THE SELLOUT OPENS TODAY AT THE CAPITOL

"The Sellout" is a story that could happen to YOU. It is exciting, fast paced REALISM. Although based on a fictional story by Matthew Rapp and screen play by Charles Palmer, its plot unfolds an authentic segment of American life partially suggested by the findings of the Kefauver Crime Investigating Committee and is an expose of certain law enforcement gangs operating in scores of localities all over America.

"The Sellout" has a big cast, headed by Walter Pidgeon, John Hodiak, Audrey Totter and Paula Raymond. Pidgeon, last seen in "The Unknown Man," plays a newspaper editor, falsely arrested by a crooked sheriff's gang and forced by blackmail to abandon an expose of their operations. Hodiak, who scored in a legal role in "The People Against O'Hara," again is seen on the right side of the law as a special prosecutor. Audrey Totter brings her blonde allure to the role of a girl who misses the boat to romance with Hodiak, while Paula Raymond has the role of Pidgeon's devoted daughter.
