

ARCUP conference at St.F.X.

This weekend just past, Nov. 6-8, was the second regional CUP conference of the year. St. Francis Xavier University was the host for this one, UPEI graciously hosted the one last month. The winter-like weather of the weekend couldn't keep us ARCUPies down, we partied hard -- some of us more than others -- and learned a little bit too. The X-Press had two delegates present, well, sometimes when I wasn't running 45 minutes late.

The hot topic of this regional was, of course, CUP 55 in December just outside Montreal. Topics covered this weekend included Women's role in the media, minorities on staff, the new C+ contract proposal and all the usual information filled stuff covered these things. There were only three papers missing at this conference, those being The Watch, The Picaro (again) and The Queue. The next regional is tentatively scheduled for February 19 - 21 at the Muse in Newfoundland. ■

Dedication

Dedicated in memory of those who paid the supreme sacrifice in World War II. May our memories be refreshed on their behalf from time to time; and while we are complaining of not getting home as soon as we think we should, let us think of those, our comrades, who shall never return:

They left their homes and loved ones
To answer their country's call,
And to fight for all that was dear to them
For Freedom most of all.

When the guns of battle sounded,
And our freedom was at stake,
The uniforms of His Majesty
They upon themselves did take.

To many a far-off battle field
To fight the foe those lads were sent,
And they fought with courage yet untold,
As to an unseen Victory they went.

Many times they were outnumbered
By those peace-destroying Huns,
But their courage never faltered
As they died behind their guns.

They paid the sacrifice supreme,
As their young lives they did give,
That all peace-loving peoples;
In a better world might live.

Though their bodies rest in foreign soils,
Beneath rows of crosses white,
We know their souls in peace shall rest,
In that land beyond our sight.

To those of us who fought beside them
And to whom the torch they threw,
Let us ever keep it burning
In memory of those Heroes True.

Now that the conflict is over,
And peace once more doth reign,
So to those who fought and died --
Their death was not in vain.
