Former City Resident To N.S. Bar

HALIFAX (CP)—Three Cape Breton natives, one from Newfoundland and a former resident of Charlottetown were among seven lawyers admitted to the Nova Scotia bar in a ceremony before Supreme Court Justice T. H. Coffin Tuesday.

They were Marvin Charles Block, a native of Charlottetown; Peter Garfield Green, born in St. John's, Louis E. Cote, formerly of Glace Bay, N.S.; Simon James Macdonald of Sydney and John David Thompson, a native of North Sydney, N.S.

Also presented by the Nova Scotia Barristers' Society president, J. H. Dickey, were Noelle Anna Brennan of Dartmouth, and Ronald C. Giffin, a native of Windsor, N.S.

compared with all of the cows of the same age in Canada. This breed best-uddered class had no BCA requirement.

The best showing of Island Guernsey men came in the senior yearling heifer class where Mr. Green and Roy Younker, Kingston stood first and second in the class.

The outstanding bull, Hob Knob Maverick Nehru, sired the two-year-old heifer that topped that class for Mr. Green, and it was Mr. Green and Ernie Eagles, Moncton, N.B., who sired this bull for the unit that supplies the Island with semen.

The bull's dam's first three records, as a two, three and four-year-old averaged 1,115 pounds butterfat. As a two-year-old she produced more than 17,000 pounds milk and more than 21,000 as a three-year-old heifer. This is a terrific production record behind this bull. The Greens were in the money every time they showed.

Mr. Younker had a second, a fourth and a number of other good placings.

Eric Hurry, West Royalty was not at the fair but his cattle won five prizes, the best a third place.

In addition to sweeping the bull classes, George MacMillan took four ribbons among the females.

Gordon Doherty, Clyde River sent two cattle to the show and took a second place with his mature Jersey cow, Gleann, Sadie Jane.

Elmer Myers, Hazelbrook had a second with his mature cow, a second with his four-year-old heifer, and the get-of-sire, several thirds and a few other good ribbons.

Peter Boswall, Frenchfort had a fourth with his yearling heifer.

Gilbert Robinson, Harvey Station took the breeders and exhibitors banners in the Jersey class. Judge was Don McCaig, Brampton, Ontario.

JUDGE DEIGHTED

Judge Allister MacArthur, Howick, Quebec was delighted with the Ayrshire show. It's so much better than when I was here two years ago. This Atlantic Winter Fair is really going places, he observed.

Lloyd Chisholm, Guelph, Ontario judged the Guernsey cattle. He's a past national president.

Ronald Barrett and Sons, Bridgetown, N.S. had the grand champion Guernsey female and the reserve.

The grand champion Guernsey bull was shown by F.W. Saunders, Aylesford, N.S., the reserve grand by Raymond Longley, Paradise, N.S.

satisfaction. They had turned in an impressive performance.

S.C. Oland's herd of Lower Sackville took the premier exhibitor's award in the Ayrshire ring.

The Woods had the second bull calf; they had the grand champion in their yearling bull, East River Dairy King; they stood fourth in the yearling heifer and two-year-old heifer classes; they were second in the aged cow class and in the class for four best animals in the herd; they were sixth among the four-year-olds.

A. McRae and Son, Brackley Point Road had the top yearling heifer of the show, the third aged cow, the fourth two-year-old and the fourth in the class for four cows. They stood sixth in the 4-year-old class.

John Haslam, Springfield had the second prize in the four-year-old class. He had three or four lesser but worthwhile placings. John placed eighth in one class, for example, and he received $30 for that feat. Before the Harry Hays formula of prize money awards came into being two years ago, the first place animal got considerably less than that.

Lincoln Boswall, Dunstaffnage brought one heifer to the fair and took a second place with her.

CHANGE IN PLACING

The best udder class in the Ayrshire breed turned up an In Oland and A. MacRae and Son stood one and two against all breeds a few days ago. But Wednesday the Oland cow was third and the MacRae cow, Fairview Burton's Melody was fourth.

The explanation is that the former breed udder class was confined to cows that had completed at least three production records with average of 28 breed class average — that is vapor lighting be installed at Read's corner. Another member suggested that otherwise a traffic hazard would be the result. The meeting was critical of the present traffic patterns which is being put in at this point.

Claude Ives, in reporting for the marine and transport committee, was critical of the equity in speed but not in rates for the different methods in shipping goods by rail.

It was stated that the completed harbor dredging project resulted in a new depth of 23 feet at low tide. The meeting was told that a map of the new channels since the dredging job was completed last spring is now available.

PARKING

The open-town parking situation came under review and Creelman McArthur said that it was "not exactly at a standstill". He said that a lease for a property near the CNR station has been obtained, and that once another hurdle is overcome, the parking problem should be solved.

