THE BIG SWIM

The big Canadian and U.S. dailies are this morning (Sept 10th) blazoned with headlines reporting the feat of Marilyn Bell swimming the tortuous 32 miles of Lake Ontario, from Youngstown, N. Y., to Toronto, Ont. The attempt was billed as a special feature of the great Can. Nat. Exhibition at Toronto. It was a doubtful and risky venture by the promoters, but it was eminently successful. If all four competitors had failed the result would have been relegated to an obscure corner of our big papers.

The successful performance of Miss Bell adds lustre to the already famous big show. The new and successful features broke the monotony and fixed bright attention on Toronto and the Exhibition. The promoters are wise to the power and attractiveness of special features. Such great "press agent" publicity will have a tendency to bigger crowds than ever in the years to come.

The phenomenal performance of the youthful (16) Miss Bell adds a great boost to the popularizing of the healthful sport of swimming.

The Red Cross Society has given an immense life to the cause in this province by providing teachers and organizing classes. It may yet transpire that every inhabitant will be able to swim—which will be a great achievement. It is quite a coincidence that George Young, who swam the Catalina channel in California 25 years ago, and Miss Bell were 17 and 16 years old respectively—also that they were both from Toronto.

It seems rather strange that those faithful contenders would more stamina and "will to win" than many champion swimmers not yet out of their prime. If memory serves right, Captain Webb was the first human to swim the English Channel sixty or more years ago. The feat has been accomplished many times since—principally by big, fleshy Egyptians, Germans, Englishmen and other nationals. It was thought by experts that the bigger and more matured swimmers had an advantage, but the performance of George Young shattered the belief that a fat man (or woman) had a big advantage—fat flesh being lighter than water consequently easier to keep afloat. The little Bell girl's accomplishment knocks the old theory sky-high.

Our Prince Edward Island Tourist Bureau, under the able leadership of George Fraser has accomplished much in setting forth the attractions of this province as a resort for tourists. Its beautiful pastoral scenery, salubrious climate, cool zephyrs, beautiful bathing beaches etc., in nicely written, photo illustrated literature sent to enquirers in all parts of America. Mr. Fraser's former experience as a newspaper man and radio announcer helped materially in his writing and understanding of crowd psychology.

The race for tourist patronage between States, Provinces and cities is so keen that something phenomenal must be done by which to attract world wide attention to this province and draw new crowds of tourists to its shores yearly.

Many tourists visit different places each year—of course many return each year. The writer would not hazard a guess as to what percentage.

It has been this writer's opinion for a long time that something drastic and dramatic should be done to "swarm" tourists to P. E. Island, and that a competitive swimming match across Northumberland Strait would be what is termed a "natural." The caterers to the tourist trade could get together and subscribe three or four thousand dollars in an hour. It ought to be easy to run. There wouldn't be one tenth of the attention to details required of the B. E. Games Committee, or the Charlottetown Exhibition Managers—not even as much as one of those County Plying Matches. The swimmers would have their own private attendants in boats, etc.—All that would be required would be their entries—and there might be quite a number of starters and fewer finishers.

The event could be made a gala affair—pipers, dancing, sports athletic and water sports at Borden. The tourist caterers and other potential beneficiaries should get together on it. It is surely worth a try, and if deemed expedient it could easily be made an annual event. The prize money might be divided into five or six monies—with $50 to all who finish. Swimmers especially, swimming to P.E.I. ought to merit at least $50.

The P. E. Island Government, which factors worthwhile cases (eg. the polo campaign etc.) would perhaps donate the $50 for finishers outside the money—those suggestions are all tentative and hypothetical but if the Restaurant, Tourist Bureau, and Centennial Committee work together they can value an enterprise which will put P. E. Island in the spotlight.

The writer had interviews with several prominent Canadian and one American dailies last winter and was agreeably surprised by the interest taken in the project. Though it was only tentative it

IN MEMORIAM

WILLIAM OLIVER MORROW
The death of William Oliver Morrow at his home in St. Catherine's on July 29, removes from his earthly pilgrimage a citizen of fine worth. He was deeply respected by a wide circle of friends and neighbors. Although in indifferent health for some time his passing in his 75th year came as a distinct shock to the members of his home and community. Mr. Morrow was the only surviving son of the late John Henry and Katherine Shaw Morrow.

At an early age he located in Brockton, the district where he was employed for many years as a motorman on the electric road in that state. His thoughts however tended more toward farm life, and finally he returned to the scenes of his early life, and took up farming at Rocky Point, and subsequently to a farm close by the place of his birth. On this estate, he proved himself a careful and skillful husbandman. Mr. Morrow was a keen student of current events and his interesting conversational powers indicated a broad grasp of the problems of his time.

The late Mr. Morrow married Flora, the daughter of the late Archibald and Ellen MacPhail, and to this union was born three children, a baby that died shortly after birth, Helen (Mrs. John Moore) recently deceased, and William Elwyn, employed with the C.N.R., Halifax, with the brothers and sisters, with the exception of Kate (Mrs. Duncan MacNevin) predeceased him.

