

VIOLENT HEADACHES

Accompanied by Indigestion and Constipation cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills

From Bath, Ont., comes the particulars of a remarkable cure effected by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Mr. Jos. Gardiner was for forty years the victim of indigestion, constipation, and violent headaches. Nothing seemed to have the desired effect until he began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they effected a complete cure. Mr. Gardiner writes:

"I have been troubled for over forty years with indigestion and constipation, would go for two weeks at a time. At intervals I would be taken with violent headaches. I spent dollars and dollars in vain, and was finally advised to use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and must say that they are the only remedy that gave me permanent relief. I would not be without them for anything."

"WHY SMITH LEFT HOME"

The high reputation won by the W. S. Harkins' Co., attracted a very large audience to the Royal Opera House last night, and few could have left at the close of the performance without inward resolutions to go again. Mr. Harkins is fortunate in his selection of a company, every member of which is an actor, and the company are fortunate in the choice of plays already stamped successes. The celebrated "Why Smith Left Home" was the bill last night. It is a sparkling comedy, brimful of humor and abounding in dramatic and mirth provoking situations. The part of Smith was taken by Robert McWade, jr., and he sustained it admirably. His impersonation of the character was a splendid piece of work. The role of Mrs. Smith requires manifold personal charms as well as clever acting, in neither of which respects was Miss Mabel Eaton lacking. Miss Harriet Aubrey took the part of Miss Smith very creditably. Her scene with Major Duncombe was touching in the extreme. Next to Smith, the text gave Count Von Guggenheim the greatest opportunity for fun making. Mr. Philip Colvert's make up itself was good for at least one hearty laugh and his acting was good for constant peals. Miss Oliver Porter as the imperious Mrs. Billedeaux displayed artistic qualities. General Billedeaux was taken by E. Soldene Powell, who proved very diverting as that noble old Guard-man. Henry Weaver, jr., as Major Duncombe, gave evidence of capacity to make much of the opportunities of a more important part. Miss Adeline Mann, as Rose Walton, had little more to do than be charming, which she did very effectively it may be incidentally mentioned, though her part furnished her with few opportunities of displaying her artistic skill. The play of her features during the third act was particularly interesting. William Farnum did some clever work as Robert Walton. Miss Lottie Williams' specialties were warmly applauded. As Julia she certainly was "touchingly clever." Martin J. Cody, as James, did all his part would allow him. Miss Lillian Stillman, as Lavinia Dalley the aristocratic and tyrannous cook, elicited the approbation of the audience. There were many possibilities in such a character and Miss Stillman took every advantage of them. It was really refreshing for a critic—to listen to the company. The play called for ability, the company supplied it, and their work, in common honesty, could receive only the most cordial and generous praise. "Brown's in Town" will be given to-night. "The Butterflies" in which Mr. Harkins will take the leading role, will be played Friday night by special arrangement with Mr. John Drew. "Why Smith Left Home," will be the bill for Friday's matinee. That appreciation for this admirable company will be displayed in full house on every occasion goes without saying.—Yarmouth Times, May 18.

The words of praise bestowed upon Hood's Sarsaparilla by those who have taken it prove the merit of the medicine.

A Great Book Free.

When Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., published the first edition of his great work, The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, he announced that 680,000 copies had been sold at the regular price, $1.50 per copy, the profit on which would repay him for the great amount of labour and money expended in producing it, he would distribute the next half million free. As this number of copies has already been sold, he is now giving away, absolutely free, 500,000 copies of this most complete, interesting and valuable common sense medical work ever published—the recipient only being required to mail to him, at above address, 31 one-cent stamps to cover cost of mailing only, and the book will be sent post-paid. It is a veritable medical library complete in one volume. Contains 1008 pages, profusely illustrated. The free edition is precisely the same as that sold at $1.50 except only that the books are in strong Manila paper covers instead of cloth. Send now before all are given away.

A MAN'S SOUL LIES IN HIS STOMACH.

The Reason Why We Have so Many Cynics.

If Every Person Were to Cure His Dyspepsia by the Use of Dodd's Dyspepsia Tablets the World Would be so Much the Happier.

Why do some men look at everything in a cheerful light? No matter what happens they always see the bright side of it. Such men are always happy and they cheer up everybody near them.

Look at Jones there, laughing and slapping his pale-faced friend on the back.

"How are you, old man?" he almost shouts. "Glad to see you. Great weather we're having; wet, but great weather for the farmers. Makes a man feel brand new."

Literary Note.

Harper's Magazine for June contains "The Rescue of the Whalers," a sled journey of sixteen hundred miles in the Arctic regions by Lieutenant Ellsworth P. Bertholf, U.S.C.S.; "The Vagabond," a story by Richard Harding Davis, illustrated by W. T. Smedley; "The Century's Progress in Scientific Medicine," by Henry Smith Williams, M.D.; "The Spanish American War," Part V., the fall of Santiago and the Puerto Rican campaign by Henry Cabot Lodge, illustrated by R. F. Zebmann, T. de Thulstrup, Guy Rose, Harry Fenn, H. O. Christy, and T. D. Walker; "The Princess Xenia," a romance, Part III., by H. B. Marriott Watson, illustrated by T. de Thulstrup; "The Story of the Dry Leaves," by Frederic Long, illustrated by the author; "Korean Inventions," by Homer Beza Abbott, F.R.C.S., illustrated by Guy Rose; "Their Silver Wedding Journey," a novel, Part VI., by W. D. Howells, illustrated by W. T. Smedley; "Quivira and the Wichita," by James Mooney; "The Mothers of Honor," a story by Mary Harwell Catherwood, illustrated by W. R. Leigh; "Needful Preparations for Safe Navigation," by John Hyslop; "Mr. Perkins' Wife," a story by Hulbert Fuller.

