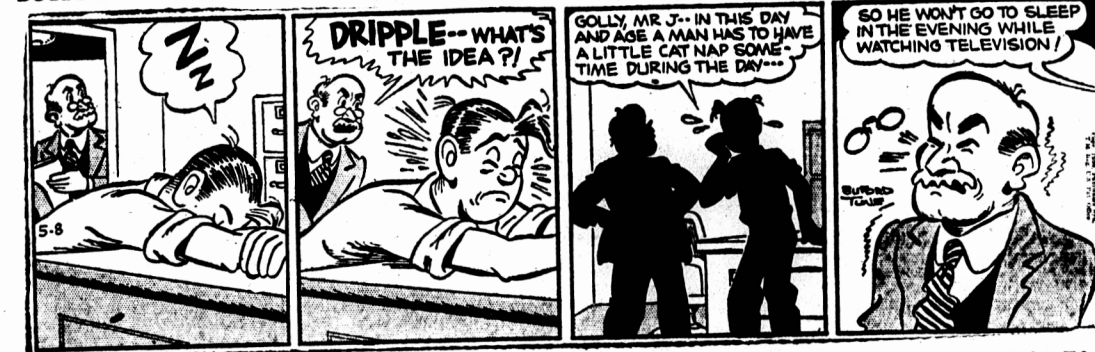

HENRY

by Carl Anderson

DOTTY DIPPLE

by Buford

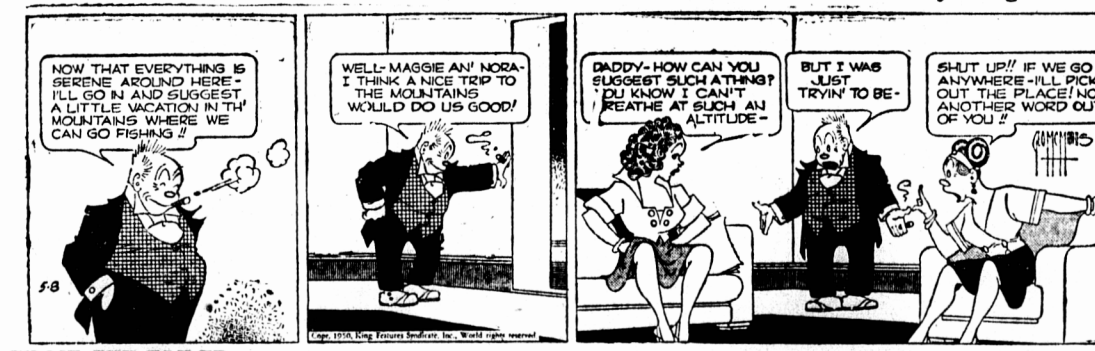

TIPPY AND "CAP" STUBS

by Edwin

BRINGING UP FATHER

by George McManus

TILLIE THE TOILER

by Westover

PENNY

by Harry Hainigsen

DAILY CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- Strike with the hand
- Distance
- Kind of tree
- Symbols of authority
- Brightly-colored fish
- Breeze
- Male descendants
- Perform
- Rank in taste
- Always
- Metallic rock
- Injure
- River (Fr.)
- Domineering
- Jog
- Back
- River (Eng.)
- Regain possession by payment
- Old Dutch (abbr.)
- Plant ovule
- Perish
- Marked with pits
- A dandy
- Metal
- Small plane of a diamond
- Finishes
- Measure (Heb.)

DOWN

- A cuttlefish
- Acquire knowledge
- Tree (India)
- Phenyl (abbr.)
- Prayer ending
- Lie
- One-spot card
- Melts and clarifies, as fat
- Wild pig
- Turbulent
- Carried on horseback
- Title of respect
- Challenged
- A duct (anat.)
- Bends
- Scholarly
- Former name of Nio
- Raised
- Man's name
- Call forth
- Kind of duck
- Encounter
- Saturday's Answer
- Lampreys
- Decimal unit
- Milpond
- Folio (abbr.)

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
L LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three Ls, X for the two Os, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

FO JQQ MJU SPAUM FO CPTDVY
PA ZYT. CEY MJUUYMC JAY CEYMY.
"K C HKDEC EJGY IYTT" —SEKCYA.

Saturday's Cryptogram: TIME WILL RUN BACK, AND FETCH THE AGE OF GOLD—MILTON.

Distributed by King Features Syndicate

LPL ABNER

by Al Capp

RIP KIRBY

by Alex Raymond

