PRIME MINISTER GIVEN SCOTTISH WELCOME

Premier Walter R. Shaw and Mrs. Shaw welcome Prime Minister Pearson and Mrs. Parson at the Shaw homestead, Strathnairn, St. Catherines, following Monday's ceremony at the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building.

The Pearsons visit at Strathnairn was free from formality and they especially enjoyed the Scottish Airs played by the Lovat Scots Pipe Band, and commented on their smart appearance.

ELLEN'S DIARY

August Breezes Carry Drowsy Summer Sounds

One of the delights of the summer for the folks at Alderlea, is to entertain the strangers who come by our doors. It may be these come from some Island spot, from a State in the U.S. or from one or another of the other Provinces, near or far. They come mostly to look in on the farming, which, after all, is only similar to that practised on a hundred other farms Island-over, with the exception, it may be, that in more recent years, beef-raising here has been increasingly stressed...

"By rights we should be going home because we are delaying the milking here" a visitor remarked the other evening.

"But we have no milking to do" one of the family stated.

"None!"

"Only" we hastened to explain "the one cow that supplies the houses with milk."

"And" James grinned, "we only milk her in the mornings!"

Yet we miss the busy dairying of once. Miss seeing the cows come down the farmlane to the yard at the milking times; miss the foaming pails scented with "the clover sweet" of the summery days. And the hum of the cream-separator, the feeding of calves in a row at the paddock fence, and that enjoyable trek to the spring below the mill, with the cream.

To look in on the farming here in this valley, folks come. Or it may be, we sometimes think from their expressions, just to enjoy the peace and quiet of this rather isolated farm.

This morning brought visitors from the Mainland, and also one from "the wide open spaces" that is the Province of Alberta, the latter to bring this family nice glimpses of the extensive farming practiced, and the vast herds of cattle, that pasture on the ranchlands, there.

"You are quite a distance from home" James commented.

"Oh, it's not so far these times" the visiting one smiled. "Home is now only a few flying-hours away."

These were stockmen, interested in viewing the little herd of registered animals, it pleases our farmers to cultivate, the same that, home from the Fair, sleeps tonight against a slope of pasture in the starlight...

Today's sky was cloudless. The August wind carried the drowsy tunes of the season over the fields, as it went on, to make the new-mown hay for our farmers. Gossamer floated, feathery as the thistle down that drifted about. Baby swallows, fledglings of things, tried out new wings, up along the farm-lane. And in a sign of things to come, a company of blackbirds winged low over the fields.

There was a rap and a tap this evening from a piggery, where James busied himself setting a rail about a farrowing pen.

"Oh they won't come this week —not likely, but it's just as well to be prepared. Lose a few for the want of it, and then, where are you? Any profit is gone" we overheard him say to Mack.

"Not many more days to this month" he observes now from the old armchair putting down his reading... "Did you see the new moon, Ellen"? he questions on another thought. "It came in fine, at any rate. In a good sign for the harvesting," he smiles.

Until tomorrow — Diary — Good-night.....

MR. AND MRS. DOUGLAS M. HOWATT

Tulle And Yellow Roses Decorate Bride's Table

Tryon United Church was the setting for a beautiful double-ring ceremony in June, when Winnifred Esther Thomson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Archie Thomson, North Tryon, was united in marriage with Douglas McEwen Howatt, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Howatt, Sr., 183 Belvedere Ave., Sherwood. Dr. Waldron A. McQuarrie officiated. Miss Arlene Carr, organist of the church, accompanied the Tryon Community Choir for the singing of "O Father All Creating" as the bride entered the church, and for the processional played "Praise My Soul". Miss Constance Kirpatrick, Halifax, accompanied Miss Carr when she sang "The Wedding Prayer", during the signing of the register. The altar was decorated with baskets of apple blossoms, white lilacs and yellow English buttercups. The guest pews were indicated by pink and blue bows with sprigs of Paris branches.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a model gown of pure silk white organza, styled with a fitted bodice and three quarter sleeves. The bateau neckline was outlined with hand applique of re-embroidered Alencon Lace. The appliques appeared again on the full skirt which was worn over a hooped crinoline. Small bows accented the skirt near the hemline, which was floor length in front and had a cathedral train at the back. Her tiered, silk illusion veil was held in place by a coronet of silk organza arrangement of roses and forget-me-nots and she carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses. Her only jewellry was a diamond drop, the gift of the groom.

Miss Diane Sinclair, the maid of honor, wore a misty blue gown, and Miss Diane Smith, bridesmaid, wore a shade of gold. Their dresses were of rayon sculptured brocade, fashioned with bell shaped skirts, bolero jackets with cap sleeves and rounded neckline. Their tiered circlet headdresses were of matching material with short veils. They wore matching shoes and short white gloves and carried nosegays of white feathered carnations centered with yellow mums and blue tinted mums to match their dresses.

The bride and her attendants were members of the 1963 graduating class of the Victoria General School of Nursing, Halifax.

Flying officer Bramwell Thorne, RCAF Station, Summerside, was best man. The ushers were Dr. Burton Howatt and Louis Howatt, Jr., of Charlottetown, brothers of the groom.

Mrs. Thomson chose for her daughter's wedding a Mediterranean blue silk shantung sheath fashioned with French lace bodice. She wore a blue picture hat of ruffled mohair and matching shoes. Her corsage was of white and pink feathered carnations.

The reception was held at the Tryon United Baptist Church hall where the bride's table was centered with the traditional wedding cake encircled at the base with bridal tulle and yellow rose buds, flanked by lighted yellow tapers in crystal candelabra. Bowls of yellow shasta daisies completed the setting.

The toast to the bride was proposed by Arthur Dawson, and responded to by the groom. The groomsman proposed a toast to the bridesmaids and read telegrams from Putman, Conn., and Brooklyn, Nova Scotia. Mrs. Bramwell Thorne, was in charge of the guest book.

The bride and groom left on a honeymoon trip to Quebec city, Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto. For going away the bride donned a petal pink, wool boucle shift dress with matching topper, white lace hat, white accessories and a corsage of white feathered carnations centered with miniature crimson rose buds.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Howatt was entertained at an afternoon tea by members of the nursing staff of the Victoria General Hospital of which she was a member, and was presented with a gift of crystal. Showers included one by her fellow class mates, Halifax and one by neighbours and friends of the surrounding communities in the Tryon United Church Vestry. The couple was presented with an occasional chair and kitchen utility set by neighbours and friends of the groom in Sherwood.

Out of the province guests were Misses Diane Sinclair Diane Smith, Constance Kirpatrick, Elvera Magill, Diane Creaser and Fred Walker, Halifax; Ian Munroe, Pictou; Mrs. Evelyne McKinnon, New York and Bill Peckford, Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Howatt are residing in Bath, N.B., where he is employed with McCain's Food Products, Florenceville as pilot.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomson entertained the Community choir at their home previous to the wedding, and Mr. and Mrs. Howatt, parents of the groom, entertained at the home of the bride following the rehearsal for the bridal party.
