A special to the Telegram from Berlin says it is generally believed that Dr. August Heinrich Petermann, the eminent geographer, who was reported to have died of apoplexy, on Tuesday last, committed suicide by hanging himself. It is maintained that there is a hereditary taint of insanity in this branch of the Petermann family, for the father and brother of the deceased committed suicide by hanging. It is also maintained on good authority that no little estrangement has existed between him and several relatives for many years.

A Frank Confession.

The "Boston Advertiser" of the 18th, contained an article on the result of the elections, part of which is specially interesting. We ask our readers to peruse the following words carefully, and they will see even more clearly than before, one part of the danger which their action at the polls has enabled them to escape:—

"Americans are somewhat interested in the result. So far as it is a mere question of interest and not of principle, we stand to Canada in something like the relation that England bears to us. No doubt the present Canadian tariff is, to a certain extent, in our favor. That is, it is in favor of all countries trading with Canada, and in favor of us especially as her nearest neighbor. We have largely increased our sales in the Provinces particularly in recent years, and as prices now stand we can gain largely upon Great Britain in the contest for that market. The Conservative papers term the present scale of Customs duties 'the pro-American tariff.' It would be for our advantage, in some respects, that it should be reduced still lower. Yet, it has worked injury to Canada. It has shut up many factories already established, and has prevented the establishment of others. Trade has languished. A part of the depression has been due to sympathy with our own markets, but even that has arisen partly out of the working of the tariff. As a new country, needing to build itself up without the injurious competition of near or distant neighbors, Canada will be compelled to revise her tariff, or to press, as she has often done before, for trade treaties, which will be still more favorable to her."
