Trade Mission Does Some Plain Speaking In U.K.

By HAROLD MORRISON
Canadian Press Staff Writer
Birmingham, Eng. (CP)—The string trio played softly. The wine flowed freely. There was a feeling of close warm friendship among the guests.

The suddenly the atmosphere changed as Canadians did some plain speaking about British "merchandise."

The Canadian suggested the reason why Britain does not do better in the Canadian market is because of the "policy indifference" of British industry.

Another suggested it is because of poor British salesmanship.

The criticism came at a dinner for the 41th Anniversary of the Canadian Club of Teachers in the cautions of the Joseph Howe Company. It is a play of some 45,000 persons producing most of the electrical and battery equipment for the British automobile industry.

Canadian Trade Minister Gordon Churchill said he admired British engineering to such an extent he will try to promote increasing the training of young Canadian engineers in Britain.

British industrialists to this Birmingham area — one of the most heavily industrialized areas in the world — asked the Canadians what the future holds for durable consumer goods in Canada and what Canadians intended to do about low priced competition from Italy.

Another Birmingham manufacturer said Italian exporters. Apparently subsidized by the government were able to ship goods into Canada at a price 50-percent below that quoted by British goods.

Churchill said this is a tough question. He reminded the guests that Canada had anti-dumping laws. If it could be proven that the laws were transgressed Canada would be prepared to take action.

EDUCATIONAL HORIZONS

Canadian College Of Teachers Is Much Needed

Two years ago the Annual Convention of the Canadian Teachers' Federation appointed a committee to study the feasibility and desirability of establishing a Canadian College of Teachers.

The establishment of such a college grew out of a desire on the part of the teachers of the world to obtain a satisfactory record in the "teaching profession" during recent years the status of the teacher has fallen far below the level of satisfaction in the basic professional characteristics of those who teach. Qualifications have been stretched to such a degree that anyone who desires can teach.

Those of us with experience will know that the skills of good teachers are not easily taught and in spite of the criticisms levelled at teachers in general we do know those of us who teach that a large percentage of our teachers are good teachers doing a commendable job in the classroom and taking a place in society at least satisfactory to themselves.

Therefore with the wish to help teaching on the plane that we who are in the profession do not have to have it, and in so doing, have teaching make a more favorable impact on the thinking of the public, the setting up of a Canadian College of Teachers is the outcome of the work by the aforementioned committee.

The objects of the College are as follows:

- (a) to stimulate professional growth of teachers
- (b) to improve standards of professional service to teachers
- (c) to help to hold before the teaching profession and the public the concept of a good teacher.

The headquarters and the office for the College shall be located in Ottawa, and the affairs of the College shall be administered by a Council of nine persons.

There shall be two classes of membership, namely: Member and Fellow.

Membership in the College will be restricted to members of the teaching profession who have high academic and professional standing; a record of outstanding service and who have made a distinctive contribution to educational professional and community growth.

To be a Fellow, one must have been a Member of the College in good standing for at least two years; have a post-graduate degree or acceptable alternative; one must have made some outstanding contribution to education in Canada and have satisfied the requirements of the Council or its representatives in a personal interview.

The type of activity carried on by the College would stimulate professional growth and thus help shape and clarify opinions in regard to the teaching profession. Today there is widespread interest in education, and the teaching profession must be able to give opinions on such problems as the purposes of education, the standards and program of teacher education, the role of the teacher in community life, the establishing of a Canadian College of Teachers is the medium whereby we can understand more fully the nature of our work and the measure of our contribution to the welfare of Canadian society.

This department is co-ordinated by the Prince Edward Island Teachers' Federation. Contributions are welcomed and should be sent to the General Secretary, Estelle Bowers, 88 Prince St., Charlottetown.

RELIGION AND LIFE

BY VERY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.

First Moderator of the United Church of Canada

We were challenged by a remark of Controller Jean Newman's about the church as a creative factor in a city's affairs. In giving the Kirk Club of Bloom Street United Church an address marked by constructive and comprehensive thought the closed by referring to the Christian Church's part in originating many of the movements now being carried forward for the welfare of our people.

"Incidentally we cannot but note the assets the city has in colorful personalities among her leaders who combine insight into the city's conditions and deeper needs with clear understanding of the issues. The Christian Church has at its disposal a more creative factor in the Canadian history. She was the first to claim education for our people and the first to teach. Our great universities were originally church institutions.

It is true that in early Ontario there was a conflict between some churchmen who tried to retain special privileges in education for the few and others who demanded and secured equal opportunities for all, but all through the spread of sound learning has been the church's policy.

THE TRUTH
Our fathers, as they cut their farms out of the forest or subdued the rolling prairie, established the church and school in every new community.

The fact that this policy required the sacrifice of many of what we call "the necessities of life" made no difference in their determination to provide for their children instruction in the truth and the life that this higher knowledge brings.

The church has led the battle against evil in all its forms. Those who sought personal gain at the expense of the moral health of the people have always been opposed by men and women who would do more for God and humanity than those would do for selfish gain. In the last fifty years particularly social reform and advancement has claimed the church's attention.

Jesus' first word about His Kingdom which we have any record is John 3:3: "Unless a man be born anew he cannot see the Kingdom of God. That is to say, the Kingdom of God is composed of changed men. And changed men call for changed religion."

salvation. The maintenance of this conscious union with God, the effort to bring lost men into it, and the nourishment of the newborn whom she wins must ever be the church's concern. Here are the sources of her power.

SAVE THE LOST

Then through the church's practical ministries in the world as well as through her message Christ reaches out to save the lost and to establish His Kingdom of "righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit."

Nothing that concerns humanity is alien to the Divine Spirit. The missionary in the slums, the worker for the underprivileged in a social settlement, the enlightened and ardent politician, the statesman directing his country's armed forces for the protection of all that we hold dear, the prophet of goodwill among the nations, as well as the pastor and evangelist in churches across Canada, are all agencies of the same divine Spirit who works through each as He wills.

Union with Christ on the one hand, and on the other contact and connection with the world for whom He died are the church's privilege and opportunity, and her mediation between the two is her glory.
