

Tyrone Power Succumbs Following Heart Attack

MADRID, Spain (CP)—Tyrone Power, stricken Saturday by a heart attack at the height of a duelling scene on a movie set, died an hour later. He was 45. Power's death was a tragic duplicate of that of his actor father, Frederick Tyrone Power, who died on a Hollywood movie set in 1931.

Power was here for the filming of Solomon and Sheba with Italian actress Gina Lollobrigida. In the role of Solomon, Power showed up on the set for a duelling scene with George Sanders, 52-year-old movie veteran.

Finance Minister Explains Gov't. Bond Price Weakness

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming said Sunday the drop in Canadian government bond prices results from the weakness in the United States bond market.

He said the Canadian price decline would have been much steeper if the government hadn't launched its $6,400,000,000 bond conversion program in September.

"Naturally, we would hope that the bond market in the U.S. will be strengthened, but we are bound to feel the effects in Canada of the weakness in the U.S. bond market at any time."

He spoke briefly to reporters at nearby Uplands Airport on returning from a seven-week, 35,000-mile round-the-world trip during which he visited Colombo Plan countries in south and south-east Asia.

He said he discussed trade and aid issues with various governments in south and southeast Asia. He would outline details of these talks at a press conference Monday afternoon.

Bayer Captures Havana Tourney

HAVANA, Cuba (AP)—George Bayer, Canadian Open champion in 1957, defeated Sam Snead in a sudden death playoff for first place in the $45,000 Havana International golf tournament Sunday.

When Snead three-putted the first extra hole, they had tied after 72 holes with 286 scores.

It was an old story for Snead, who came to the 18th green needing only to sink a five-foot uphill putt to take the $8,500 top prize.

But Sammy's putter failed him and he finished with a 73 after Bayer had blown a late lead in taking a 74.

On the 374-yard extra hole, the power-hitting Bayer drove into a sand trap fronting the green.

Snead was some 40 yards shorter but in good position.

Snead hit what he said later was a perfect nine iron, but the ball stopped dead on the green 45 feet from the hole.

He putted too strong, the ball going eight feet past the cup, and he missed coming back for a one-over-par five.

At Belding of Toronto, only Canadian in the tournament, tied with four others for 11th place to collect $608. Belding's score was 80-76-72-72-300.

Bayer meanwhile made a beautiful explosion shot 10 feet from the pin and put the ball up cozily for a winning par.

Third money went to Doug Ford of Yonkers, N.Y., former PGA and Masters champion, who shot a final 76 for 291.

ARCTIC EXPLORER, Captain Joseph Bernard, Cordova, Alaska, shows a draft of his memoirs to his cousin, Hon. J.A. Bernard.

Former Lieutenant-Governor Meets His Explorer Cousin

One of the highlights of former Lieutenant Governor J. A. Bernard's current visit to Boston was a meeting with a famous cousin, Captain Joseph Bernard, noted Arctic explorer.

Captain Bernard, now 80 years old, has been travelling about the Arctic regions ever since the year he first went to Alaska with his uncle, Peter Bernard. During his heyday the Captain engaged in world-shaking controversy with both Siyassan and Amundsen, the most famous explorers of his era.

The Tishish-borne pioneer held a theory that the Eskimos migrated eastward from Siberia, and to prove his point twice sailed his 20-ton schooner "Teddy Bear" 2,000 miles east on the Northwest Passage.

Unfortunately on one of these voyages he went ashore on Taylor's Island, Victoria Land, to seek some natives reported by an earlier explorer of the frozen wastes. Suddenly the wind shifted and ice closed in on his little ship. Not until 25 months later was Captain Bernard and his small crew able to head back west.

At the time his ship became ice-locked, the eastern end of the Northwest Passage was only 120 miles distant.

Richmond was at Power's bedside when death came. Richmond then left to tell Power's third wife, the former Mrs. Debora Minardos, 26. Married to Power early this year, she is expecting a child in February.

His previous marriage to French actress Annabella (Suzanne) was the top box office star of Hollywood in 1938 and 1940.

When the war came, he enlisted as a private in the Marines in 1942. He became a pilot, logged 3,500 flight hours piloting a transport plane for the Marines in the Pacific and was discharged in 1945 as a lieutenant.

Power had married Annabella in 1939. In January, 1948 they were divorced. A year later he wed actress Linda Christian at a Rome wedding that had all the elements of a movie scene. He was all but mobbed by spectators outside the church. Many crowded inside, elbowing invited guests aside.

Both Power and Miss Christian were Roman Catholics and Vatican circles were critical of the fanfare over their wedding. However, they were received by Pope Pius XII afterwards.

This marriage lasted six years. Miss Christian, who bore Power two daughters, won a divorce and a million-dollar settlement in 1955.

Discontented with his film roles Power turned to the stage in 1952 returning to Hollywood for only an occasional movie.

He once admitted in an interview that making movies was more profitable but added: "You don't do everything for loot, do you?"

He played Mr. Roberts in London, toured the United States with John Brown's Body, and appeared on Broadway with The Dark is Light Enough opposite Katharine Cornell.

Before going to Europe this year, he toured the eastern States in George Bernard Shaw's Back to Methuselah.

INSTRUCTOR DOUCETTE IN ACTION

Native Islander Instructor At New Hampshire Resort

A native of Prince Edward Island is now one of the top skiing instructors in the United States.

Arthur Doucette, of Tishish, is the principal skiing instructor at Black Mountain and Whitney's Pasture Slopes in Jackson, N.H., which is the home of one of the oldest ski schools in the country.

Doucette is a product of Hannes Schneider's first class of American ski teachers taught by Benno Rybicka two years before Hannes himself came to America.

Twenty years ago, Doucette went to Austria with Benno and came back to form his own ski school at Jackson's only area of that time.

Today, he has an established staff and has instructed many thousands in the Arlberg system which he teaches.

IN NEW ENGLAND Jackson is a little New England town, which boasts of harboring the oldest and the newest ski lifts in New England.

The town has a long history of catering to the summer visitors.

Presidents have stayed there. Tycoons of industry made it their summer home and its inns have catered to the great names of all strata of economic prestige.