Local participation in APEC should be increased, Earl Cannon told the meeting. It is time we try to revive our interest and participation in APEC, he stated.

He added that nearly all the island directors on APEC are from Charlottetown. Mr. Cannon and Cyril Leard of Alberton were the only delegates from this area, he commented.

PARKS

Mr. Cannon stated that a strong representation from this area approached the provincial government a few years back to establish provincial parks here. He said that the present government should be approached. It was recommended that the Linkletter park be extended in Summerside area.

A committee of three was set up to look into the matter. They are Earl Cannon, Horace McFarlane, and Charles Linkletter.

Support was indicated for a west Prince National Park project as well.

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—An Israeli newspaper says the memoirs of Swedish Maj.-Gen. Carl von Horn, former commander of United Nations peacekeeping forces, show he has a talent for writing cheap novels.

The independent evening newspaper Maariv says in an editorial: "Especially loathsome and

The Scholarship is awarded to a Maritime student who is studying for a Degree of Doctor of Optometry, and is valued at $300 per year for four years, based on proficiency.

Before entering the College of Optometry, Mr. Harding took first year engineering at the University of New Brunswick, after graduating with honors from Fredericton High School and Marystville School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon G. Harding, formerly of Charlottetown, and the grandson of Mrs. Gavin R. Harding of Charlottetown.

North Koreans Ambush Yanks

SEUL (AP)—North Koreans were reported by American authorities to have wiped out from ambush an eight-man patrol of the United States 2nd Infantry Division south of the armistice line just eight hours before U.S. President Johnson left South Korea Wednesday for Washington.

Killed were six American soldiers and a South Korean on duty with them.

"Putting matters in this way the 'mediator' has proved that he may have perhaps a certain talent for writing cheap novels... but it is very doubtful if he succeeded in showing himself as a decent man."

Von Horn, who commanded UN troops in the Congo, Palestine and Yemen, published his 400-page memoirs Soldiers of Peace in Stockholm Monday.

The memoirs contain a sweeping indictment of the UN which von Horn alleged is riddled with espionage and corruption.

The object held by James Mallet of Clearspring is an Idaho potato which was dug on the farm of Frank Mac-

SUMMERSIDE—The monthly meeting of the executive council of the Summerside board of trade was held here last night with president Roy Johnston in the chair.

Present at the meeting were Bernard McCabe, Horace McFarlane, George Smallman, Francis MacQuarrie, Russell Phaneuf, Creelman McArthur, Earl Cannon, Charles Linkletter, Claude Ives, Howard Waite, and George Clarke.

The meeting was advised that a past president had been overlooked when the list was drawn up for presentations a month ago. George Murtari was president of the board, according to new information, around the year 1930.

HOUSING

A letter was read from an American requesting information on the availability of houses and apartments for rent in the Summerside area. Local concerns have been informed and return letters are slated to go out soon.

A letter was read from the Alberton Board of trade regarding an alternative and more scenic route to the western part of the county.

Mr. Linkletter said that he felt the board should continue to endorse the efforts of these boards of trade in this regard. Apparently the road would be an extension of lady slipper drive.

Mr. Smallman, a director on the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, represented the Summerside and Charlottetown boards of trade at the annual meeting in Edmonton recently.

He told the board that he had been appointed to the national policy committee at the meeting, and he stated that this committee brought in resolutions to the meeting for approval.

FERRIES RESOLUTION

Mr. Smallman and Mr. Johnston attended a meeting of the directors of the Maritime Board of trade in Moncton, and president Johnston reported that Charlottetown Board had presented a resolution on the ferries.

Mr. Johnston said that the resolution—which was passed by the Maritime board—was forwarded to Ottawa asking that an agreement be made with the labor unions that the ferry would maintain service during a strike.

Some discussion took place on the merits of such a resolution but no action was taken by the local board.

Mr. Johnston told the meeting that a brief presented by the Summerside board and jointly with the Charlottetown board had been sent to B.B.G. regarding alternate television coverage. Excepting acknowledgement of the brief, no further reports had come on it.

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS

Mr. Waite reported on Christmas lighting. He said that the lighting system proposed would provide 25 lights, and at too high a cost. He said that an alternate design is being contemplated. A meeting of the lighting is scheduled tonight.

Mr. Johnston said that he was quite satisfied with the design proposed, but that the cost was prohibitive and there weren't enough lights.

Mr. Linkletter suggested that a letter be written to the town asking for action on the industrial development committee.

TOURIST BUREAU

Mr. MacQuarrie spoke on the tourist activities and said that it had been recommended to leave the final grading at the bureau until the spring. He said that a suggestion of a salt water fountain near the bureau should be explored. He said there would be less cost since a hole is already dug.