The funeral was largely attended and attested to the high esteem in which the departed was held over a wide scope of country. The services held in the Baptist Church, Long Creek were under the direction of Lie. Owen Crocker, assisted by Rev. Donald Nicholson and Rev. Dr. A. E. Weir, after which all that was mortal of a kind husband and father was laid to rest in the family plot in the adjacent cemetery.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. W. R. Shaw, Fred Stretch, Norman Stretch, Earl MacEachern, Heber McLean and Malcolm Lamont.

The following floral tributes were tendered:—

got a lot of publicity. Some of the young sons of Islanders abroad started training for it, and a number entries were received. It is reasonable to predict that the Canadian and American Press will give it far greater publicity when, and if it becomes an accomplished fact.

IN MEMORIAM

MARY JOSEPHINE GALLANT
Death has claimed another victim in the person of Mary Josephine Gallant who has passed peacefully to her rest on July 22, 1954, after an illness of more than five months, at the age of 78. She had resided all her life at Oyster Bed Bridge, so her passing has severed another link with the pioneer settlers of this community. Her long life, although a cripple for more than 30 years has been a useful one. She was a faithful and devoted member of Rustico Parish, and in her days of health and strength never spared herself in doing good to others.

She understood well that charity is one of the chief attributes of a good christian and her many acts of kindness has always been a visible proof of that understanding.

She was often visited during her illness by her beloved pastor, Rev. Clarence Pitre, who prepared her for death by administering the last sacrament.

A large number of neighbours and friends gathered at her home and followed the funeral cortege, which was under the direction of Mr. Bradley of the Charlottetown Funeral Home.

Rev. Clarence Pitre sang the Funeral Mass and also officiated at the grave.

She leaves to mourn the following brother and sisters—Moses, a retired teacher at the old home, Angus, Melanie of Oyster Bed Bridge, and Helen, teacher at St. Gilbert's School, Wellington.

The Pallbearers were: Messrs. Florent Doiron, Angus Doucette, Emile Gallant, Clarence Doucette, Clarence Gallant and Henry Martin.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Mary Josephine Gallant wish to thank the Reverend Fr. Clarence Pitre, and Dr. Murchison for their kind and faithful attendance to the late Mary Josephine Gallant; also all their kind neighbours and friends, who sent Mass Cards, Letters and Messages of Sympathy, and all who in any way helped and remembered them during the time of their affliction and sorrow.

—Never in the history of motion pictures has a picture been brought to the screen with the breathtaking spectacle, scope, gigantic cast, color and pageantry as that presented in M-G-M's much-heralded Technicolor production of "Quo Vadis," now showing at the Capitol Theatre, Summerside, with Robert Taylor, Deborah Kerr, Leo Genn and Peter Ustinov heading a cast of thousands.

Based on the celebrated novel by Henryk Sienkiewicz, filmed against the grandeur of historic Rome in a prodigious undertaking which required more than twelve years of preparation and actual filming, this thrilling drama of the birth of Christianity in a pagan world and the love of a Roman warrior for a beautiful Christian hostage in unfulfilled with glittering splendor and tremendous dramatic impact.

Here we have the corrupt and extravagant imperial court of the Emperor Nero brought to life in scenes of staggering immensity, with its spectacles of thousands of triumphant warriors, led by Marcus Vinicius, making a triumphant entry into Rome along the garlanded Appian Way; the scenes of the populace saluting the vestal virgins as they pay homage to the 40-foot-high statues of the pagan gods; the bacchanal in Nero's ornate palace as the Emperor holds a banquet in honor of the victorious Vinicius; the burning of Rome in spectacle scenes never before equalled on the screen as they depict the terrified populace screaming and trampling on each other in their frenzied attempt to flee the city; the racing chariots; the martyrdom of the Christians burned on crosses; and the final gripping climax, in which the Christian hostage, Lygia, is saved from being killed by a ferocious bull when her giant bodyguard, Ursus, kills the beast in a blood-curdling show given by Nero in the huge Circus Maximus.

FAT OR GET BOMBED
HAMILTON, Ont. (CP)—A threat by an unidentified man, that unless he was paid a dollar a bomb would be thrown through a store window, "in a couple of nights," was reported Monday night to Hamilton police. Mr. Paglia, store proprietor, told police a man entered his store and told him that for a dollar, he would "tell the boys to leave the premises alone." Otherwise, a bomb would be thrown through the window. The man then ran off.

FRENCH TUNISIANS CLASH
TUNIS, Tunisia (AP)—Seven Tunisian nationalist guerrillas and one pro-French soldier were reported killed Tuesday in a clash in the Gafsa region. First reports said a group of about 30 well-armed and uniformed rebels fought an engagement with French troops and local forces.