A series of articles which ought to be of great value is announced for early publication in Harper's Bazar. They will give a comprehensive discussion of "Home Dressmaking." It is needless to mention that the contributor of the series, Julia K. McDougall, teacher of dressmaking at Pratt Institute, is fully competent to present the subject so that it will be easily understood by all women who wish to make their own gowns.

TWO INTERESTING INSECTS.

Something About the Ladybug and the Dragon Fly.

So commonplace an insect as the little ladybird or, as it is often called, the ladybug is something to excite your interest. It is constantly seen upon flowers and is known by naturalists as coccinella. It is a tiny creature with a hard body like a shell, which is of a deep orange color, with black or red spots or a sprinkling of brown. By looking under a rose leaf you will often see a cluster of little amber colored balls. They are ladybirds' eggs and in time will be developed into a flat six footed worm of grayish color marked with yellow. As soon as these worms are hatched out they begin to look about for the aphides, which are tiny green creatures to be found on any neglected rosebush. The worms eat them with great avidity, after which they attach themselves to some solitary leaf, where they remain without food until they are changed into ladybirds.

Besides furnishing food for the development of the ladybird, the aphides serve another purpose in the economy of nature. They are called the ants' cows. When the ants stroke them with their feelers, they exude a pale, sweet, green substance not unlike honey, which the ants devour. The aphides are lazy and never roam from the leaves upon which they have commenced their life.

Four times in 12 days they change their coverings before they reach maturity, and then they begin with their family cares. Some 20 are produced by their parents daily, and were it not that the ladybird worms devour them in such quantities they would soon overrun and kill the plants.

Another interesting insect is the dragon fly, with its wings of transparent iridescent gauze. It, too, must pass through a process of transformation before its perfection is reached. At first it is only a greenish gray grub, which lives in the mud on the margin of the stream. The grub crawls from the mud and attaches itself to a reed with its claws. In a little time its eyes become very brilliant, the back opens, a head appears, then the body and finally the wings, which are closely folded, and very soon the dragon fly will be able to fly. Dragon flies live upon other insects, and when they are numerous the mosquitoes are said to disappear. Some of them are very beautiful. The wings of some are golden green, of others slate blue and still others have black and blue spots upon the extremities.

AT THE TURN OF THE ROAD

A moment's pause for longing and for dreaming
A moment's looking backward on the way.
To kiss my hand to long past turrets gleaming
To stand and think of life of yesterday.

A little time to dream of sunlit hours
Spent where white towers rise against the sky.
To tread again that path of too sweet flowers,
To hear again her greeting and goodby!

What is there, say you, in that faroff city.
Of my past living and past loving left.
Wrapped in its golden haze, to stir my pity
And call the bitter sigh of the bereft?

The memory of a touch warm, trusting, clinging.
The memory of that touch grown cold as ice?
A voice hushed that was pure as wild bird's singing?
A love whose bright flame burned in sacrifice?

Only a grave! Life of today will teach me
Its stream fleets fast for sorrow and regret.
Beyond this turn its sweeping wave will reach me.
I must go with it, as we all go! Yet—

A moment's pause for longing and for dreaming.
A moment's looking backward on the way;
To kiss my hand to long past turrets gleaming.
To stand and think of life of yesterday!
—L. Marion Jenks in Donahoe's.

"The Nearest Thing to an Idea is a Question"

How much do you pay, in a year, for your clothes? Divide it by three, and you'll find that one-third pays for all your hats and shoes.

You buy at least two suits and an overcoat yearly. You probably purchase three hats and three pairs of shoes in the same time.

Your tailor receives about ten times as much as your hatter, and seven times as much as your shoemaker. Yet both your hat and shoes are ready-made, and better made than they could be at almost twice the price, if produced singly—to order. Why should not your suit or overcoat be ready-made, and well made at half to two-thirds the price as your hat or shoe? Less than ten years ago there was not a hat factory in Canada, and the shoe factories were producing only brogans and clumsy sewed or pegged shoes.

But they have long since improved the "custom" shoemaker and hatter out of existence. Clothing alone stood still at the "brogan" standard. It was different in the United States, where ready-made clothing kept pace with the ready made hat and shoe. It is different here since the advent of Fit-Reform and the quicker you find out that difference the sooner will you get your shoes and hats every year for nothing. You can do this by saving one-third the price of the tailored suit, in buying the self-same garments "ready-made" here. And you will find just as good people here buying our made clothes as you ever saw in the highest priced tailor shop.

Your money back if dissatisfied.
