CONTRACT BRIDGE

By B. JAY BECKER

South dealer. Neither side vulnerable. NORTH: ♠ J106, ♥ 93, ♦ 773, ♣ A71094. WEST: ♠ K74, ♥ 84, ♦ 109853, ♣ 862. EAST: ♠ Q852, ♥ 1063, ♦ Q84, ♣ Q52. SOUTH: ♠ A93, ♥ AKQJ87, ♦ AK, ♣ K7. The bidding: South West North East 2♥ Pass 3♠ Pass 3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass.

Opening lead — ten of diamonds. This hand occurred in a team of four match. At both tables the contract was six hearts, but at one table the slam was made while at the other it was defeated.

West led the ten of diamonds at each table. The first declarer planned all his hopes on the success of a club finesse. He won the diamond, drew three rounds of trumps, and then played the king and another club, finessing the nine.

Had the finesse succeeded, South would have made the hand. But East took the club

Automation Again Top Issue In N.Y. Newspaper Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Automation, the unresolved basic issue of the 114-day New York City newspaper strike of 1962-63, again is the key issue in the final month of new negotiations. Publishers and printers have met about 60 times since October in an effort to solve the problem before newspaper craft union contracts expire March 30.

But there the accord ended. One complication is 5,500 union members who don't even work for the seven publishers. The New York Times, The Daily News, The New York Herald Tribune, The New York Journal-American, The New York World Telegram and Sun, The Long Island Press and The Long Island Star-Journal.

Another strike could cause the death of one or more of the city's financially shaky dailies, The Journal said.

"The union's contract proposals come at a time when the publishers are struggling to maintain profitability. The Times and The News are making profits, but it's understood that the other New York City dailies are suffering from extensive losses."

"We're not trying to hang onto a fixed number of jobs," Powers said.

"We accept the barrier to job opportunity that attrition means for us. We accept the reduction in newspaper jobs. But we want compensation for this."

"The union asked publishers to pay five per cent of the gross wages paid to newspaper printers until the union can restore balance in the flow of jobs. This sum was estimated at $1,500,000 a year and would be used to retrain printers, spur early retirements, and offset the losses to pension funds supported by per-capita payments."

"Attrition will cut down income into these funds right at the time we'll need them most to pay retirement benefits," Powers said.

Gaherin explored this matter in behalf of the publishers, but said he made no offer concerning it, although he did not rule out the possibility of such a payment.

Powers said he also wanted the agreement to set the pattern for future developments in automation, explaining:

"Right now we're talking mainly about computers, but that's only the beginning. Next we might see ultra-high speed photo-typesetters and machines to assemble columns of type. Eventually papers may be able to program and produce an entire page of type automatically."

His reference to computers concerned a development freeing printers from the necessity to "justify" type—that is, make lines of type come out flush with the column edge.

COMPUTER DOES WORK With the development, an operator can punch copy into a tape without regard to hyphenation and space of words and letters. This tape is fed into a computer which produces a justified tape, which when fed into automatic printing machines produces the lines of type.

One of the key issues is so-called "outside tape," such as used by the wire services for high-speed transmission of stock market lists, sports boxscores and other matter.

Mariner IV Data Failing

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Mars-bound Mariner IV spacecraft is still headed toward its July 14 picture-taking date with the red planet, but it isn't communicating full data any more.

Scientists disclosed that failures have developed in two instruments aboard the speeding craft. But engineers, compensating for a resistor failure, have been able to interpret what one of the instruments is sending back.

The trouble is not expected to interfere with the television camera designed to relay up to 31 pictures when the spacecraft flies within 5,600 miles of Mars in July.
